EUROPE FACES NEW CRISES

WHOLE TOWN UP IN ARMS AT QUIZ BY LABOR BOARD

Angered by Report Defending Reds.

Newberry, Mich., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Encouragement of communists and C. I. O. agitators by a trial examiner for the National Labor Relations board has aroused the population of Newberry. Support of the Reds is contained in the labor board examiner's report of findings against the Newberry Lumber and Chemical company after a hearing sponsored by the C. I. O. in behalf of eight discharged lumber mill workers.

Newberry, scene of uprising against C. I. O., is located by arrow.

Townspeople say the report is ridiculous. They want none of the C. I. O. and insist they are not going to permit the C. I. O. to organize the employés of the lumber and chemical company which number from 350 to 500 men, depending on the season of the year.

Start of the Trouble.

In order to tell the story of Newberry's experiences with the C. I. O. and the labor board, it is necessary to reccunt events of the last year and a half.

Townspeople first showed their resentment against the tactics of the C. I. O. in June, 1937, when a group of twenty-five agitators appeared in Newberry and demanded that the mill, blast furnace and wood alcohol plant be closed until their demands were met. Employés and citizens chased the twenty-five out of Newberry and almost to the Luce county line.

When the agitators left they said they would be back the next day with reinforcements. Soon 200 arrived from Munising and the lumber camps of Alger county, in the upper peninsula. When the mob tried to enter the town it was met by several hundred townsmen and driven out. The agitators never again attempted to enter Newberry.

8 Workers Forced to Flee.

At the time of the second rout, it was learned that eight employés of the mill did not take part in the chase. Angry townsmen started for the mill to chase these men out of town. A friend warned them. They fled to their homes. Then a sawmill crew employed by the company warned Philip S. Hamilton, general manager, they would not permit rehiring of the eight men who, the loyal workers said, were communists.

After chasing the eight alleged Reds out of the mill, the aroused workers decided to wreck the hall in which communists had made their headquarters. A. L. Fayles, counsel for the company, heard of the plan and tried to stop the destruction. He was pushed aside.

The two-story frame building was badly damaged. All furnishings, including pictures of Josef Stalin, communist dictator of Russia, were ruined.

Workers Well Satisfied.

Prior to the descent of the C. I. O. agitators, the lumber company had experienced no labor trouble. Infrequent disputes between workers and the management were settled by representatives of a company union. Workers were satisfied with wages and hours and a majority of them were home owners.

Most workers and the management were surprised when the eight communists chased from the mill announced that they were members of the C. I. O. Lumber and Sawmill Workers' union. Then the C. I. O. obtained the hearing that resulted in the resented report.

In the report townsmen who took part in routing the agitators were denounced as riotous trouble makers and without respect for the rights of others. This charge is resented particularly because the town was at peace until the agitators arrived.

Order Communists Rehired.

Another finding of the examiner recommended that the company rehire the eight communists and pay

Thieves' Mart Yields $10,000 in Loot; Jail 8

Police squads early yesterday broke into a large residence at 540 Melrose street and seized fur coats, dresses, and other articles valued at more than $10,000. The place, it is charged, was used as a clearing house by shoplifters. Many buyers had been advised to go there for rare Christmas bargains.

Four men and four women were arrested. The leader of the band is William Donohue, a former convict, who was a pal of the notorious John Dillinger in the Michigan City, Ind., prison. The others are Harry Bjorklund, William Gilbert, Thomas Derry, Miss Barbara Wayne, Mrs. Peggy Winn, Miss Rae Truett, and Mrs. Anna Smith.

Seven Claim to Be Lodgers.

Donohue was the lessee of the house, which has twenty rooms. He refused to talk. The others said they had nothing to do with the thieves' market and were only roomers. Sergt. John Noonan of the detective bureau, who led the raiding squads, said their story was not convincing.

"When we arrived with a search warant," he said, "the doors were locked. We smashed our way in. Some of the occupants had gone to bed rather hastily, but stolen property was found in nearly every room.

"Some of the merchandise was concealed behind secret panels. The choicest articles were in a small attic under an old-fashioned cupola. There were closets within closets. We are going back tomorrow to tap all walls in search of other secret places that might contain valuables."

Find Index of Customers.

The sergeant said he discovered a card index containing many names and telephone numbers. Some appear to be shoplifters and the others customers or prospective customers, he said.

Still being sought is Donohue's wife, Emma. Police said she has been advising patrons in west side taverns that wonderful bargains in furs and other garments could be obtained in the Melrose street house.

While the police were in the place several telephone calls from prospective customers were received. A policewoman answered and urged them to come at once, before everything was disposed of. Two responded. They promised to assist the police in the prosecution of the shoplifters and were released.

"Apparently the gang's idea was to work fast," said Noonan. "Donohue had not been in the house long. Most of the coats and dresses still bore store tags. In some instances spurious labels, calculated to enhance prices, appeared to have been sewed in garments."

Donohue, who is 36 years old, has a long police record. He was sentenced to the Bridewell in 1925 and again in 1929 on charges of assault. In 1930 he was tried in Indiana for passing a worthless check and sent to Michigan City prison. He was discharged two years later.

CHRISTMAS TREE BILL OF CHICAGO TO TOTAL $350,000

A third of a million Christmas trees—one tree for every three and a half families—will be used in Chicago this Christmas, the Chicago Association of Commerce estimated yesterday.

Chicago's trees, with a total value of around $350,000, come principally from Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota, but nearly all states along the Canadian border contribute. The nation as a whole, the association said, uses 9 million trees each Christmas season.

Evanston discarded its traditional lighted Christmas tree this year. Instead a tree has been erected in Fountain square which is covered with white paint. Floodlights are trained on it. A huge star tops the decoration.

BLACKIE STEALS HATS OFF HEADS BUT ALL LIKE HIM

The folks out near Sheridan road and Addison street probably would be upset if you should tell them a corvus brachyrynchos is lurking in the neighborhood. But if you explained that a c. b. is a crow, they would say, "O, you mean Blackie." Blackie arrived sometime in September and has become quite friendly, especially with the children.

He teases them by snatching their gloves and caps, but he always brings the things back after he has had his fun. Blackie has learned that there are scraps of meat waiting for him on one back porch and he reports there regularly, according to Mrs. J. L. Kreda of 512 Addison street. If the meat isn't forthcoming immediately the crow pecks on the window until he is fed. But he doesn't like grown-ups he doesn't know.

Gaston Means Is Dead; Lindy KidnapHoaxer

Springfield, Mo., Dec. 12 [Monday].—(AP)—Gaston B. Means, 58 years old, who perpetrated a cruel Lindbergh ransom hoax on Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, died early today in the U. S. Medical center for federal prisoners here.

He had lingered near death of a heart ailment nearly a week following a gall bladder operation last Tuesday.

He was serving a fifteen year sentence for defrauding Mrs. McLean.

DREAMS LEAD TO TROUBLE.

No more fanciful—and discredited—figure ever played the headlines than Gaston Bullock Means. It was his destiny to imagine great dreams and then to attempt to translate them into realities. Only his dreams, judicial records show, almost always were tainted.

Professionally, Means was a detective. Actually, he was an adventurer. He engaged in enterprises that included alleged murder, a fake will dealing with millions of dollars, bootleg booze, and war time espionage. The climatic finale of his restless career sprang out of the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby. Means went to prison for perpetrating a hoax in that case.

Means was a native of North Carolina, descended from an old, respected family that gave the state a governor, and that claimed kinship to the Theodore Roosevelts through the Bullock strain. Means himself, received a good education.

The nation's first acquaintance with Means came in 1917. At the time he was manager and adviser for Mrs. Mead King, widow of James C. King, a Chicago millionaire. King died in 1905, leaving some $2,000,000 to establish an old men's home in Chicago. Means had met Mrs. King through her sister, Mrs. Mary C. Melvin.

On Aug. 29, 1917, Mrs. King was mysteriously shot to death near Concord, N. C., while in Means' company. He said she had accidentally killed herself. About that time it became known in Chicago that Means had possession of an alleged new will drawn up by King five days before his death in 1905. This will purported to leave his fortune to Mrs. King, and nothing to the old men's home. If authentic, the will would have meant the end of the home, and given the estate to Mrs. King's sister, Mrs. Melvin.

Illinois authorities charged the will was a fraud, and that Means had murdered Mrs. King in furtherance

HITLER PREPARES DRIVE ON UKRAINE AS NAZIS WIN ELECTION IN MEMEL

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEMEL, Lithuania, Dec. 11.—Memel Germans tonight claimed an overwhelming victory in an election for a new diet [parliament]. Though complete results will not be known for several days, Nazi leaders predicted they had won at least twenty-six out of the twenty-nine seats.

Robert Sellmer, American beaten by Nazis. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

German inhabitants of the territory, which was annexed by Lithuania fifteen years ago, expressed confidence that Memel will return to Germany unless the Lithuanian government at Kaunas grants demands for complete cultural and economic independence. They already possess a great measure of political autonomy. President Antanas Smetona of Lithuania has opened direct negotiations with Berlin.

Dr. Ernest Neumann, a veterinarian and known as the "Horse Doctor Fuehrer" of the Germans, announced he was "very satisfied" with the election.

95 Per Cent Go to Polls.

"The voting shows the people cannot be suppressed with a policy of force and truncheons," he said. "We have begged for our rights for fifteen years and we will beg no more."

While 95 per cent of the 152,000 inhabitants went to the polls, the Lithuanian government issued an extraordinary decree for the "protection of the state." This is a modified form of martial law. It was declared on the heels of last night's rioting against Smetona.

The government said the decree, which applies to Kaunas and the surrounding territory, was issued because of activities of the opposition of the extreme right. The government expressed the fear these activities might be used on behalf of a "foreign country" to endanger Lithuanian integrity. Political offenders face fines of $900 and three months' imprisonment.

Demand President Quit.

Political enemies of President Smetona are attempting to oust him from office. Students at Kaunas university, Dotnava Agricultural college, and the Memel Business College and Teachers' seminary declared a strike. They passed resolutions demanding that Smetona and the cabinet, headed by Father V. Mironas, resign and urged the recall of former Premier Augustinas Waldemaras, who is in exile.

The Kaunas censor forbade the press to publish news of demonstrations against Smetona. The newspapers instead reported that the students were demonstrating against the admission of more Jewish refugees from Germany. Lithuania has taken in 4,500 Jews.

The Memel election was orderly. Robert Sellmer, American free lance reporter from Milwaukee, Wis., was the only casualty. He was beaten by a patrol of three uniformed Nazis when he failed to return the Hitler salute. His assailants turned him over to the police. Sellmer said he was again beaten by the policemen. The reporter said they called him an "American Jew." Sellmer does not speak German. He was returning to his hotel from a reception arranged by the Lithuanians for forty newspaper correspondents who came to Memel to cover the elections.

Lithuanian Banks Hit.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Dec. 11.—Recent withdrawals of money from Memel as a result of talk about a union with Germany today were said to exceed $3,600,000. Lithuanian banks were reported to be seriously embarrassed.

At Kaunas there was talk about diverting Lithuanian trafic from the Baltic port of Memel to another port where the political and consequently the economic situation is more stable. Lithuania, it was said, plans to use the Latvian port of Lietaja as an alternative route for exports. Protests from Berlin already have been reported at Kaunas.

BRITISH LEADERS FEAR ANOTHER COUP IN FEBRUARY

Intends to Whittle New State from Three Nations.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 11.—Fears that a serious crisis is boiling up in Europe and will explode in February were expressed in London tonight. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is expected to make an important announcement on Great Britain's foreign policy in a speech before the Foreign Press association in London Tuesday.

British political circles are reconciled to the prospect of Reichsfuehrer Hitler grabbing Memel when he pleases without intervention from the four guarantors of the Memel statute—Britain, France, Italy, and Japan. Government advisers are more concerned in trying to figure out the sequence of the successive Nazi coups.

Churchill Visions Big Push.

Winston Churchill, veteran Conservative statesman and former first lord of the admiralty, voiced general fears that Hitler is preparing a big push to the east in Europe while his Berlin-Rome axis partner, Premier Mussolini, is stirring up trouble in the Mediterranean. Churchill, addressing a league of nations union meeting at Chingford, Essex, said:

"Since Munich and the destruction of Czecho-Slovakia, Hitler has had so many choices that his trouble is which to take first—whether it would be Memel or Danzig, whether he will stir up the Polish Ukrainians against Poland or the Transylvania population against Rumania. No one can tell, but everything points to an early resumption of Nazi aggression and no concerted resistance is being made against it."

Should Germany annex Memel, it is conceded here that the existence of Danzig as a free state and port guaranteed by the league also virtually would be ended.

Army Chiefs Cautioned.

British government circles, however, are chiefly interested as to when Hitler intends to tighten the screws on Poland for concessions in the Polish corridor. Some diplomatic observers believe Germany will seek to expand and consolidate her ascendancy over the Danubian and Balkan areas without further delay.

German army chiefs, according to advices reaching London, have been warned by Berlin to stand by to support some fresh diplomatic action in February.

Chamberlain in defining the British policy before the foreign press correspondents is expected to take a firm stand.

While reiterating his ambition for a general European settlement and an era of political and economic understanding, the prime minister, it is indicated, will warn Hitler and Mussolini that Britain has made a contribution to peace and now awaits reciprocal gestures from them.

Intends to Whittle New State from Three Nations.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 11.—Information received in Paris by THE TRIBUNE from Ruthenia, Czecho-Slovakia's easternmost province, reveals that Germany's drive toward the establishment of a Ukrainian state made up of territory controled by Poland, Rumania and soviet Russia, is nearing the stage of execution.

German agents are in Ruthenia and are using that autonomous province as a base of agitation. They are promising Ukrainians on both sides of the border—to the north in Poland and to the south in Rumania—that the day of liberation is near.

Slavic Expert Engineers Scheme.

The chief manipulator is the Berlin foreign office's Slavic expert. Last summer he was in Prague where he dictated the vital steps in the Sudeten agitation. Later he was seen in Bratislava where he brought about almost complete German control over Slovakia. He and his subordinates make constant trips to Poland to confer with Ukrainians in Lwow, Tarnopol, and Stanislau.

The Ukrainians in Poland already have taken a preliminary step in the campaign with a demand on the Polish parliament for autonomy. Naturally they expect the Poles will be no more conciliatory than the Czechs were with the Sudeten Germans last summer. The steps in the present campaign apparently will follow the same general lines as those used by the Nazis in Austria and Czecho-Slovakia.

The biggest complication facing Germany is that the so-called Ukrainian territory spreads out over four countries — Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Rumania, and Russia. With the last three, any attempt to liberate the Ukraine probably would mean war and Germany is not anxious to have them form an alliance.

"Divide and Conquer" Policy.

Hence, Germany insists that Poland should not have a common frontier with Hungary. That would bar Germany's way to the Polish and Russian Ukraine.

German strategy will be a "divide and conquer" policy. The Nazis will continue their agitation among Poland's 6,000,000 Ukrainians. When the problem is liquidated in Poland Germany will be ready for its biggest step—the taking away of south Russia and joining it with a small section of southeastern Poland and a fringe of Rumania to form a new state.

Poland thus appears to France as the next victim of German plans for disintegrating the present status of Europe.

French diplomats expect that as soon as Polish resistance to Ukranian demands stiffens, Germany will raise the question of the Polish corridor, former German territory given to Poland under the Versailles treaty to provide an outlet to the sea; Danzig, a free city under league of nations mandate, and upper Silesia, a part of which was ceded by Germany to Poland.

See Poland Reduced in Size.

No one here will be surprised if within a year Poland, like Czecho-Slovakia, has chunks lopped off and is reduced to a territory solely inhabited by Poles. Since Poland has no illusions about the effectiveness of help she might expect from Russia, the republic is expected to succumb as did Czecho-Slovakia—which until the last minute had illusions about Russia.

Polish diplomats are sounding out the western powers on how much help Poland can expect when Nazi agitation really becomes serious. Until now the Poles have received scant comfort from France.

The French alliance with Poland still is valid. However, the same factors which prevented France from going to the aid of Czecho-Slovakia last December are expected to prevent aid to Poland. The main consideration is public sentiment which could not be aroused to enthusiasm to keep the Sudeten Germans under Czech rule. It has no more enthusiasm for keeping the Ukrainians under Polish rule.

Pact Ties French Hands.

In addition, the newly signed Franco-German "no war" pact virtually ties French hands. The French are seeing the significance of Germany's eagerness to get the pact signed before the Ukranian question turns into another crisis. The agreement and the Italian campaign for French territory will keep France out of central Europe, observers insist.

The French see themselves as playing for the first time in centuries the rôle of spectators at a drama which will involve major territorial changes in the map of Europe. Their interest is in watching the German technique in breaking through to the Black sea, which will result if Germany liberates the Ukraine and brings it under German domination.

Ruthenia Hails Germany.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

CHUST, Ruthenia Dec. 11.—"Ruthenia owes her freedom to the reich and it will eternally be grateful," Father Augustav Volosin, premier of Ruthenia, said today. His words were interpreted as an indication of how German influence is increasing here, strategically and economically.

A similar situation already exists in Slovakia, where the autonomous government is inaugurating an anti-Semitic policy along German lines and is pressing the central government to adopt a similar policy.

See Threat of Secession.

In controling these two provinces—Ruthenia and Slovakia—Germany practically controls the entire country. Even should Prague hesitate to yield to German economic or ideological pressure, the Slovaks and Ruthenians probably would even threaten secession to Germany to force it to yield.

Translations of articles appearing in the official National Socialist [Nazi] Voelkischer Beobachter attacking Poland for its alleged violation of the Munich spirit in forcing Czecho-Slovakia to cede purely Slovak areas and Hungary and for its alleged oppression of Slovaks, Ruthenians, and Czechs before the world war, are being distributed.

German Officers Present.

A number of German military observers are reported to be in Ruthenia. It has been learned that Ruthenia's defense against Hungarian irregulars three weeks ago was directed by German staf officers in collaboration with Czech and Ruthenian officers.

German economic experts are investigating Ruthenian resources and are seeking to abolish Jewish enterprises and management. Furthermore, to develop Ruthenian communications, Germans have offered large credits for construction of roads and railroads connecting with the rest of Czecho-Slovakia. German observers have been seen in various parts of the province correcting maps.

Nazis Plan New Ukraine State

Germany is preparing to begin its drive to create a new Ukrainian state under the domination of Adolf Hitler. Berlin intends to establish this state from parts of Poland, Rumania, and soviet Russia and Ruthenia, autonomous province of Czecho-Slovakia. Shaded lines indicate approximate boundaries of Hitler's proposed Ukrainia.

NATIONAL LABOR PARTY SET UP BY CZECH LEFTISTS

The group adopted a program which said the party would refrain from practicing "destructive opposition," but rather desired to coöperate with the government party of national unity.

The party platform said Czechs would fare badly under anything but a democratic government and that therefore authority should rest on agreement instead of fear and suppression. It added the party stood for social equality, civil freedom, and freedom of expression and conscience.

The 900 delegates attending the party congress paid tribute to the late Thomas G. Masaryk, first president of the republic.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Violet Sellmer, the mother of Robert Sellmer, American free-lance writer who was reported beaten today in Memel, Lithuania, suffered from shock tonight when informed of the incident.

A family friend said Sellmer, who is 25 years old and a Milwaukee resident, had for several years contributed regularly to top notch national humor magazines. He was graduated from the Milwaukee University school and attended Dartmouth, going to Europe a year and a half ago. The friend said members of the family are "good Congregationalists."

GERMANS STAND BEHIND ITALIANS, FRENCH WARNED

Paris Told It Has Erred in Defying Rome.

ROME, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Virginio Gayda, who often speaks Premier Mussolini's mind, today warned France that in failing to consider Italy's claims on Tunisia, Djibouti, and the Suez canal she was committing "guilty and fateful errors."

Virginio Gayda.

Besides agitation over Tunisia, France's North African protectorate, and Djibouti, French Somaliland terminal of the railroad to Addis Ababa, Italian clamor has been raised for a share in control of the Suez canal.

Gayda accused France of diplomatic errors such as "carried the drama of Prague to its final epilogue"—the Munich accord and dismemberment of Czecho-Slovakia.

Editor Cites "Errors."

"The errors committed by the government of Prague," the Fascist editor wrote in the newspaper La Voce D'Italia, "were of three kinds. They were: Blind intransigeance, a belief that Germany was isolated and intrigues on every front and with every means to create alarm over the trend of events in Czecho-Slovakia."

Drawing a parallel between Czecho-Slovakia's resistance to German demands and France's resistance to the Fascist clamor, Gayda declared:

"Intransigeance arose at once in Paris against the Italian claims, even before they were defined in spirit and substance.

"Intransigeance does not coincide with an intelligent policy. It is only the means of changing a movement's direction or of reinforcing it—never of halting it."

Says Nazis Back Italy.

Gayda disputed French assertions that Italy's aspirations were not supported by Germany. Not only has such a stand been denied by official German sources, he said, but it will, "as in last October, be denied by facts if events should have to quicken their course."

The editor also accused France of attempting to create the impression that an aggressor is at her door by spreading false rumors regarding Italian troop movements. In the Czecho-Slovak situation, Gayda reminded, false rumors "wounded the German honor and caused it to oppose any compromise."

[Reports in Paris Thursday of Italian troop movement in Spain near the Fench frontier, including artillery and motorized units, caused concern in France.]

La Voce also published reports of new "outrages" against Italians in Tunisia, including attacks on Italian citizens and buildings.

The Italian community there was reported to have organized patrols to protect its countrymen and property in fulfillment of an earlier warning that "legitimate measures of defense would be taken."

Form "United Front."

TUNIS, Tunisia, Dec. 11.—(AP)—French supporters formed a "United Front" today to demand suppression of Italian propaganda in the protectorate of Tunisia.

The movement was directed principally against the Italian language newspaper here, "Fasciste Unione." A joint resolution demanded that the publication, which supports Italian colonial aspirations in Tunisia, be suppressed.

Delegates from French, Arab, and Jewish war veterans' organizations as well as from all political groups, extending from extreme right to extreme left, formed the "United Front" at a combined meeting.

They decided to decorate the capital for one week with French flags and bunting in the French colors as a demonstration of Tunisia's patriotism for France and opposition to Italy.

50,000 Rally Behind France.

PARIS, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Representatives of three French-Italian associations with a combined membership of more than 50,000 voted today to "oppose attempts to make Tunisia, Corsica, and Nice a pretext for war against France."

The resolution was approved by the People's Italian union, the committee for Franco-Italian friendship and the Italian Association of War Veterans.

Romano Cocchi, speaker at a Paris massmeeting, sounded the keynote.

"Italian emigrants and the Italian people are hostile to anti-French demands, for, between Italy and France, there are no territorial problems to be settled either in Tunisia, in Corsica or elsewhere," Cocchi declared.

CARDINAL ISSUES STERN REBUKE TO FATHER COUGHLIN

He Doesn't Speak for the Church, Says Mundelein.

Cardinal George Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, yesterday issued a strong rebuke to Father Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit, whose radio broadcasts on Jews and communism have provoked widespread controversy.

Bishop Sheil.

"As an American citizen, Father Coughlin has the right to express his personal views on current events, but he is not authorized to speak for the Catholic church nor does he represent the doctrin or sentiments of the church," said a statement of the cardinal read over a coast to coast network of the National Broadcasting company.

Read by Bishop Sheil.

The message was read by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil of the Chicago diocese. He said requests from all parts of the country had been made to the cardinal for a statement on the Coughlin broadcasts, which linked Jews with communism. Bishop Sheil's entire broadcast took only a minute and a half and his actual radio message consisted of one sentence, taking only a few seconds to deliver.

Despite the brevity of the statement, the seriousness of the rebuke was emphasized in the fact that the cardinal went outside of his own church area to administer the reprimand.

Action Is Informal.

Churchmen said that the action of the cardinal was informal. Any official discipline would have to come through the archdiocese of Detroit, in which Father Coughlin's parish lies, it was said.

Widespread controversy on Father Coughlin's Nov. 20 broadcast, "Persecution—Jewish and Christian," has caused a number of radio stations to refuse his program unless advance copy was submitted for their approval. This he refused to do. Two Chicago stations were among those suspending the Coughlin broadcasts, which have been made recently over forty-six stations independent of any of the major national chains.

Tells Conditions in Europe.

Earlier in the afternoon, Cardinal Mundelein spoke before 2,500 members attending the annual meeting of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, a charitable organization.

Commenting on his recent trip to Rome, where he visited Pope Pius, Cardinal Mundelein said, if his audience had seen the tragedies in Europe which he encountered, they, too, would return home as better Americans.

"No matter how poor conditions at home may be," he said, "we are still far better off than nations that must exist on their own limited resources in order to maintain great standing armies."

HELD FOR AUTO THEFT.

Two young men, riding in an automobile that had been stolen from Jorgen Jorgenson, 2611 Newland avenue, were arrested yesterday in Skokie road west of Waukegan. They are Bergen Peterson, 17, of 3500 North Hirsch avenue, and William Hildebrand, 22, of 3243 North Hirsch avenue. They were held in the Lake county jail.

G. O. P. Possibilities

(Story in adjoining column.)

Mrs. Dwight H. Green, wife of former United States district attorney in Chicago. He may be chosen by G. O. P. party leaders as their candidate for mayor.

STENCH BOMBS HURLED.

Stench bombs were thrown through the windows of groceries owned by Nello Lucchesi, 236 Division street, and Mrs. Nellie DeJoy, 2003 Race avenue, last night. Property damage totaled $175.

DWIGHT H. GREEN FIRST CHOICE OF G. O. P. FOR MAYOR

Won Fame in Sending Capone to Prison.

Dwight H. Green, former district attorney who sent Al Capone to the federal penitentiary, is now first choice of the Chicago Republican organization for mayor.

Although leaders sidestepped queries on this yesterday, observers forecast that a formal indorsement will be given Green today at a meeting of Republican city committee's sub-group. Chairman Edward F. Moore, Secretary Robert C. Rohn, and ten others make up this group.

Way Paved for Action.

The way for such action was smoothed Saturday by the withdrawal of Judge Oscar F. Nelson of the Superior court and Charles S. Dewey, who was the G. O. P. nominee for congress in the 9th district in the last election. Both had been mentioned as possible candidates and each would have commanded heavy support.

Green has not yet decided definitly to make the race, but his friends believe he would be willing if the party makes it plain he will have united organization help.

"The question is open," he said yesterday. "There are some problems to be worked out before I can decide."

It was learned that many organization Republicans, heartened by the showing in the last election, and looking forward to 1940 as well as to the mayoralty race next spring, have been busy gathering a campaign fund.

Appointed in 1932.

Green, who is now only 41 years old, was appointed district attorney by President Hoover in 1932. Besides Capone, he prosecuted and convicted many other gangsters, among them Frank Nitti, Terry Druggan, Frank Lake, Murray Humphries, and Hymie Levin. He resigned early in 1935. In 1936 he declined an invitation to run for the Republican nomination for state's attorney.

Since his retirement from office he has built up a good law practice. He is married and the father of two children.

It is expected that Mayor Kelly's attitude toward making the race for another term will be settled at a meeting of the Democratic city committee tomorrow. Ward committeemen probably will make their sentiments known at the meeting, and there is little doubt that resolutions will be adopted asking the mayor to run. So far he has refused to commit himself.

Quitting Movies

JOAN BLONDELL.

Hollywood, Dec. 11.— (AP) —Dick Powell and his wife, Joan Blondell, announced today they are quitting Warner Brothers, where they have been employed since they entered motion pictures.

"We are taking a long vacation early next year," said Powell, "and after that is finished we'll make our plans. We'll probably free lance."

Miss Blondell said they had not decided where they would go on the vacation, "but it will be a long way from movie sets, possibly Europe, because we haven't been there."

MURDER TRIAL DEFENDANT KILLS HIMSELF IN CELL

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Decasto E. Mayer, who was on trial for murder, strangled himself to death in his cell in the King county jail here this afternoon.

Mayer and Mrs. Mary E. Smith, who says she is his mother, were co-defendants charged with slaying James E. Bassett of Annapolis, Md., ten years ago. The state completed its case against the two yesterday after presenting evidence for two weeks, and the defense testimony was to have been opened tomorrow.

Mayer killed himself by stuffing wads of paper in his throat. He also had fastened his belt tightly about his head. Jailers said he had been dead an hour when they found him.

In Prison Ten Years.

Mayer and Mrs. Smith had been in prison for ten years. They were arrested Sept. 14, 1928, in Oakland, Cal., while driving Bassett's automobile. Many of his personal effects were in their possession. At that time Mayer was sentenced to life imprisonment as an habitual criminal and Mrs. Smith was sentenced to serve ten years for possessing stolen property.

Bassett disappeared Sept. 5, 1928, in Seattle. He was a civilian employée of the United States navy and had been assigned to a new job in Honolulu. He had offered his automobile for sale before leaving for his new post, and Mayer had asked him to call at his home to bargain for the car.

Last May, when Mrs. Smith was about to be released from prison, she sent a message to her son urging him to confess the slaying of Bassett, whose body never was found. She also said Mayer had killed two other men and a woman. None of these bodies ever was found, either.

Tells Trooper of Slaying.

Mrs. Smith told a state trooper that Mayer beat Bassett to death and dismembered his body. Mayer had confessed the killing soon after his arrest, but had repudiated the confession.

The two were brought to trial on the murder charge on the strength of reasonable proof that murder had been committed. Their counsel was confident of acquittal, because the state had little evidence other than Mrs. Smith's story and the fact that she and Mayer had Bassett's property in their possession when they were arrested.

LIQUOR STORE OWNER ROBBED.

Morris Bleicher, 52 years old, was robbed of $95 and $10 worth of liquor in his liquor store at 3624 Irving Park road by an armed bandit last night.

Shoplifters' Den

Twenty room residence at 540 Melrose street where merchandise valued at $10,000, allegedly stolen from loop stores, was seized in a raid yesterday. Four men and four women were arrested.

According to police, shoplifters had concentrated their loot in the place. There were closets within closets as revealed here by Sergt. Arthur Murphy. Merchandise was also found in the attic.

Two Go on Trial Today for Killing WPA Official

Benjamin Simons and Walter Wielgorecki, both WPA workers, will go on trial before a jury in Judge Benjamin P. Epstein's Criminal court today for the slaying of Carl W. Cummings, WPA supervisor, in the Calumet Park village hall on Nov. 11. Cummings was beaten to death in a fight alleged to have been started when Cummings discharged the two men.

CROATS FIRED ON IN JUGO-SLAVIAN VOTE DISORDER

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 11.—Today's elections passed off with only one serious incident reported up to tonight. Police fired on crowds in several Croat villages, wounding a number of persons.

Government spokesmen declared that except in Croatia and Dalmatia the government won between 60 and 70 per cent of the votes. In Croatia roughly 90 per cent of the votes went to Vladmir Matchek's united opposition. The government radio gave an early partial return of 86,000 pro-government votes and 16,000 for the opposition.

In Belgrade two hours before the polls closed the government had 34,000 votes against 10,000 for the opposition. The Fascist group failed throughout the country and in Belgrade received but 392 votes. In Zagreb, Matchek's opposition won more than 40,000 votes, an increase of some 10,000 since the last elections. There were wild scenes of rejoicing in the Croat capital tonight.

Japan to Increase Capital of Commercial Air Line

SHANGHAI, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Takeo Saito, president of the Japan Aviation company, announced today the air line's capitalization soon would be increased to 100,000,000 yen [$27,200,000]. Saito said the new financing would be used to extend the company's services between Tokio, Shanghai, Taihoku, capital of Formosa, and Hsinking, capital of Manchukuo, and for the purchase of five new twenty-four passenger transport planes.

TWO BLIND GIRLS LOOK AHEAD WITH THEIR DOGS' EYES

Trained Guides Brought from New Jersey.

Two blind Chicago girls brought new pairs of eyes back to Chicago yesterday. One came by train, the other by plane. Each had with her a trained dog guide from the Seeing Eye institute in Morrison, N. J.

Ordinarily only German shepherds are trained at the famous institute. But Miss Marian Hotch of 4207 Addison street, brought back a boxer, a short, square-built tan dog with a face like a Boston bull. Miss Bernice Clifton, 132 North Humphrey avenue, Oak Park, however, was guided by Karlo, a German shepherd, as she descended from a United Airlines plane.

Miss Hotch, a smiling young soprano and dramatist, thought she, too, would have a shepherd, she admitted, but it proved unadaptable to her needs.

First Dog Too Frisky.

"I trained with one for two weeks," she said, "but she was too frisky. In order to gain her affection, I guess I spoiled her. I trained with this one — her name is Tabitha — three weeks.

"And isn't she beautiful?" turning sightless brown eyes toward her. "Isn't she cute? I love her."

In agreement with the Seeing Eye's regulations, Miss Hotch, who is 20, earned the $150 requisite to get a trained dog guide. Blind since early childhood, she attended the Illinois School for the Blind and MacMurray college at Jacksonville. She later attended the American Conservatory of Music here and the Goodman theater's school of dramatics, where she had a three year scholarship.

"Now, of course," she said happily, "I can do so much more."

Aids One in Business.

The airplane ride of Miss Clifton and her Karlo was the gift of the Oak Park Lions' club, a group of Oak Park business men, in tribute to her fortitude in becoming a business woman despite the handicap of blindness.

Two years ago, when in her middle 20s, she lost her sight. Undaunted by this, she began to cook jams, preserves, and jellies; to can them and pack them in bright, gay pots and jars. The Illinois Industrial School for the Blind at 1900 Marshall boulevard set up a special display of her produce. But now, she says, she can sell them herself.

"With Karlo," she explained, "I can establish a route and go around myself."

2 JEWS SHOT DEAD IN NEW BURST OF HOLY LAND STRIFE

JERUSALEM, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Two Jews were shot dead by unidentified gunmen near Haifa today, but most of the Holy Land appeared to have been subdued by British military forces who began a cleanup campaign against Arab rebels under a form of martial law announced on Oct. 18. Since Nov. 1 six Jews have been killed and fourteen wounded.

A British soldier was wounded today in an encounter with a band near Napoleon's mountain, southeast of Bethlehem. Meanwhile it was learned from reliable sources that four members of the Arab higher committee have been released from their Seychelles Island exile in the Indian ocean.

They were said to be en route to Beirut, Syria, for a conference with the grand mufti on plans for the forthcoming Arab-Jewish conference in London. The mufti has been barred by Britain from representing the Arabs at the meeting.

Wyoming Woman Loses Purse with $2,500 in Gems

Mrs. William L. Walls, of Cheyenne, Wyo., widow of a former attorney general of Wyoming, reported to police last night that she lost her purse containing nearly $2,500 in jewelry. She is visiting her sister, Mrs. Anna Tipton, 2052 Lincoln Park West. She went out to buy a magazine. On her way home she discovered that her purse was missing. In it were a diamond ring, valued at $2,250; a wedding ring, valued at $125, and $13.

REBEL THRUSTS TEST STRENGTH OF FOE'S LINES

HENDAYE, France, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Spanish government dispatches today reported increasing activities of rebel patrols in the Segre sector and predicted a new rebel campaign was imminent.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's field commanders, they said, apparently were testing government strength through skirmishes along the eastern front. Government military observers made plain, however, that they could not forecast when, where or toward what objective the new drive might be expected.

Barcelona reports said the rebels were completing "partial reorganization" of their field forces. This, with recent reports of Italian troop movements near the French frontier, strengthened the belief that Franco soon would launch a new offensive.

STATE HIGHWAY PATROL IS TOO SMALL FOR JOB

BY HAL FOUST.

Chicagoans who spend part of their week-ends driving on rural highways notice few police. They see road hogs or stop sign cheaters, and they have become accustomed to lack of trafic law enforcement.

Walter Williams.

Chief Walter Williams of the state police yesterday explained this condition. Of his total force of 350 men only 235 are available for patrol duty on the 13,000 miles of highway with 25,000 stop sign intersections. With the 235 divided into three shifts, no more than 78 will be patroling these 13,000 miles at any one time, although on busy week-ends he is able to muster 118 for simultaneous duty.

Room for Reform Seen.

This much of the chief's explanation is a plea for additional men to discipline and to educate automobile drivers. Further statistics indicate there might be room for managerial reforms. The 235 man patrol force spends an average of 25 per cent of its time on special details, funerals, weddings, and other escorts, as well as truck weighing assignments.

Of the 350 men on the force many are assigned to office and other special duties. These, with days off, reduce the force available for road patrol to 235 men.

Most of the state men are efficient policemen. A few owe their jobs to political sponsorship. They are not under civil service. The legislature two years ago refused to pass a civil service bill which would have perpetuated the jobs of the incumbents. The bill will be revived during the session convening next month in a form that would require incumbents, with reasonable credit for experience, to compete in examinations with aspirants.

Yesterday Supervising Captain Phil Renkosiak, commandant in the metropolitan area, toured Chicagoland roads with George Barton, Chicago Motor club engineer, and this reporter.

On broad pavements—Harlem and North avenues, and Roosevelt, La Grange, and Skokie roads—we passed drivers failing to keep to the outside lane. We didn't stop, because we wanted to cover much territory in a limited time.

39 Patrol Cars in District.

"In this metropolitan area of eight counties this afternoon,' said the captain, "we have thirty-nine patrol cars riding or watching dangerous intersections. They are distributed over 1,200 miles of state highway, so a motorist might drive all afternoon without seeing one of them."

"From all standards for efficient policing," said Mr. Barton, "it is obvious that you should have more patrolmen—after the men are under a good civil service."

State police expect drivers' licenses to help correct bad driving practices responsible for many accidents. The state police today will begin drivers' license examinations of those residents from outside Chicago whose qualifications were suspected by Secretary of State Hughes from statements written on the application blanks. Motorists who must take the tests will receive notice by mail.

Dies in U. S. Prison

Gaston B. Means, perpetrator of Lindbergh hoax, who died early today.

of the fraud. The clamor forced Means' trial in North Carolina on a murder charge. He predicted he would be acquitted. He was.

Means journeyed to Chicago in an attempt to have the alleged new will admitted to probate. Judge Henry Horner [now governor] heard the case. America was then participating in the war, and Means, for a time, rated headlines over stories of huge battles with his thrilling stories of espionage work for the imperial German government.

The will, Means related, he had found accidentally. He had delayed offering it for probate until now so he could collect proof. Judge Horner, on Dec. 13, 1919, rejected the will. The case was appealed to the Circuit court Judge Jesse A. Baldwin upheld Horner.

Accused Government Officials.

Means next turned up as a federal secret service agent, but was soon fired. In 1924 he appeared as the principal witness in the senate committee investigation into the activities of Attorney General Harry Daugherty and the Ohio gang. Ninety per cent of the scandalous tales told to the committee were told by Means. Years later Means admitted his stories were lies.

Means was sentenced to four years in prison for liquor law violations in New York in 1924.

No more was heard of Means until 1930. In that year there appeared a book called "The Strange Death of President Harding." It alleged that Mrs. Harding poisoned her President-husband because of a suspected romance with another woman. The book, packed with falsehoods, was shown to be the work of the nimble brained Means.

Gets 15 Years in Prison.

Another lull of two years followed. Then on March 1, 1932, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's son was kidnaped and murdered. On March 6 Means obtained $104,000 from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, Washington society matron, on his promise to restore the baby alive. He later tried to dupe her out of $35,000 more. The baby even then was dead.

Means was speedily unmasked. He was sentenced to fifteen years for swindling Mrs. McLean out of $104,000, and to two years more for trying to fleece her out of $35,000. Col. Lindbergh testified against Means. Judge J. M. Proctor, in sentencing Means, denounced him as having "capitalized on the sweetest and most tender sentiments of the human heart." Means went to prison.

Angered by Examiner's Defense of Reds.

them wages from June, 1937. The company was told to dissolve the local union, an organization over which critics of the board say the company has no control and could not dissolve under the labor act, since it is a labor organization set up by employés to represent them.

The examiner also recommended that the company be directed to rebuild the communist hall and refurnish it, although the destruction was committed against the pleas of the company's counsel. Owners of the hall had asked city officials if they might reconstruct the building and have police protection. They were told protection would be guaranteed if an American flag were flown over the building.

The trial examiner's report explained to the labor board that the reason an American flag was not flown over the building previously was because there was no flagpole available. This statement gave a laugh to townspeople.

Legion Plea a Subterfuge.

Another reason urged by the examiner for rebuilding the hall at company expense was that it was used by the American Legion for dances. The Legion used the hall once in 1920 for a dance after two other buildings usually used for social assemblies were burned. The Legion had not used the building for seventeen years. This circumstance was not explained in the report.

Exception to the entire report has been filed with the labor board. If the board rules adversely for the company, in view of the Supreme court's ruling last week that its powers are remedial and not punitive, the company will appeal to the courts.

The recommendation that the company be required to rebuild the communist hall is considered by the management to be a punishment which the high court ruling expressly forbids. So far as remedial action by the board is involved, there never has been any condition requiring a remedy, the management contends.

GUERRILLA ARMY KILLS 6,000 JAPS IN MAJOR VICTORY

Chinese Seize Arms from Foe in Shansi Province.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Guerrilla forces of China's famed Eighth [communist] army were reported today to have killed 6,000 Japanese in a major setback to the invaders' long heralded mopping up campaign in Shansi province.

Gen. Pai Chung-hsi, named leader of Canton campaign.

In addition, neutral reports said large supplies of arms and ammunition were seized by the Chinese carrying on ceaseless hit and run attacks against Japanese attempting to gain complete control of the northwestern province.

These advices said the Japanese launched a successful offensive against Wutaishan, the Eighth army's fortified base at the foot of Wutai mountain, but were forced to withdraw in the face of the day and night harassing activities of the guerrillas.

Strike in Other Provinces.

The Chinese were reported to be in control of the area surrounding Wutaishan where Japanese outposts and supply lines were being subjected to relentless guerrilla forays.

Other guerrilla successes were recited by the Chinese Fourth route army in Anhwei, Chekiang and Kiangsu provinces. Shanghai and Nanking, two of the main Japanese captured cities, are located in the latter province.

Chinese military leaders who organized the guerrilla warfare in the three provinces said that since these forces took the field they had lost only one major battle out of fifty engagements.

The leaders, who told of the Chinese successes in a Shanghai tea house interview, produced photographs of Japanese prisoners as proof of their claims.

They made the hazardous journey through Japanese lines to Shanghai to obtain badly needed medical supplies for Chinese wounded, of which they admitted there was a large number.

Japanese Bomb Railways.

Japanese advices meanwhile told of heavy aerial attacks along the Hsiangchow-Kweilin and Canton-Hankow railways where the invaders reported widespread damage to rolling stock, right of way and warehouses.

A Kuomin [Chinese] news agency dispatch from Linhsien said Gen. Pai Chung-hsi, recently appointed deputy commander of Chinese forces, had been given full charge of military operations in Kwangtung, southern province in which Canton is located.

His selection for the job, decided upon at a military conference presided over by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, was said to have been followed immediately by preparations for a major Chinese offensive aimed at recapture of Canton.

Chinese Report Advances.

On other fronts in the interior the Chinese reported advances against the Japanese. The asserted victories included:

1. Recapture of Lungwankiao and Sinkaitang, north of the Sinkiang river, and an advance to within five miles south of Yochow.

2. Recapture of Tsaoshuh, 100 miles from Hankow, breaking the Japanese offensive westward from the fallen provisional capital toward Shasi and Ichang.

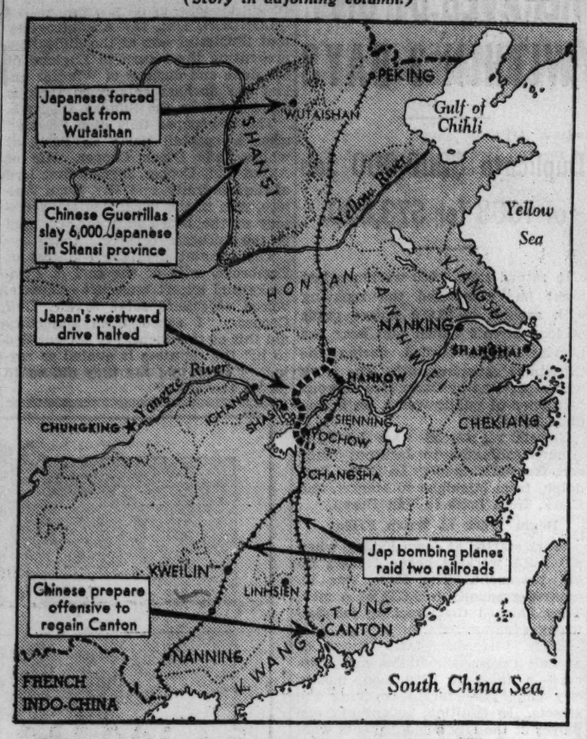
Yochow is approximately 140 miles southwest of Hankow by river at a point where Lake Tungting, China's largest lake, empties into the Yangtze.

Besides reporting the advance toward Yochow, Chinese said their forces had repulsed another Japanese attempt to land men from motorboats on Lake Tungting near Lukioshih, twenty miles from Yochow. A fleet of twenty Japanese launches succeeded in penetrating to the lake yesterday but a landing attempt was turned back by the Chinese.

Chinese reports said guerrillas near Sienning, between Yochow and Hankow, ambushed a Japanese motor convoy, killing 200 men and disabling thirty trucks.

Chinese Irregulars Defeat Japanese

(Story in adjoining column.)



Chinese yesterday reported a victory over Japanese in Shansi province in which 6,000 Japanese troops were said to have been slain. Japan claims control of Shansi province, but never has been able to suppress Chinese guerrilla bands. On the central front Chinese claimed to have halted the Japanese drive at a point 100 miles west of Hankow. Heavy dotted line locates segment of Japanese front in central China. In other sectors the fronts are mainly indefinite, the Chinese usually employing fight and run tactics.

JAPAN CAN'T END 9 POWER TREATY, CHINESE ASSERT

CHUNGKING, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Wang Chung-hui, Chinese foreign minister, declared today that Japan's asserted intentions to close the "open door" in China were "untenable."

The nine power treaty, Wang declared, has neither a time limit nor provisions for its termination so that its aim of lasting peace cannot legally be terminated by any country. Japan, the United States, and seven other powers agreed in the nine power pact to respect the territorial integrity of China and the principle of the open door to trade.

"The new situation charged by Japan," Wang contended, "was brought about by Japan's violation of the nine power treaty. The contention that the treaty must be revised because of a fait accompli [accomplished fact] resulting from acts in violation of that treaty are absolutely untenable."

KILLS HIMSELF AFTER WRITING MESSAGE TO GIRL

Howard J. Loy, 22 years old, penned a brief love message to a young girl last night, dated it Dec. 11, and then shot and killed himself. His body was found several hours later by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Loy Jr., on their return to their home at 2629 Greenleaf avenue.

The message, written on the back of a photograph of young Loy and the girl, stated, "To the girl I loved with all my heart. Love. Howie." A postscript added, "This is for Jan."

Mr. Loy told Detectives Joseph Korzyk and Walter Gibbons of the Rogers Park station that the girl referred to as Jan was Jeanette Works, 20, of 5412 Christiana avenue. He doubted a love motive in his son's death. The boy, he said, had been depressed over unemployment. Miss Works was unable to talk last night because of grief. Her mother, Mrs. Fred Works, said that Jeanette and young Loy had been high school friends and that there had been no serious love affair.

WOMAN KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE; DRIVER ACCUSED

Mrs. Mary Ruckert, 60 years old, of 5614 North Spaulding avenue, died yesterday in the Swedish Covenant hospital of injuries incurred Saturday night when she was struck by an automobile at Lincoln and Bryn Mawr avenues. The driver, Newton W. Foster, 8733 Ferris avenue, Morton Grove, was charged with reckless driving and driving with defective brakes.

Patrick Stapleton, 70 years old, of 767 Van Buren street, died in the county hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Saturday night when he was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver in front of his home.

Dankert Richter, 74, of 3004 Logan boulevard, died in Grant hospital of injuries incurred Thusrday when he was struck by an automobile at Logan boulevard and Sacramento avenue. The driver was Stanley Santoski, 3057 Diversey avenue.

Niles Center police concluded yesterday that a hit and run driver had killed Amadeo Sola, 47 years old, whose body was found near the Chicago Rapid Transit company tracks on the Prairie road crossing in the suburb early in the day. Sola, a watchman at the Rapid Transit shops nearby, was thought at first to have been hit by a train. A medical examination indicated an automobile was to blame, police said.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 834 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 639 were killed in Chicago, where 19,391 were injured during the same period.

NOTE TO NIMRODS

By CALEB

"A MAN'S hangout if ever there was one!" is your first exclamation. And it is that . . . masculine no end . . . and among the most popular departments in our Store for Men for the reason that it's our country-famous "Gun Shop."

Daily to the head of this shop and his associates falls the pleasant duty of outfitting sportsmen from every state in the Union, and from numerous foreign countries. For the man who goes forth to the wilds with gun on shoulder is a critical individual indeed. Equip him with mount, stock, barrel, sight and action precisely to his liking, and all's right with the world. But disappoint him in any of these particulars, and life is no longer the same. Always a man is that way—about a gun.

So it is that the service emphasis in our Gun Shop falls particularly on fitting seasoned shooter and timid tyro alike with exactly the modern firearm that best becomes him. Whether his choice carry a price-tag of $5 or $1500, is no matter. The paramount thing is to give him a weapon he'll cherish even unto the third generation, and pass on to his grandsons with a fervent: "I got this at Field's, back in '38, and it's never failed me once!"

Speaking volumes for its popularity among sportsmen is the fact that many a letter simply addressed "The Gun Shop, Chicago," finds its way to this department without delay. And just to have one of the shop's experts lift from the rack a new Remington 32 Over-and-Under, resplendent with beautifully engraved action and barrel, gives you the feel of this reputation as nothing else can. To no one more than to a gun-lover is this Field tradition of quality and superior performance, once experienced through ownership, important above all other considerations.

First-time visitors to the Gun Shop discover here not only one of the country's most extensive stocks of guns and sporting equipment, but a complete repair-shop as well, with special machinery, if necessary, for building an entire gun. And as the Holidays approach, Field's highly trained gunsmiths are finding it all they can do to keep up with the demands made on them for special reboring, heat-treating, blueing, engraving, sighting, and other restorative operations. "Sportsmen," remarks the head of the Gun Shop, "are exacting on service; but they're hard to beat for loyalty."

CHICAGO TALKS; NEW YORK BUILDS SUPERHIGHWAYS

Eastern City's Projects Provide Object Lesson.

While Father Dearborn has been dallying with his trafic problems for the last dozen years, Father Knickerbocker has boldly plunged hundreds of millions of dollars into major trafic facilities and as a consequence has overcome his natural geographic handicaps to automobile transportation.

A dozen years ago motor travel into and through Chicago was far superior to such travel in New York City, which is hemmed by large rivers. Chicago at that time was beginning to talk earnestly about an elevated highway system. New York newspapers marveled at our enterprise. Then New York started to dig, and today, in the opinion of most experts, its arterial highways outrank Chicago's notwithstanding the western city's natural advantages. And New York is continuing to dig on a big scale.

478 Millions Spent.

A list of an even dozen projects in the New York environs, completed since 1926 or now nearing completion, involves an aggregate expenditure of $473,850,000. This list includes only part of the big things being done in the east.

This $473,850,000 might be compared with the 55 million dollars estimated by the Chicago Motor club as the cost of forty-one miles of elevated highways, one northwest, one west, one southwest, and another opening a modern automobile gateway to the southeast. Or it might be compared with the 100 million dollars estimated by Dr. Miller McClintock, now of Yale university trafic bureau, as the cost of 160 miles of elevated highways in Chicago, a system so comprehensive that no address would be farther than a mile from one of these fast and safe pavements.

First Section in 1927.

New York built its first section of elevated highway in 1927. Another section was finished in 1930, and another in 1937. So far 16 million dollars has been spent on this work. A third extension, south from the Holland tunnel, is now under construction at a cost estimated at $2,700,000.

The Holland tunnel, providing four trafic lanes under the Hudson river, was finished in 1927 at a cost of 48 million dollars. New Jersey approaches to this tube followed at a cost of 45 million dollars. In 1932 New Jersey finished a high viaduct, the Pulaski skyway, over two rivers and over congested surface streets at a cost of 21 million dollars.

60 Million for Bridge.

The George Washington bridge over the Hudson river was completed in 1931 at a cost of 60 million dollars. Henry Hurson parkway, continuing express trafic from the elevated highway to the city limits, was finished last fall; it cost 37 million dollars.

On a second tunnel under the Hudson the 80 million dollar Lincoln tunnel, one of the eventual pair of tubes was completed last spring. To the east a 58 million 350 thousand dollar Queens Midtown tunnel under the East river will be finished in 1940. The 63 million dollar Triborough bridge was opened in 1936. The Grand Central parkway approaches to this bridge were opened in 1936 and later repaved at a total cost of 15 million dollars.

Another bridge to Long Island, the Bronx-Whitestone bridge, and its approaches will be finished next year at a cost of 18 million dollars. On Manhattan a small section of an east side drive has been finished with an outlay of 12 million dollars.

That's the way New York is doing things. And the story might be read as an object lesson for Chicago.

Gen. Keehn to Inspect "Dandy First" Tonight

Keehn, commander of the 33d Division, Illinois National Guard, and his staf. Gen. Keehn will review a regimental parade in the armory preceding the detailed inspection of the units and equipment. The parade and inspection will be open to the public, according to Col. John M. Richmond, regimental commander.

Subpena by Air

MIRIAM HOPKINS.

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Cary Grant, the film star, told federal authorities today that he was unacquainted with William P. Buckner Jr., 31 years old, international financier, who is charged with mail fraud in a deal involving Philippine railway bonds.

Cary Grant.

Grant, one of thirteen Hollywood luminaries subpenaed for questioning in the government's investigation of Buckner's activities, conferred hurriedly with Assistant United States Attorney William P. Maloney before leaving for the west coast, where he is to begin work immediately on a new picture.

The tall actor told Maloney that he never owned any of the Philippine bonds in question.

Subpenas for other stars, including Bing Crosby, Ronald Colman, Miriam Hopkins, and the millionaire producer, Joe Schenck, were air mailed to the coast.

Federal officials have not yet decided whether they will be required to come to New York for questioning, or whether an investigator will take depositions in California.

URGES PROMPT 'ACTION ON NEW PANAMA LOCKS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Col. C. S. Ridley, governor of the Panama Canal Zone, reported today that it was of the utmost importance to determine without delay whether it was feasible to construct a third set of locks for the canal far from the present dual lock systems.

In his annual report to Secretary of War Woodring, Ridley said a decision should be made as to constructing the additional locks "at a much greater distance from present locks than has heretofore been contemplated."

CITY'S VIGILANCE OVER FIRES CUTS INSURANCE RATES

Record of Lower Losses Puts Cash in Our Pockets

City departments have effected a 50 per cent reduction in fire losses in the last six years, Mayor Kelly said yesterday. This reduction was passed on to the citizens in the form of a saving through lower insurance rates. From 1932 to 1937, inclusive, losses paid in Chicago by fire insurance companies were $41,124,316, compared with $83,939,922 in the preceding six years.

Fire insurance premium rates in any community are based on the losses which the insurance companies have to pay in the same community, Mayor Kelly pointed out. Thus, when the fire losses in Chicago began to drop, a cut in the rates followsd.

Reductions Are Summarized.

The table which follows summarizes the rate reductions by years. Underwriters' records group the rate cuts of 1934 and 1935 together. In 1936 there was a reduction in only one classification. It was for 5 per cent on brick dwellings, flats, and apartments. There were no reductions in 1937. The notable reductions announced in 1938 were the results of lower monthly fire loss figures, which foreshadow a further reduction in the total loss for the year. This annual figure will not be known until March, 1939. Reductions often vary as between fire districts, depending on congestion, fire hazards, etc. This accounts for the use of two figures in some instances. The table:

Brick houses, flats, apts.	7-10	4- 6	15.2-19.6
Contents of same.	3- 5	3- 5	5.9- 9.7
Frame houses	8-24	7-13	14.4-33.9
Contents of same.	4-17	6-11	9.8-26.1
Frame garages	29	9	35.4
Brick garages	5	7	11.6
Frame flats, apts.	6-15	8-10	13.5-23.5
Contents of same.	3-10	7- 9	9.8-18.1
Brick stores	None	23	23
Fireproof off. bldgs.	16	None	16
Contents of same.	25	None	25
Firepr'f hotels, clubs	16	None	16
Contents of same.	25	None	25

The figures were supplied by the Chicago Board of Underwriters. Where there was more than one cut, each successive reduction was made upon the balance, but the total percentage reduction was computed on the basis of the original premium rate.

Another General Slash.

In addition to these reductions, records show, there was a general slash of 20 per cent on all fireproof structures. This resulted in a further saving for Chicagoans, the mayor explained.

"About $15,600,000 in fire insurance premiums are paid in Chicago every year, according to the underwriters' records," the mayor said. "Any small percentage of such a sum would be a substantial amount. But it appears from the figures that the saving averaged more than 15 per cent, or in excess of $2,340,000 annually.

How Cuts Are Made Possible.

"The two most important factors in defense against fire are a good fire department and an adequate water supply. The fire department has been improved and enlarged. It is second to none in the country. The water supply, ranked by the underwriters as the most important factor, has been improved a minimum of 36 per cent.

"Then the fire department needs streets to travel on. Nearly 1,000 miles of streets have been resurfaced in the last 5½ years. And 296 miles of dirt streets have been replaced by crushed stone thoroughfares which are passable in all weather.

"Buildings are being inspected more frequently and with more care than ever before. The department of public works has put thousands of relief laborers to work tearing down dangerous, unused structures. In this way fires have been prevented, further cutting the losses."

Faces Estate Suit

MARIA CHALIAPIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 11.—(AP)—A suit for $100,000 in property filed here disclosed today a dispute between two women representing themselves as the widow of the famous operatic basso, Feodor Chaliapin.

Mrs. Iole Chaliapin of Moscow, Russia, filed the suit against Mrs. Maria Chaliapin, whom the singer married in 1927. She contends that purported divorce decree granted Chaliapin in Paris was not legal. She asks that the court recognize her community property interest in an apartment house and a residence in Beverly Hills, Cal., valued at $100,000.

4 LOOP STREETS REPAVED BY CITY WITHIN 3 DAYS

Duplicate $200,000 Job of 1908 for $73,500.

In record time, 3,000 workmen last night had completed the repaving with asphalt of 28,800 square yards of loop streets which will bear the heaviest trafic burden during the Christmas shopping rush. The work was supervised by Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, on orders of Mayor Kelly.

Streets resurfaced were La Salle from Washington to Jackson; Madison, from Michigan to La Salle; Randolph, from Michigan to Market, and Clark, from Lake to Van Buren.

Begin Work at Dawn Friday.

Work started at down Friday, when 800 WPA workers began tearing up old pavement. The force was increased gradually to 1,600 WPA men. They finished the wrecking job Saturday evening.

Early yesterday, forty gangs of asphalt rakers, smoothers, and helpers — a total of 1,320 men, mostly city employés—started repaving the streets. In addition, seventy-six employés of the city asphalt plants were enlisted as loaders and sweepers.

Sixty-nine city trucks, sixty-four steam and gasoline rollers, forty fire pans, and other equipment were used. Nearly 350 tons of débris were hauled away by city trucks.

The total cost of the project was about $73,500, including $11,800 paid employés for overtime. Funds for salaries will come from the city's share of the motor fuel tax.

Cost $200,000 in 1908.

Mr. Hewitt, in praising the speed of the workmen and the low cost of the project, pointed out that in 1908 reconstruction of the same streets cost $200,000. Costly creosote block paving cost abutting property owners from $7 to $7.75 per square yard as compared to $2.54 per square yard for the present asphalt paving. Then, too, the streets were blockaded for weeks in 1908.

"The job completed last night is excellent and it reflects the efficiency of city street department employés," Mr. Hewitt said. "In outlying districts, as many as 54,000 yards of finished pavement has been laid in a single day."

CURTSY TO WALLY STIRS LONDON'S COURT GOSSIPS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 11.—A controversy that illustrates one of the difficulties preventing the return to England of the duke and duchess of Windsor unless the duchess gets royal rank is aired today in the Sunday Dispatch.

The newspaper tells of a "scene" after a cocktail party in Paris at which Lady Diana Cooper, wife of Alfred Duff Cooper, former first lord of the admiralty, and Mrs. Euan Wallace, wife of the parliamentary secretary of the board of trade, curtsied to the duchess.

The account says the countess of Pembroke, wife of the earl of Pembroke and expert on court etiquette, voiced objections later to Mr. Duff Cooper. "I asked them why they did this as the duchess is not entitled to it," the countess is quoted as saying. "They told me they did so to please the duke."

To The Citizens of Chicago

The Jewish Welfare Fund has been importuned both by organizations and by many citizens to raise funds immediately for the RELIEF AND RESETTLEMENT of Jewish refugees from Germany and other countries.

Ever since the pogroms in Germany, the pleas for funds have become overwhelmingly insistent and urgent. The Jews of Chicago must answer those pleas now! The Jewish Welfare Fund therefore announces that it is about to raise—from the Jews of Chicago—

$2,000,000 For Refugee Work

To raise such a sum—which is in addition to the contributions normally given by Jewish citizens to The Community Fund and to The Jewish Charities—will mean sacrificial giving. It will mean a generous outpouring of contributions from every Jewish man and woman in the city.

This is to be a single and UNITED effort to raise substantial funds

No additional fund-raising effort will be required beyond this—at least insofar as can be foreseen at the present moment.

The funds, when raised, will be distributed primarily for the work of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee and the United Palestine Appeal, as well as for the National Coordinating Committee for German Refugees in conjunction with the American Committee for Christian German Refugees and the Committee for Catholic Refugees from Germany.

NOW! A Call for Volunteers—Not for Funds! The Jewish citizens of Chicago will be asked in personal solicitation later on to give, and to give speedily and most generously. This Announcement is NOT a call for funds. IT IS A CALL FOR WORKERS—FOR VOLUNTEERS WHO WILL ASK FOR FUNDS.

ATTEMPT TO BUY A PAROLE LANDS 2 BACK IN PRISON

3d Felon in Plot Gets Life for New Crime.

Parole authorities disclosed yesterday the results of an investigation which they made into the payment of $500 in a vain effort to buy a parole for Michael Grue, 24 years old. He was sentenced to the Stateville prison July 25, 1935, on two charges of robbery. He is still in prison.

Three men who were out on parole from prison at the time of the payment, and who are back in prison now, were involved. The $500 paid out has been returned to Grue's family. The facts in the case were disclosed yesterday by T. P. Sullivan, parole superintendent.

Despite the fact that all the principals are back in prison, Superintendent Sullivan is continuing his investigation. He wants to know whether any one represented himself as having connections with the parole board, or whether any clerk or other employé of the board had promised to have a convict freed for cash.

The story goes back to 1936 when Harry Rhinestone, 31 years old, and Paul Juskiewicz, 29, were cell mates at Stateville prison. Both had been sentenced for robbery. Rhinestone was paroled March 12, 1936. He promised to see Juskiewicz's relatives and to urge them to work for the latter's parole.

Promises to See Family.

After Rhinestone's departure Grue was made a cell mate of Juskiewicz. On July 3, 1936, Juskiewicz was paroled. He promised to see Grue's family on parole possibilities.

Juskiewicz eventually visited Grue's father, David Grue, and they talked over the problem. Meantime, Juskiewicz opened up a gasoline station in the Austin district. Among his customers were Rhinestone, his ex-cellmate then on parole, and Henry William Nelson, 30, also on parole. Juskiewicz told them of Grue's hope to win a parole, and said he thought that Grue's father might be willing to pay $500 for one. Nelson and Rhinestone showed interest.

Soon afterward, Juskiewicz and Rhinestone visited Grue's father and told him that a friend of theirs—Nelson—had a "connection [a friend] with the parole board" and had been able to get his own parole some years before. They also added that Nelson's "friend" could reach a member of the parole board.

$500 Is Handed Over.

The Grue family, according to Supt. Sullivan, early in 1937 handed over $500 to Nelson for a parole, exclusive of $50 expenses for a trip to Springfield. Rhinestone, Sullivan said, admitted getting $150 of the $500. Juskiewicz got nothing.

Not long after the payment of the $500, Nelson was caught in a robbery at 5943 Madison street. In June, 1937, he was sentenced to prison for life as an habitual criminal.

The Grue family realized nothing in the way of parole could now be expected from Nelson. Accordingly the family demanded that Juskiewicz return the $500. Juskiewicz borrowed $150 and saved enough additional to make restitution of the $500 to the Grues. But his own downfall came when he was unable to repay the $150 he had borrowed. The lender, a woman friend, complained to Supt. Sullivan.

Both Sent Back to Prison.

Sullivan seized Juskiewicz, and on his story nabbed Rhinestone. They were recently returned to the state prison. Nelson, of course, was already there. Nelson was questioned about the parole incident in prison. He admitted his part, but denied having any connection with the parole board. Supt. Sullivan said he is convinced that Juskiewicz was a dupe in the affair. "What we want to know," said Sullivan, "is whether any other persons were involved in the plot."

Records show that Nelson has been in difficulties since 1929. He was a star athlete at the Carl Schurz High school from 1923 to 1927. In 1929 he was sentenced for robbery. Four years later he was paroled, and was turned over to Milwaukee to answer a robbery charge. He was sentenced to one to three years there, but never served the sentence.

BOARDER ADMITS BRUTAL SLAYING OF HIS LANDLADY

Sigurd Andersen, a WPA worker, confessed yesterday that he beat his landlady to death with a hammer because she berated him for drinking too much. Mrs. Dagmar Olsen, 57 years old, was found dead in the kitchen of her home at 3600 Wrightwood avenue by her husband, Haakon, when he returned from work in a loop garage Saturday afternoon. Andersen had boarded there for two years.

Sigurd Andersen.

Andersen was seized early yesterday in a friend's home at 1829 North California avenue by Detectives Frank Byrnes and Walter Payne of the homicide squad and Sergt. Walter C'Connell of the Shakespeare avenue station. At first he was too intoxicated to speak coherently, but later admitted the brutal murder.

Uses Two Hammers.

"I'd been drinking steadily since I got my pay check last Tuesday," he told Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis. "Saturday morning Mrs. Olsen yelled at me for coming home drunk the night before. She nagged and nagged until I couldn't stand it. I got one hammer and hit her on the head. That knocked her out, so I took a bigger hammer and kept hitting her till she was dead."

He then stabbed Mrs. Olsen in the chest with a screw driver and slashed her throat with a kitchen knife, Andersen said. The bloodstained hammers and other instruments were found on his dresser.

Keeps on Drinking.

After the slaying, Andersen said, he first intended to commit suicide by turning on the gas burners in the apartment. "I decided to get some drinks first, though, so I took some money from Mrs. Olsen's purse and went to a saloon on North avenue. I kept on drinking all night."

Andersen, who is 47 years old, admitted serving ninety days in the house of correction in 1934 for stealing a box of soap from a grocery store.

THE STRANDED WOMAN FINDS HAVEN OF REST

Babies and All Welcome at Stevenson Home.

BY MARCIA WINN.

A homeless man may ride the rods from coast to coast. He may wander through parks alone at dawn. He may sleep in vacant doorways. But what of the homeless woman—and her children?

Back in the bitter winter of 1893, when countless women were stranded here following the World's Fair, Chicago faced, and met, that problem. It set up, under the guidance of a pioneer woman physician, the Woman's Model Lodging House association.

Here the stranded woman, destitute and friendless, found shelter, shelter with no questions asked. No one inquired into her past. No one inquired into her aspirations or her politics. If she had 15 cents she paid that for her night's lodging. If she did not have it, it did not matter. Here was a temporary home, warm with sympathy, food and comfort, for her and her children.

Still Serving After 45 Years.

Today, forty-five years later, the lodging house, now the Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial home, a memorial to that woman physician, still abides by its original rules. It still gives shelter, with no questions asked.

In the words of its superintendent, Miss Phyllis Broan, it is a town unto itself. She speaks of its "adult population," which today is 53, and its "child population," which today is 51. Tomorrow, however, it may be greater or smaller, for it fluctuates with every incoming train, eviction, or bankruptcy.

Primarily, the home is a refuge for destitute women and their children. It is singular among homes of its type in that it strives to keep families together and intact. A woman may work by day for a wage too meager to maintain a roof of her own, but at night she and her children are together somewhere under the broad roofs at 2412, 2406, and 2407 Prairie avenue.

Shelters Pregnant Girls.

In addition the home cares for the destitute pregnant girl until her confinement. Afterward she often comes back with her baby. It cares for destitute women on relief. It cares for transients. It cares for women without children, but not for children without mothers.

Its unwritten law, from the days of Dr. Stevenson, the first woman member of the American Medical association, has been "Help first; investigate later." The case history, so dear to the heart of the professional welfare worker, comes after, not before.

Its aim, however, is not to give, but to help each woman to help herself. Once there she is assisted in finding work. Maybe it is in a factory; more often it is in a private home. If she is incapable of work, that's all right, too. She simply stays.

Some are there only overnight. Some are there for months. With a working mother, Miss Broan points out, her condition will be no better in a month; that is, she still will be unable to make enough to have her own home and provide care for her baby.

Each woman has a different problem. Two young women, for instance, come to the home from Cook County hospital with newborn babies. While in the hospital they had been evicted from their homes, and their husbands, on relief, had been unable to find new ones.

One Guest Awaits Pension.

Three elderly, white haired women are there. One is waiting to be accepted for old age pension. Another is waiting for relief. Another, formerly a hotel housekeeper, has occasional odd jobs. In the meantime they have nowhere else to turn.

Wander anywhere through the winding community and you find an atmosphere, not of frustration or futility or despair, but of hope and gayety. In the front parlor a young girl plays Chopin on a piano. A group nearby is sewing. Elsewhere a young mother, a mask over her face, feeds her baby.

In another section there is one bright nursery after another. A group of children, from 3 to 6, clusters around a sand box. A tiny child with grave, blue eyes sets a tea table for her doll. A boy of 8 hammers on a copper plaque in the workshop. Everything is light, bright, comfortable.

Upstairs in the nursery a pediatrician busily examines the fifteen babies, ranging in age from 8 days to a year. This is the home's one new service, a twenty-four hour day nursery for infants. In it the noted Cradle aseptic technique [a technique evolved by the Cradle Society of Evanston for eliminating hand borne germs] is used. The nurses wear masks. Neither mothers nor strangers enter. Even Supt. Broan has never crossed its threshold.

Older Children Go to School.

Other older children are at school. They are escorted to and from a public school daily. A day nursery is maintained for the children from 1 to 3 years old, a nursery school for those between 3 and 6.

Bread and blanket alone, the home contends, are cold comforts. Sympathy and friendship are equally necessary; they take away the sting of charity, as does the woman's payment of 15 cents a night, if she has it.

For its upkeep the home depends on forty women's clubs, on tag days, on entertainments and on the Community fund, from which it receives almost one-third of its budget.

As the late Nora Edmonds, superintendent of the home for twenty-three years until her death last February, once said, "Chicago must pay the penalty for being great. Among the attributes of greatness is compassion for those who fail."

DIES OF HEAD INJURY.

Auzy Flowers, 48 year sold, 1322 East 47th street, died last night in the Chicago hospital of a head injury suffered in a fall on the sidewalk at 4662 Lake Park avenue last Monday.

ARMY ENGINEER TO RULE ON NEW YACHT HARBOR

Studies Project North of Navy Pier.

Capt. S. N. Karrick, district engineer of the war department in Chicago, is expected to rule shortly on a proposal to improve Chicago harbor north of Navy pier for the protection of small yachts and light draft vessels.

The proposal calls for government construction of two additional breakwaters between Oak street and Grand avenue. One would be a 1,200 foot extension across the north gap in the present exterior breakwater. The other would be 2,600 feet long and would be built off shore in a north and south direction inside the present outer breakwater and on the average about 3,000 feet from the shore line.

Plan Inner Yacht Harbor.

The project is part of the harbor plan of the Chicago Plan commission and the Chicago Regional Port commission. It would provide a mile square inner yacht harbor which would be doubly protected—by both the old and proposed breakwaters. It has the approval of the Lake Michigan Yachting association and Capt. J. L. Ahern, commander of the Chicago division of the United States coast guard.

The proposal was taken under advisement by Capt. Karrick after a hearing Sept. 15. At that time yachtsmen stressed the need of further yachting facilities for the city. They pointed out that the present harbor north of Navy pier is unsafe for yachts during stirms. The reason they said is the inadequacy of the present outer breakwater.

"All our safe anchorage areas are overcrowded," said Raymond L. Greist, co-chairman of the harbors and waterways committee of the Lake Michigan Yachting association. "This improvement is the only solution for relieving the present situation."

Property Owners Object.

Some of the property owners along Lake Shore drive say the project would be detrimental to their property, William C. Calvert, secretary of the North Central association, said yesterday. He will appear before Capt. Karrick today and argue that the proposed inner breakwater will attract small sailing craft and nondescript boats which, in the interest of property owners, should be excluded from the area.

Yachting officials said, however, that harbor regulations would restrict use of the harbor to reputable boat owners. They said the proposed improvement would not mar the shore line or prove detrimental to property owners.

YOUNG BURGLAR FLEES FROM HOME WITH HANDCUFFS

Alex Jaworski, 16 years old, an amateur burglar but a lad of spirit, fled from the juvenile detention home last night wearing a pair of handcuffs.

Alex and Donald Johnson, 17 years old, 2146 Superior street, broke into the home of Mrs. Emily Tolar at 5629 South Christiana avenue in the evening. The pair made so much noise that neighbors summoned the police. The house was surrounded and both were captured.

Johnson was locked up at the Chicago Lawn station, but Alex, as a juvenile, was sent to the home. Shortly after midnight a voice informed the station that Alex fled with the home's only handcuffs. The police set a guard over the Jaworski home at 3134 West 40th place.

2 German Birdmen Keep Glider in Air 50 Hours

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—Two German birdmen today established a new world record for two seater glider planes, remaining in the air for 50 hours 15 minutes, near Rossitten, in the East Prussian dunes. The new titleholders, Boedecker and Zander, belong to the Nazi automobile corps. They bettered the previous record, also held by Germans, by almost ten hours.

OLD INJURY IS FATAL.

Thomas Conroy, 66 years old, died yesterday in his home at 8148 Princeton avenue, supposedly of injuries suffered in a fall last May. Conroy was employed as an engineer at the Gresham police station.

ARGENTINA DROPS OLD FEUD; SEEKS U. S. FRIENDSHIP

Delegates Work Together at Lima Conference.

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The north and south poles of Pan-Americanism — the United States and Argentina — seemed in agreement today as the first week of the Pan-American conference executive work opened with prospects of attaining outstanding accords for the preservation of peace and integrity in the new world.

José María Cantilo. [AP Wirephoto.]

The two nations whose disagreements in the past have marred several Pan-American conferences appeared through their representatives, United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Argentine Foreign Minister Jose Maria Cantilo, to be in agreement on most of the principles to be followed.

Settled by a Handshake.

The warm handshake, almost an embrace, which Cantilo gave Hull when the latter finished his speech yesterday was deemed by delegates today to be symbolic of a new feeling between the two countries.

Hull in his speech had joined Cantilo and Dr. Carlos Concha, Peruvian foreign minister, in proclaiming the need of a common front by the Americas against outside military or political invasion.

The Brazilian delegation meanwhile prepared a plan for submission to the conference providing a declaration against any minority claim which might be made upon the Americas.

The proposal obviously was designed against possible claims such as those by Czecho-Slovakia's Sudeten Germans which preceded the dismemberment of the European republic.

Rejects Minorities Theory.

The declaration read:

"The American republics, wishing to avoid any doubt referring to the conception of national, ethical, linguistic and religious minorities in the sense given them by treaties after the great war of 1914-1918 and other treaties and international declarations whose provisions placed this matter under the guaranty of the league of nations;

"Having in mind that the system of protection for such minorities cannot be applied in America, where psychological, social and historical conditions already exist which give their own character to human groups to which such are given;

"Having in mind that immigrants admitted to one state cannot claim title to a minority because they are mere foreigners in the territory where they live, and when they do not incorporate themselves into a new nationality will individually enjoy rights generally assured foreigners;

"Hereby declare they do not admit the claims and any rights, privileges or special guarantees for any human group different from the general mass of national population and considered as collective entities."

Many Germans in Brazil.

The Brazilian delegation was understood to have been inspired by fears caused by the existence in Brazil of a minority movement among the German population of Rio Grande do Sul and Santa Catharina.

In those states, it was pointed out, there are communities where only the German language is spoken. There are approximately 500,000 Germans in Rio Grande do Sul alone.

It was learned that Brazilian authorities requisitioned recently a number of propaganda maps of Rio Grande do Sul showing colored areas where the German minority claimed special privileges.

In Brazil the authorities have curtailed drastically all forms of foreign political propaganda and banned the exclusive use of foreign languages in certain schools.

Pay Tribute to Liberator.

Although today was a holiday some work on the conference went on with delegations consulting among themselves and conferring with others.

Many delegates drove over the new highway to Huara to pay tribute to the liberator, San Martin, who proclaimed Peruvian independence from the balcony of a small house there in 1820.

Although the steering committee yesterday fixed Dec. 27 as the day for the closing meeting of the conference, delegates agreed that the actual work should be completed by Dec. 23 so that most delegations might start for home no later than Dec. 24.

There were reports, however, that several delegates were studying the possibility of shortening the conference even further so that its work may be finished by Dec. 20.

May Discuss Spanish War.

A poll of individual members of most delegations disclosed widespread enthusiasm for a project to set up mediation machinery among the American nations to settle the civil war in Spain.

Although Mexican and Argentine delegates, sponsors of the plan, were reluctant to discuss it publicly, it was known that they hope to present something concrete when they are certain there will be no opposition.

It was believed, however, that such mediation would be attempted even if the United States declined to participate beyond expressing its approval.

Expect Defense Resolution.

Speeches and consultations during the past few days have enabled delegates to form a fair idea of the probable accomplishments of the conference:

FIRST — Probably a strong resolution will be passed proclaiming the American republics' determination to defend themselves against all aggression from without, whether by arms or political activities.

SECOND—All existing instruments of peace signed at Pan-American conferences probably will be unified into one fundamental document which would become a sort of constitution of the western hemisphere.

The Mexican code of peace toward this end may not be adopted because it goes beyond existing peace agreements by including an inter-American court of justice. In that case, the United States project, which simply would codify present agreements, stands a good chance of adoption.

THIRD — Codification of international law as among American states probably will be carried considerably farther.

See Delay of League Idea.

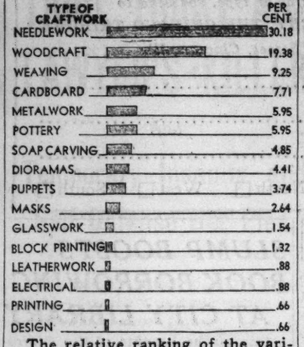
The United States delegation would have liked to see this resolution go further than condemnation and call for further assistance for German refugees.

A project sponsored by Colombia and the Dominican republic for a league of American nations probably will be held over for the ninth Pan-American conference in 1943 for lack of unanimous consent. This, also, probably will be the fate of the proposal for an inter-American court of justice.

Argentina's project for rotating annual meetings of Pan-American foreign ministers is receiving considerable study in all delegations.

Although it may not be approved in its present form, many delegations believe that more frequent meetings should be held than the Pan-American conferences every five years.

Craftwork in Schools



The relative ranking of the various types of craft work in 6th, 7th, and 8th grades of Chicago schools.

Approximately 70,000 of the 85,000 sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils in Chicago schools are members of handwork clubs, Superintendent of Schools William H. Johnson said yesterday. The clubs are developed through the bureau of handwork of the school board and are planned to develop craft techniques or the ability to make things with hands. The clubs are used to correlate class work with outside activity.

Clubs devoted to needlework make up 30.18 per cent of the organizations and woodcraft clubs are next at 19.38 per cent. Printing and design are lowest in number and are for advanced pupils.

WOMAN VICTIM OF RABBIT FEVER DIES; TOLL NOW 12

The death of Mrs. Nellie Gallegher of Villa Grove, Ill., of tularemia, or rabbit fever, yesterday raised the state toll from the disease to at least twelve.

Records of the Illinois department of public health shows that more than 250 persons have been stricken since the hunting season opened on Nov. 10. The disease is generally transmitted through the handling of rabbits carrying the tularense bacteria. State health officials said that, with twenty-five to fifty new cases daily the infection is the severest ever observed in Illinois.

The sale and transportation of rabbits have been barred in East St. Louis, where twenty-six cases were reported within fifteen days. Numerous cases have also been reported in other midwest and western states, but Illinois leads the list. While no specific cure is known, transfusions and certain serums are helpful, according to medical authorities. About 5 per cent of the stricken die.

ROBBED OF COAT, WATCH, CASH.

Two bandits early yesterday held up Morris Polakow and his wife, Rose, in the rear of their home at 123 North Damen avenue and escaped with a fur coat valued at $600, a wrist watch worth $50, and $16 in cash.

SOCIAL WORKERS ARE ACCUSED OF RELIEF SABOTAGE

Charge Plot to Discredit Central Bureau.

The central intake system designed to cut down relief frauds and bring about efficient relief administration in the city is being undermined by the clique of professional social service workers that now dominates the Chicago Relief administration, it was charged yesterday.

Under the central system the responsibility of determining the eligibility and the need of a relief client is taken from the social service group and placed with trtained, efficient investigators. The social service workers confine their activities to welfare work.

Supporters of the plan charged that the experimental bureau established last summer in the Bridgeport district is being impeded in its work. They said the bureau has not been assigned the work for which it was created.

Demands Fair Trial.

"Reports have reached me that the social service groups in Chicago are attempting to minimize the usefulness of the central system," Thomas E. Courtney of De Kalb, said yesterday. Mr. Courtney is a member of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission which allocates state relief funds monthly to the CRA and other local relief agencies.

"The IERC has made investigations which have caused a sharp reduction in downstate relief rolls," he continued. "The central intake system was designed as a means of preventing those not entitled to relief from getting on relief rolls. It should be given a fair trial."

Walter L. Gregory, chairman of Gov. Horner's business men's relief committee, said he planned to confer today with Leo M. Lyons, CRA commissioner, and demand the intake system be given a fair chance to operate. He would not discuss reports that a social service clique was desirous of having the system abolished.

Charges Work Interference.

"First the experimental bureau did a WPA job and then it started on a review of all the cases receiving relief in the Bridgeport district," Mr. Gregory said. "This is all very fine, but I don't think the office has been given a chance to do the job for which it was created."

It was on the recommendation of the Gregory committee that the bureau was established as an experiment. Under the plan, Chicagoans seeking relief would go to a central office instead of applying to one of the nineteen district offices now in operation. At the central station the need of the applicant would be passed upon by trained investigators.

Rigorous investigations conducted during an experiment at the Bridgeport district indicated that thousands of relief applications would have been refused under careful scrutiny. The operation of a similar system in Milwaukee has decreased the relief load there by 10 per cent.

Sure It Will Cut Costs.

Relief experts say that the central system will reduce administrative costs and will aid in weeding out those not entitled to relief. The chief objection of the professional social service group is the distance an applicant might have to travel to reach a central office and the number of people who would appear at the one office.

In their report to the governor the Gregory committee urged that the administration of relief be taken from the social workers and made a business proposition. The committee pointed out that the social service workers have their place in relief work but that their domination of the CRA should be ended.

Policemen Turn Cowboys as Accident Frees Cattle

Police and citizens staged a roundup in the vicinity of 39th and Wood streets early today. The roundup was necessitated by the escape of a dozen head of cattle from a live stock truck. An axle of the truck, driven by Maurice Miller of Ottawa, Ill., broke. At the same time the gate opened and the cattle stampeded out. Policemen William Milton and John Jarcyna of the New City station proved themselves pretty fair cowboys, each driving four cattle back into the truck. Three others disappeared.

FLAMES ROUT THREE FAMILIES.

Fire drove three families from their apartments at 7211-13 Greenwood avenue last night. The fire started on the second floor and damaged six apartments. Chief Thomas Logan of the 19th battalion estimated the damage at $2,000.

AL CAPONE GETS OFF 'ROCK' JAN. 19; AND THEN TO JAIL

Al Capone will be released from Alcatraz penitentiary next month and will be taken directly to the Cook county jail to serve an additional year's sentence, it was reported yesterday.

Capone is scheduled to be released from "The Rock"—Alcatraz—on Jan. 19. His full term expires May 3, 1942, but it was reported yesterday that his release next month is assured because of an allowance for good behavior.

Now 41 years old, the portly gangster was sentenced on Oct. 24, 1931, to ten years in the federal prison for income tax evasion. He also was fined $50,000 and assessed the costs of his trial, estimated at $30,000. The one year additional county jail term was upheld last year by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. It was imposed for wilful failure to file tax returns for 1929 and 1930.

WISTFUL FACES NEVER HAUNT A GOOD FELLOW

Join Now! Be Santa Claus to a Poor Family.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

To nearly every one who has a heart there comes in the midst of the Christmas season a feeling of sudden melancholy. This feeling has an unpleasant way of stealing upon you just as you have filled your gift list; just as you have sighed complacently with the knowledge that your own are well provided for.

Sometimes it is a wistful little face that dashes your festive mood. Or it may be a poorly dressed woman turning regretfully away from toys she cannot afford to buy.

Inevitably, if you have a heart, you determine to do something for those not so well off. You will fill a stocking that otherwise would be empty on Christmas morning. But too often you allow yourself to be rescued by the thought that you wouldn't know how to find the homes of these people, or how to go about helping them.

Good Fellows Will Tell You.

Well, you can banish that thought right now—before it comes to you. While there still is time you can join the Good Fellows. You will know where to go on Christmas eve. You will know who you are to help. And you will know that they are expecting you; that their Christmas already has been brightened by the assurance that you will be there.

The Good Fellows are an army of Chicagoans who are anonymous as Santa Claus himself. The Good Fellow movement has been sponsored since 1909 by THE TRIBUNE, which opens a Christmas bureau each year to supply to the Good Fellows the names of the people who need them most. The bureau has been open several weeks this year, but the list of needy still is much longer than the list of Good Fellows.

It is easy to become a Good Fellow and easier to fulfill the duties that will be assigned to you. Write a letter to the Good Fellow editor, in care of THE TRIBUNE, telling him how many families you will visit on Christmas eve. And here is what will happen:

You Car Be a Santa Claus.

By return mail you will receive the names of the people you are to help. The family will be just the size you specify. It will be in your section of the city if you desire. You will be told the ages and names of the children; there will be a paragraph that will explain the specific needs of the family and probably what the youngsters hope for most in the way of gifts.

The letter also will contain suggestions for assembling various priced Christmas baskets. You will be the sole judge of what you give and how much you spend. You will deal with no organization. Once you have been made a Good Fellow, it will be up to you; you will be just the kind of Santa Claus you choose to be.

And there is one thing you can be sure of: The family you help will be eminently worthy. Names received by THE TRIBUNE are turned over to recognized charities. They are investigated. The worthy ones are placed in THE TRIBUNE'S files.

John Gillespie of the Tribune's Public Service office is in charge of the Good Fellow clearing house. Names filter through to him from many sources. And also to him go the offers of assistance and the applications of those who would be Good Fellows. And it is a job. Let Mr. Gillespie tell you a little about it:

Tells How Job Is Handled.

"The offers of help often come in by groups," he says. "Members of clubs, church groups, Boy Scout troops, tell us they will care for a given number of families. It is our business to supply them with the names of needy families.

"It might be said here that when a family is assigned to you, you have shouldered a responsibility. It is up to you to carry out your promise if they are to have a merry Christmas because their names have been removed from all Christmas charity lists.

"Almost all the people we help are receiving some kind of relief, but it should be remembered that relief provides only the food necessary for keeping body and soul together. There is no provision for Christmas.

"This is where the Good Fellows come in. They supply the fruit, the candy, the toys, and perhaps the fowl—the festive things that are the very esesnce of Christmas. They are the ones whose acts avert for thousands of youngsters each year that bitterest and most bewildering disappointment of childhood—the empty stocking."

So there you are. Being a Good Fellow is just as easy and simple and satisfying as that. And remember: That melancholy feeling we spoke of doesn't come to Good Fellows at Christmas time. It hasn't got a chance!

SLUMP BOOSTS BOOK BORROWING AT CITY LIBRARY

One of the benefits of the depression has been an increase in the circulation of books of the Chicago Public library. This was indicated in the library's annual report, issued yesterday by Chief Librarian Carl B. Roden.

Mr. Roden reported that total circulation for 1938 is expected to reach 12,187,110, an 18 per cent increase over last year. For the first eleven months of this year, 11,166,017 books—two million more than in a similar period in 1937—were circulated.

"Poor economic conditions are a major factor in heightening the public's use of the library," Mr. Roden said. "Since the October, 1937, recession people have had less money to spend on movies and entertainment and therefore take advantage of the free book circulation."

New books acquired this year amount to 182,982, while 91,535 were discarded. The total number of books now in the main and branch libraries is 1,730,746, which is more than in any year save 1931, when the stock reached an all time high of 1,766,412.

NAVAL AIRCRAFT EXPANSION PUT ON WIDER PLANE

Giant Flying Boats Are Undergoing Tests.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Teamwork with the fleet is the keynote of naval aviation and the navy department neither expects nor wants to share — to any great extent — in the tremendous expansion of air power now proposed for the army's air forces. That was the position taken by ranking officers of the navy bureau of aeronautics here today.

Admiral A. B. Cook, navy aeronautics bureau chief.

The rôle of aviation with the navy, they say, has become increasingly important with the years. The navy bureau of aeronautics has mapped accordingly a program calling for additions to personnel and first class fighting aircraft already available. This plan, now partly realized, will be adhered to regardless of appropriations given the army by congress.

Navy Has 2,000 Planes.

The navy officers point proudly to the navy's total of approximately 2,000 airplanes of which not more than 400 could be considered training or obsolete types that were available on July 1, 1938—beginning of this fiscal year. This number represents nearly twice as many first class ships as the army had available for duty at that time.

Despite opposition to aviation by many of the oldest and most powerful naval officers, the navy has built up an efficient bureau which carries on an extensive experimental program and in addition to the buying of new service planes the aeronautics bureau actually operates aircraft manufacturing plants.

While the army has progressed to multi-engined fighters, to four engined bombardment and reconnaissance planes capable of ranges up to 3,200 miles at speeds of 200 miles an hour or better, the navy has been content to use small planes for virtually every duty.

Admiral Tells Differences.

"The planes of the navy differ from those of land forces to as great an extent as do the missions of the two groups," said Rear Admiral A. B. Cook, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, in explaining naval aviation.

"Navy planes must be built with the smallest wing span practical to allow stowage aboard ships. They must be structurally stronger than normal planes to stand the strains incident to landing into the arresting gear of the carriers. [Arresting gear is a device that clutches and holds airplanes as they land on the carrier deck, thus making it possible for a fast plane to land on a small space.]

"They must carry radio equipment and navigational instruments and additional weight in the form of flotation gear for the planes and life saving equipment for the crews, while at the same time making no great sacrifice of speed or range."

Until recent years the sacrifice in range of navy craft was indeed small, but with such planes as the mighty army flying fortresses and the Douglas B-18s with 2,500 mile fighting ranges now in army service, the navy is finding itself distanced.

Two Lines Opening Up.

Two lines of development are opening up for naval operations.

The first concerns long range patrol operations and demands large flying boats capable of carrying heavy bomb loads, large crews, at high speeds for distances up to 5,000 miles. This is a relatively unexplored field for the navy, although two planes capable of these feats now are undergoing service tests.

These are the Consolidated four motored patrol boat and the Sikorsky four engined pocket battleship. Both have ranges in excess of 4,000 miles and both are said to be capable of speeds of more than 250 miles an hour. The Sikorsky can carry eight 1,000 pound bombs in its wings and is fitted with complete living quarters and as much radio as a surface destroyer. The Consolidated boat is said to be similarly equipped.

These boats may, in time, take over the duties of heavy cruisers. They make perfect scouting machines with their long range and their ability to operate from the open sea if necessary. They also combine formidable armament with their equipment.

The second line of development follows and supplements the navy's earlier history. This concerns the development of aircraft for use from catapults on battleships and cruisers, and of scouting planes, fleet fighters, and light bombers and torpedo planes for carrier operation.

The navy's carriers at present consist of the Saratoga, Lexington and Ranger with the fleet, the Yorktown and Enterprise launched and undergoing completion and the Wasp under construction. The carrier is a floating landing deck with complete shops for repair and maintenance of aircraft and stowage space for from 80 to 125 aircraft.

Depend on Nestlings for Defense.

These large boats have speeds ranging from 28 to 35 knots, and depend for defense upon their nestlings and upon their speed in escaping from pursuers. They are lightly armed to fight off motor boat, and submarine destroyer attacks.

Up to this time aviation has paid its way best with the use of carrier based airplanes to direct fleet gunfire, to control the fleet in movement, to detect submarines, to scout for enemy ships and to attack the smaller and more lightly armored of enemy ocean-going vessels.

The navy's insistence that airplanes could not put battleships out of action was based chiefly upon its experience with hits on smaller planes. The exercises that have been carried out recently with the army's largest bombers have shaken that belief to some extent.

During the last three years while the Sikorsky and Consolidated four motored patrol bombers were under construction, the navy has been operating, chiefly in the Pacific, an enormous fleet of twin-engined patrol boats. These also were the products of the Consolidated factory at San Diego.

Navy Chiefs Take Notice.

Flights of these patrol planes have been made from San Diego to Pearl Harbor, Honolulu; from San Diego to Coco Solo, Canal Zone; and from the San Diego base to Seattle and the Aleutian islands. These twin-engined boats with ranges up to 3,000 miles, began to open the eyes of the entire navy command to the possibilities of aircraft.

It is probable that, having tested the four-motored boat type, the navy may order fleets of these aircraft to compete with the army's crack bombardment planes.

A few naval aviators believe that heavy bombardment at sea will be taken over by the army's big bombers and that the navy's largest craft will be used chiefly for scouting and finding of targets worthy of attack by land-based army general headquarters air forces.

At the same time, the day of the carrier is not passed, these naval flyers believe.

OFFICE WIFE ON TRIAL TODAY AS LAWYER'S KILLER

Temporary Insanity and Self-Defense Her Plea.

St. Joseph, Mich., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Fern Patricia Dull, blonde and handsome office wife, will go on trial tomorrow on a charge of murdering William Holbrook.

Patricia Dull.

She will be defended by H. T. Dewhirst, bearded head of the House of David, and George B. Gould of Kalamazoo. Dewhirst, a former California judge who won the leadership of the Benton Harbor religious colony after King Ben Purnell was driven out eleven years ago, volunteered his services.

Gould announced that Mrs. Dull will plead self-defense and temporary insanity.

Known as Wife Six Years.

Mrs. Dull, secretary in Holbrook's Benton Harbor law office, shot Holbrook to death Oct. 17 in front of the Benton Harbor police station after she had begged him in vain to resume their romance. She had been known as the attorney's wife for six years, although he had a wife and four children in Kalamazoo.

Mrs. Dull, who is 34 years old, was taken from the Berrien county jail to the Mercy hospital in Benton Harbor Friday for an X-ray examination.

Attorney Gould explained that she has suffered severe headaches ever since the killing because of a terrific blow that Holbrook struck her just before she shot him. Although the X-ray failed to show the skull fracture Gould expected to find, he said there was evidence of a severe injury.

Prosecutor Hides Plans.

E. A. Westin, prosecuting attorney, has not yet disclosed whether or not he will ask life imprisonment. Michigan does not have the death penalty.

Mrs. Dull said in one of the few times she has discussed the case:

"A woman does funny things when she loves a man. Why I left him a dozen times, but I always returned."

She said he told her he was going out of town the day before she shot him. But she learned he had spent that night in a Benton Harbor hotel. She went there and begged him to return. He declined to do so and she followed to the police station where the shooting followed.

Mrs. Dull, a divorcée, has two children.

Cluney said Fenn admitted the slashing after being caught a block from a tavern where Strauser fell victim to a knife attack on himself and his companion, Beatrice Pookalani, 23.

Strauser was the son of Mary E. Strauser, R. F. D. 4, Kingwood, W. Va. Fenn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Fenn of Louisville, Ky.

PRESENT BELLS, HONOR PRIEST AT OAK PARK CHURCH

A set of four bells, the largest weighing a ton, was given formally to St. Edmund Catholic church, Oak Park avenue and Pleasant street, Oak Park, yesterday noon.

The bells, known as Westminster peals, are the gift of Robert Gore, former governor of Porto Rico and former Oak Park resident, who now lives in Miami, Fla. He was represented at the presentation by his son, Fitzgerald Gore, and his sister, Mrs. O. H. Hampsch, both of Oak Park. His mother, in whose honor the gift was made, is ill.

The bells were accepted by Msgr. John Code, pastor, whose 45th anniversary as a priest also was commemorated at the ceremony. A reception for the monsignor was held last night in the parish school. Judge John P. McGoorty spoke. James Howe, village president of Oak Park, was present.

FOUR VICTIMS' FACES RED AS ROBBER FLEES

Four blushing men turned out the bright lights of the drug store at 560 East 63d street last night, looked out the front window to make certain nobody was looking, and then ran outside. They were pantsless. A few moments earlier a gunman had held them up and taken $28. The victims were Charles Chladek, son of the drug store owner, and three patrons. After robbing them, the bandit made them remove their trousers. He carried the trousers outside, dropped them on the sidewalk, and then ran. His purpose was to delay pursuit. It worked. The first concern of the four blushing men when they stepped outside the store was to put their pants back on.

THE NEW DEAL IN MEXICO.

Mexico is in the unfortunate condition of a country in which control of events is passing over to persons who have excited desires and no intelligence and away from a minority which recognizes the errors but cannot stop them. The revolutionary idea that the country belongs to the workers and peasants is familiar in Lenin power politics. Although the Mexican government avoids the acknowledgment that it is Marxist, it is forced to yield to expropriations which belong nowhere except in the scheme of the dictatorship of the proletariat.

What there is of the Mexican middle class is intelligent enough to know that Mexico is engaged in a great folly. This class still has the privilege of saying so but is unable to stop the confiscations, which are cutting down the government revenue, decreasing employment, reducing pay, increasing debt, and destroying the financial and economic system.

The revolutionary Mexican workers virtually dictate what President Cardenas must do and their demands threaten to bankrupt the government and starve the country. Silver production, the government's remaining mainstay for revenue, is now threatened. Some of the largest silver mines have been closed by the inability of the companies to meet the wage demands of the workers. The United States silver buying policy, one of the strange idiocies of the New Deal, has been continued to help out the Mexican government in its distress, in spite of the unfriendliness of the dominant Mexican political class.

The silver workers have been warned by the Mexican financial secretary, Eduardo Suarez, that nearly all the remaining income of the government comes from silver mining and that the mines cannot meet the wage demands of the workers and continue to operate. That warning has had no effect and the revolutionaries insist that the profits shall be used for their benefit, regardless of the effect of their demands upon the continuance of work.

Apparently nothing can be done because the Mexican workers have been saturated with the phrases of Marxist revolution and are ignorant of everything else. They have been allowed to take over the railroads. They forced the expropriation of oil properties. They have taken agricultural properties away from even the small individual owners, and gradually Mexico is losing the use of the resources which might give a revenue to the government and a living to the people. If this continues, as seems inevitable, the ignorant and misguided people will soon find themselves trying to subsist on their Marxian ideology and nothing else. Then the security of the country will be threatened, and the government, which has been unable to stop the destructive trends, will reveal its complete weakness. When destitution begins to bite the foolish radicals, Mexico will fall into violent disorders against which it will have no protection and for which it will have no cure. It will become a land of banditry.

The United States is swinging on the tail of this revolutionary kite. Mr. Roosevelt's administration has given the expropriators the encouragement of example. The two governments are enough alike for John Lewis to praise them both in the same breath. Mexico robs the oil companies, the New Deal robs the public utilities. When Mr. Hull protests Cardenas replies that Mexico is doing what the New Deal is doing. That is true.

Mexico labor when it seizes property can point to the example of the C. I. O. and the labor board. What is good enough for an American property owner at home must be good enough for him in Mexico. The New Deal here is going logically to its rejection by the people. In Mexico it is going logically to ruin.

TRUCK REGULATION.

A bill has been prepared for introduction in the forthcoming session of the legislature, regulating the use of trucks in Illinois. Several years of study are said to have gone into the drafting of the bill; nevertheless, it should be scrutinized by the legislators with more than ordinary care. The subject is a large one and it directly affects almost every business, large and small, in the state as well as every farmer and every consumer.

The commercial use of the highways can be regulated in a variety of interests. The railroads see an advantage in restricting the use of trucks. Large trucking companies will be benefited if the operations of their smaller competitors are hampered. Labor organizations, insurance companies, the state treasury, truck dealers, and a great variety of other persons and interests can reap advantages from changes in the law. Unless human nature has undergone great changes since last the legislature met it is to be expected that one or another of these interests has been active in putting its ideas forward.

The truck bill is the kind of bill which frequently contains jokers. It should be carefully examined to make certain that it contains no provisions that look innocuous but aren't. The purpose of truck regulation should be the promotion of the fullest use of the highways subject to the requirements of safety and the prevention of physical damage to the roads. Truckers of all categories should not be hampered in serving the citizens of the state by rules and regulations which advance special interests rather than the general welfare.

CONSENT DECREES.

Some of the defendants in the Chicago milk case recently requested a thirty day postponement of the trial. They said they needed the time to work out a consent decree with the government. The request was opposed by Leo F. Tierney, special assistant to the attorney general. He said government counsel did not desire a continuance for such a purpose.

Prof. Thurman Arnold, who is in general charge of all anti-trust prosecutions, including the Chicago milk case, has devoted much of his time of late to singing the praises of consent decrees. Prof. Arnold referred directly to the Chicago milk case in a recent broadcast of the University of Chicago Round Table. The Chicago milk market, he said, is not like the Detroit milk market, and it seemed to follow from his remarks that the Sherman law may mean one thing in Chicago and another in Detroit. As Prof. Arnold himself put it:

"I do not think that the milk problem, even in Detroit, is the same as the milk problem in Chicago. I think if you apply the same rules to both of them—and also to the movies and steel—you get the kind of general abstract planning that I do not like."

Another name for the thing which Prof. Arnold does not like is government by law; and still another is equality before the law. His oath of office requires him to enforce the laws of the United States without distinction as to persons or localities, but this requirement seems to hamper his inventive talents. Accordingly he has developed a refined technique of bludgeoning to accomplish his ends.

He seeks indictments. If the defendants wish to avoid the expense of a trial and the risk of punishment, they may do so by negotiating with Prof. Arnold's division on the formulation of a consent decree. Prof. Arnold in this way brought the Ford and Chrysler companies to agree, among other things, to abstain from certain forms of advertising which were as lawful as taking a walk after dinner. These practices were not in violation of the Sherman act or any other civil or criminal statute.

Thus Prof. Arnold with his club has sought to usurp the law making power from congress. For the purpose of converting the United States into an executive tyranny and for the purpose of gaining control over business generally, this is better even than a rubber stamp congress and a packed Supreme court. The executive decides how the nation's economy should be organized, and the department of justice proceeds to bludgeon labor, farmers, capital, and every one else into the desired pattern. Congress is not consulted. The victims, having "consented" to the terms, are in a poor position to appeal to the courts for protection of their rights.

Prof. Arnold's devotion to the Sherman act is of rather recent origin. He didn't think too well of it as recently as a year or two ago, when he published his "Folklore of Capitalism," nor at that time did he appear to be greatly exercised over monopoly practices. His enthusiasm seems to date from his or somebody else's discovery of the uses to which consent decrees might be put in "making America over" without help from congress and without hindrance from the constitution and the courts.

The thoughtful citizen may well wonder what would happen if Prof. Arnold should gain court approval of consent decrees which actually promoted price rigging and controled markets. That is not a fantastic question, because the record of this administration shows that it frequently favors measures of this kind. NRA was one example. AAA and the Guffey coal law are others. Suppose, for example, that Prof. Arnold consents to an organization of the milk business in St. Louis on the Guffey plan and that a few years hence this results in higher prices for milk in St. Louis than in any other comparable city in the country. Can the department of justice at that time proceed against monopoly practices which the department of justice has already solemnly indorsed, indeed directed?

Prof. Arnold's representative, Mr. Tierney, as was said before, opposed the request for a continuance during which a consent decree might be negotiated. This fact is capable of a variety of interpretations. It may mean that Mr. Tierney does not share Prof. Arnold's ambitious notions and has an old-fashioned belief in fair play and government by law. It may also mean that Prof. Arnold, detecting a certain reluctance on the part of some of the defendants to fall in with his plan, is putting on the squeeze.

Editorial of the Day

ONE GOOD TURN.

[New York Herald-Tribune.]

The writer and the speaker, it is well known, almost never reside in the same person. Oliver Goldsmith wrote like an angel and talked like poor Poll, according to Garrick's rhyme. Many who cannot write as well as that but, happily and fluently enough, are seized with cramps in the organs of self-expression when called to their feet for a few remarks extempore, will even stutter over a prepared speech and risk acute dilatation of the heart on occasions when others would just magnificently dilate on the subject.

The man who is diffident before a sheet of paper but a lion when called on by the speaker is not at all badly off these days. For a few cents a word the ghost will outfit him from his general suggestions with a piece of hard copy that he can reherse once or twice in the parlor at home and then put his heft into it with great effect at the dinner or luncheon where the ghost writer himself would tend to swallow his own words, teeter into an aphasia, and collapse in the gilded chair.

The fellow who can write but would rather face machine gun fire than make a speech ought to get a break, too. There should be another kind of ghost: one who would leap to his feet and say just the right thing in the right amount, smiling joyously the while, exhibiting the poise of a veteran actor, as he doubles for the speech-shy man who has hired him and saved himself and his audience the acute misery of exhibited shyness.

"We are indeed honored to have with us this evening Mr. James Milkbottle, president of the Love and Life Publishing company——" Mr. Milkbottle acknowledges the introduction without rising, but with a gracious smile and nod indicates his understudy, his interpreter, his Charlie McCarthy, his ghost of eloquence—what to call him? There ought to be plenty of them anyway and as easily hired as evening clothes.

A RETURN TO THE FOLD.

A mysterious and handsome stranger with a tropical tan and the air of a pukka sahib peeked through the door of our sanctum the other day and then remarked sadly:

"I see that this place has changed hands."

We thought he might be a Lost Dauphin and said, "Entrez, Sire," in our best Bourbon manner.

But it was better than that. He turned out to be the long-lost Donfarran, a famed contributor from the middle distance of Line o' Type perspective—say twelve to fifteen years ago. He had wandered away beyond the horizon, leaving echoes of gypsy songs that were in the tradition of "Lavengro" and "Romany Rye," and here he was back again, like Enoch Arden.

He told us that his gypsy singing had died during the depression, and of late he had been touring Brazil, Uruguay, and Argentina with Richard Bennett, the actor [yes, Connie's and Joan's fearless father]. A book of Bennett's memoirs, covering forty-five years in the American theater, was the purpose of this strange choice of traveling companion.

Brazil enchanted the wandering minstrel. "Tell them you are a Nort Americano," he said, "and they open their doors and their hearts. . . . Which reminds me of the only lovely senhorita I lost my own heart to down there."

"Hold everything!" we exclaimed. "Don't talk it; write it."

After a brief interlude of music in the Latin-American manner we will hear Donfarran's Brazilian tale.

Didi Was a Lady.

She was leaning over the half-door of the kitchen as we rode up . . . great black eyes, clusters of black curls, and her own skin almost as black. I suspected, even as she disappeared, that there might be a white skin under that black. It was not until I was finishing my sixth cafe pequina at dinner that I saw her again . . . a momentary glance when I heard her at the door. I gave chase, and found her back in a corner of the dark kitchen where Black Maria ruled her world. My suspicions grew. Black Maria said unkind things to me as I half-carried, half-dragged Didi toward the bathroom. What Didi said, since she spoke no English, remains partly a mystery.

Her dress practically dropped off . . . it had been worn so long and well. I turned the water on in the bathtub and dumped half a box of American soap flakes into it. Didi's anger at me subsided in her fascination at seeing the white bubbles rise and fill the tub . . . and then I dropped her into the cleansing bath, despite her howls of Portuguese rage.

I had been 100 per cent correct . . . the brush I used took off the black layers and there emerged a lovely white senhorita . . . the only senhorita in Brazil I lost my heart to. . . . Didi was 3 years old!

That was two years ago; she'd be five now. I rode to Macuco the next day and bought her some new sandals and half-socks . . . and that night, after she had gone to bed, I tiptoed in . . . to find her lying there, dark curls against the white pillow, the half-socks pulled up over her wrists and her little fists each jammed into the new shoes. Life would be empty without that memory.

HEART DISEASE—IMAGINARY AND REAL.

EVERY physician of long experience will bear witness to the assertion that a good deal of our supposed heart disease is imaginary. Rarely will the patient be afflicted who begins an interview with the statement: "Doctor, I have trouble with my 'ticker.' I want you to tell me what to do." Nevertheless, many have been advised that some difficulty exists and the evidence may be a mild systolic murmur, which in itself can be disregarded as a rule. Then again those who have fainted occasionally or who have experienced a twinge of neuralgia in the region of the pumping organ are prone to decide for themselves that they are harboring some fatal ailment. Dizziness and a sense of collapse more often than not arise from sources within the digestive tract.

It would be a wonderful thing if we could get rid of these groundless fears, as they are responsible for much discouragement. Furthermore, an erroneous diagnosis may change the entire current of one's life. Plighted troths may be broken, vocations altered, and sometimes a man or woman may become a pure hypochondriac. It may take overwhelming evidence with numerous consultations on the part of experts to convince the presumed victim that the original advice was an honest mistake.

In addition, a great many people are heart conscious because of nervous irritability. They are suffering from functional conditions which have no organic basis, that is, there is no destruction of tissue, no injury to vital cells. An incidental palpitation, a period of rapid throbbing, or a skipped or irregular beat may call attention to the power house so forcibly that the patient can easily persuade himself that something is wrong. This despite repeated reassurances on the part of a skilled physician.

But heart disease is present in our midst. In fact, approximately 2 per cent—half of whom are children—of our total population are afflicted with some disorder of the cardiac apparatus. What are the causes? There are four principal factors: [1] rheumatism, [2] syphilis, [3] high blood pressure, and [4] hardening of the arteries. Rheumatism can be prevented only by the strictest sort of attention to general health—the avoidance of infections or their prompt treatment upon appearance so that no damage will result. Proper safeguards against overexposure, chilling, and wet feet are demanded. Then, too, anemia may be eliminated by enough sleep, proper food, and outdoor activity—all of which help to maintain reserve at a high level.

The campaign against syphilis may free us from this malady if persisted in assiduously. Let us hope that this enemy of efficiency will be pursued persistently until the one agent most likely to destroy the integrity of the cardiac machine has been eliminated.

We know of no way, however, in which high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries can be combated other than by reducing the wear and tear upon the tissues and adopting a saner, more equable, more temperate regimen. Here stress and strain—the products of modern business and social life—are far from helpful. If more is demanded of the circulation than it can well perform we have no right to complain should a break ensue.

Every man and woman 50 years of age and over should have an annual check-up as to the competency of the heart. Early diagnosis is the essence of successful treatment. It is just common sense to understand that if there is real trouble the sooner it can be recognized and managed the better. No more distressing picture is presented than that of the person who comes to his doctor with some vital function completely out of gear.

Nevertheless, much can be accomplished with the tired, worn out organ, if there is enough left to build on. An accurate calculation of the amount of work which the tissues can stand can be made. While it may mean a reordered and revamped program, with not quite so many hours at the office, the individual will be saved to society in his most productive years.

MAY NEED REST.

L. P. H. writes: An exceptionally bright child, 7 years old, has the habit of going to sleep at any unoccupied moment during the day. He has done this for several years. What does this indicate? Is there any treatment?

REPLY.

Does the child get enough sleep at night aided by naps during the day? In the absence of other symptoms, there is probably nothing wrong but the need of more rest. Narcolepsy, of course, should be investigated if the condition persists.

MAY BE WEEKS.

T. D. writes: I have had yellow jaundice and am feeling much better, but my skin has not cleared up. How long will this take?

REPLY.

The symptoms subside within a few days after the jaundice appears, but the depression, discoloration, and condition of the stools may persist for two or three weeks or even longer. Much depends, however, upon the cause and the amount of damage suffered by the organs involved.

PROPERTY TITLE.

Joliet, Ill., Dec. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Several years ago I purchased real estate in Ohio, and in order to be able to dispose of it when I wished had it appear on record as being bought by my brother, and he gave me power of attorney to dispose of it whenever I wished. Now I wish to have the property to appear on the records in my name, and my brother has given me quit claim deed and my wife has relinquished her right of dower. Now, if I have these two deeds recorded will it be all that is necessary? J. C. F.

You do not make clear in what manner your wife's relinquishment of dower will appear of record. We see no reason why a deed from your brother, joined in by his wife, if he has one, should not be sufficient to plant title in you, subject to your wife's dower. A separate conveyance by your wife to you would not prevent her from having dower subsequently, if that is what you mean to ask.

LOOKS FOR STORM OF PROTEST.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—The reciprocal trade agreements with Great Britain and Canada, cleverly held up until after election, have been signed, to become effective Jan. 1.

The swap [better known as "swat"] is that our entire consumer goods industries are to be sacrificed for a few metal and machinery manufacturers, and what is presumed to be a reduction for our agriculturists, particularly the canners.

Our industries are in a state of coma right now, caused by shock. It is the calm before the storm. As manufacturers begin to realize the real significance of the trade agreement and how cleverly they have been "sold out" for some special interests, we anticipate a storm of protests that will be heard from coast to coast.

While England and Canada will greatly increase their exports into the United States, the real menace to our manufacturers is that every nation in the world except Germany will be allowed the same reduction of protective tarif. The biggest beneficiary of the British treaty is Japan and other low wage countries. JOHN H. KERR,
Advisory council, Made in America club, Inc.

JIMMY WENT TO THE MAYOS.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—Jimmy Roosevelt is a bright boy who has gone far despite, as he says, the handicap of being a President's son. But, like the rest of us, he has his weaknesses. His are peptic ulcers.

Recently he had to choose a doctor. It would be interesting to know his thought in his hour of sickness. Did he feel, like his father, that his ulcers were a "public problem" rather than a medical one? Was he swayed by his mother's enthusiastic indorsement of Washington's federal health clinic? Did he rush to a nearby government hospital?

No. In spite of the inconsistency, the inconvenience, and the expense, he hot-footed halfway across the continent to the Mayo clinic, where he could secure the best of private care.

We wonder if there isn't a moral in this for father, mother, and the rest who would deny millions a privilege they reserve for themselves.

THEODORE H. MADAY, M. D.

A FILE FOR PROTECTION.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Every few days we read of morons attacking girls and women on our streets. The victims, being defenseless, are at their mercy.

Every one can purchase a wood file at any hardware or ten cent store for a few cents and if this is drawn across the face or even the hand of the assailant I am sure this would discourage any further molestation besides mark him up for further identification.

E. O. BAKER.

A PUN THAT WENT WRONG.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—"And we shall have Leema Beans for dinner." Your attempt at punning the name Leema ain't funny. Your editorial, however, is interesting.

How can we children learn our geography and correct pronunciations of other nation's names if you deliberately mispronounce them?

CHARLES BROAD JR.,

PERPETUAL MOTION.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Most people don't seem to be complete without a wad of gum in their mouths, and their jaws in perpetual motion. E. PETERSON.

FEMININE RULE IRKS.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—The "hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world," and the "hand" that rules practically every modern business office [either directly or indirectly] is a woman executive or private secretary. In my opinion, feminine employers, generally speaking, simply don't know how to be fair. When women employés are hired or fired, it is a matter of personal liking or prejudice. Ability or lack of ability has nothing to do with it. When "men were men" and ruled their own offices, the writer was always able to secure and retain her positions. My services were appreciated and I was always treated with courtesy. In those "good old days," intelligence, initiative, and ability were sought after. I am positive that business would improve if men "took the reins" again and employed only competent people who really need jobs. UNEMPLOYED WOMAN STENO.

THE TAX BILL PROBLEM.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Don't advocate taking away property from tax delinquents. Give them a chance by reducing penalties to a minumum and enacting a partial payment plan for paying delinquent taxes over a period of seven to ten years with interest at 3 per cent. Then put a tax limitation on property at 1 per cent.

Most delinquents want to pay, but haven't all the money, and that is no reason why their property should be confiscated. For example: In 1916 a $7,000 bungalow paid taxes of $80. Gradually this was increased until in 1930 it was the unbelievable amount of $654. The owner is in financial distress. He could pay part of his tax bill, but the accumulation of penalties make this impossible.

Please, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, advocate giving him a chance to pay on an easy instalment plan, and he will pay up.

FRED KLEIN.

RADIO ADVERTISING.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Like millions of others I am a dyed in the wool radio fan, immensely thankful for the opportunities we have of listening to events near and far over the air. But there are some things of which I would speak.

Some sponsors, it seems to me, are killing their own goose, so to speak, by the endeavor to plug too strongly for their product, making guest artists plug the product. We have plenty of high class programs on the air where the guest speakers or artists do not of themselves tell of the benefits personally of the product being sponsored. H. R. S.

AIRPORT CLOSE TO SAN JOSE.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—I note today's article on Costa Rica, by Capt. Corpening: "The airport is very small and in a miserable location, way out from the city, etc."

Perhaps the captain had to make a forced landing in some other area, or is he actually in Costa Rica? The airport at San José is right on the edge of the city, a well paved boulevard going directly to it, a straight street from the center of the city, a car line going directly to it also, and not over a 15 minute drive by motor.

True, it is not paved with concrete runways, but it is level and the cows do graze there, as it is cheaper than mowers, I suppose. But one can get out to the airport three times quicker than one can do in Chicago, and the San José airport is certainly not difficult to reach. Is the captain really there?

$1 FOR TRUCK DRIVER GRYBAS.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 5.—Herewith find one dollar. I wish it would start a fund to reimburse the young truck driver, 20 years old, Bruno Grybas, 4446 South Fairfield avenue, who mortgaged his truck to pay the railroad fare of the mother and sister of the 8 year old boy killed by Grybas' truck. It is clear Grybas was not to blame. He tried his best to avoid hitting the boy. The accident happened on Lincoln highway near Chicago Heights a week ago. I wish the publication of this letter would stir others to chip in until Grybas is reimbursed for the entire amount— $125.

ANONYMOUS.

WHAT LINCOLN SAID.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Yesterday's TRIBUNE printed a cogent letter on the misnomer prevalent among certain historians and others affected by sectionalism, viz., "The war between the states."

Be it remembered that Lincoln, in his Gettysburg address, said: "Now we are engaged in a great civil war," etc. Lincoln certainly had first hand knowledge of the conflict of 1861-'65 and his phrase should be regarded as the one and only correct one.

I have ransacked the public library and book stores, but have been unable to locate any works of that man. I had the title and first line given to me, but unfortunately they were lost. G. M. C.

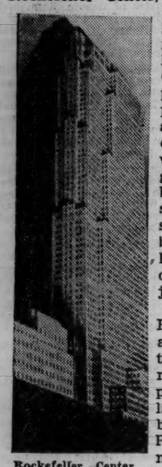
BIG ROCKEFELLER CENTER EXPANDS; BUILDS 13TH UNIT

Giant Development Facing Ten Million Suit.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Rockefeller Center, Inc., the supercolossal 100 million dollar building development here in New York City, is now approaching completion. There is a difference of opinion over whether the gigantic cluster of buildings of odd shapes and assorted sizes will be a boon to mankind or a thing of beauty and a joy forever.



Rockefeller Center.

To John D. Rockefeller Jr. and son Nelson, the gardeners who raised up this stupendous concrete landscape, their brain child is the Parthenon of the modern age. The ancient Greeks would have a word for the art and architecture which abounds here.

Seven different architects designed these structures and more than a score of sculptors and artists embroidered them to suit their individual fancies. The result is a hodge podge that not only baffles the newcomer but bewilders the local citizenry which daily is forced to tread its way through the maze.

Tenancy Policy Assailed.

The practices which the Rockefellers adopted in persuading tenants to enter the gaudy structures are still the subject of a 10 million dollar damage suit pending against them. It is claimed that John D. Jr. is as tenacious in pursuing tenants as his father was in building up the Standard Oil empire.

The suit was brought by August Hecksher, prominent real estate man and philanthropist. Hecksher accused the Rockefellers of unlawfully assuming leases of prospective tenants in order to induce them to move into their development and offering other unfair inducements. He charged they had created a "modern Frankenstein" which was depopulating buildings and leaving blighted areas in the city.

Injunction Sought.

Hecksher sought an injunction. When the action was started in 1934, George F. Thompson, Hecksher's attorney and a former state senator, stated the reason as follows:

"The Rockefeller-Todd & Robertson group [the latter renting agents for the enterprise], having embarked upon an unnecessary and stupendous building operation, are now indulging in unfair and unlawful practices for the purpose of forcing tenants to their buildings in the Rockefeller Center, and thereby building up a monopoly. Mr. Hecksher has determined to put a stop to these practices."

Inquiries at Hecksher's offices this week brought the information that the suit had not been withdrawn and is in a position to be pressed at any time Hecksher and other complaining parties see fit.

Coercion Is Charged.

The suit accused the Rockefellers of dragging tenants from other buildings by "coercion," forcing individuals or corporations to "cancel or ignore existing leases"; charged they had paid tenants on the outside "sums of money" to induce them to ignore present leases; had assumed at "large and extravagant cost to defendants" the leases of tenants in other buildings; and had taken tenants "at prices less than required by defendants to meet taxes, legal interest, and actual cost of operation."

The land dominated by the Rockefellers is marking out a new retail center for the city bounded by decrepit 6th avenue on the west and extending eastward beyond the 5th avenue shopping section to Lexington avenue where the boundary is set by the new Waldorf-Astoria hotel. Yet this new center is approximately a mile from the Grand Central terminal and two miles from the Pennsylvania station.

Controls 12 Acres.

Rockefeller Center, Inc., controls 12 acres of ground, nearly the whole of the three blocks from 48th to 51st streets, between 5th and 6th avenues. Most of the land is rented from Columbia university. In addition to the Rockefeller cash the financing included a mortgage of $44,300,000 held by the Metropolitan Life.

Besides the big office buildings the new center boasts of two large theaters, the Music hall, the stage of which measures exactly fifty chorines across, and the darkened Center, a white elephant on the Rockefellers' hands. Then there are the broadcasting studios of "Radio City," the exhibition halls, numerous stores, restaurants, and night clubs.

Several months ago Time, Inc., publishers of Time, Life, and Fortune magazines, moved out of the Chrysler building and into one of the Rockefeller edifices. The Associated Press shortly will establish new offices in a building constructed and named for it by the Rockefeller interests. This latter move will leave a gap in a Madison avenue building.

Annual Rental of $250,000.

Details of the negotiations behind the writing of the long term lease between the Center and Time are unknown. The lease was for 80,000 square feet and carries an annual rental of $250,000.

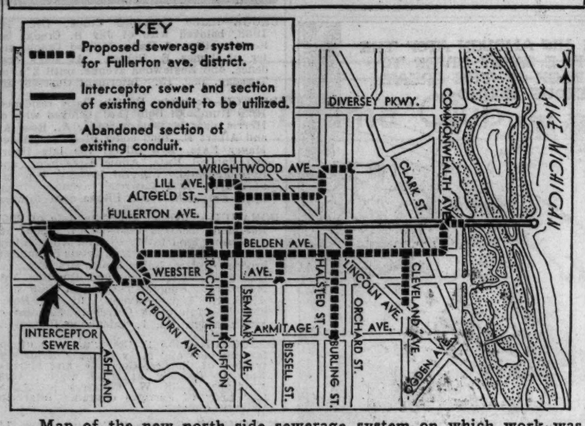
Time took the top seven floors of a thirty-six story office building between 48th and 49th streets, just off 5th avenue. The building had been in service for a year but the Rockefellers newly christened it the Time and Life building. They also threw in some nudes in bas-relief with gilded hair set in a sky blue background over the 49th street entrance to the building.

To the west of Time and Life and across the street named Rockefeller plaza the thirteenth unit in the center soon will rear its head. Excavation has started and the Rockefellers have provided special accomodations, labeled the "sidewalk superintendents' club," where idlers may watch the shovels scoop up rock and dirt. This is to be a fifteen story combination office building and garage.

The Rockefellers have announced they will stop when they build one more building. Construction of this unit, the fourteenth and another huge office building, will begin next fall. It will be ready for occupancy by May 1, 1940.

The central monadnock in the development is the seventy story R. C. A. building, which houses the broadcasting studios of the National Broadcasting company. In the sunken plaza directly in front of this building is the grotesque statue which has provoked the most laughter. This is the gilded figure of "Prometheus Unbound," otherwise known as "Leaping Louie," stretched out above a fountain which is a popular wading pool for inebriates.

Use Old Conduit as Sewer Link



Map of the new north side sewerage system on which work was started last week. City engineers are utilizing part of a conduit built in 1880 to connect Lake Michigan to the north branch of the Chicago river. The conduit had been abandoned but is to be hooked up with interceptor sewer in constructing system.

Cleaning Planned

Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, yesterday told how city engineers are utilizing part of an old water conduit under Fullerton avenue in the construction of additional sewers on the north side. Work on the new system started last week and will be completed before next summer.

The water conduit extending from Lake Michigan to the north branch of the Chicago river was built in 1880. It was used in pumping water from the lake to flush out the river, which in those days was filled with sewage.

Recently an investigation showed that the part of the conduit between the river and Racine avenue is still in good condition. It will be cleaned and strengthened. Then it will be brought back into service to connect the new sewers with a sanitary district intercepting sewer near the river.

ESKIMOS HAPPY HUSBANDS, SAYS GLACIER PRIEST

Finds No Wife Trading or Igloos in Alaska.

Father Hubbard.

Father Bernard R. Hubbard, the "glacier priest," arrived in Chicago yesterday from his recent arctic voyage. He promptly dispelled two popular illusions about the Alaskan Eskimos. They don't live in igloos and they don't do any wife trading.

"On my latest trip and during my twelve years of scientific exploration I've found mighty few Eskimos who inhabit igloos," Father Hubbard said. "Those near Nome know what an igloo looks like only because a Hollywood movie company constructed one there once!"

Modern Eskimos live in modern houses with corrugated steel or wooden roofs, the priest said.

Eskimo a Devoted Husband.

As for wife trading? "Bosh!" declared Father Hubbard. "The Eskimos are the happiest of married people, they have practically no divorces, no immorality. It's something of a disappointment to come back from the arctic from such simple and joyous folk to find nothing but distress and worry and strife in so many sections of the world allegedly sophisticated and civilized."

Father Hubbard's exploring party consisted of two other white men and six Eskimos. In a primitive walrus skin canoe, forty feet long, they set out in July, 1937, on a 2,000 mile "top of the world" cruise in the Bering sea and Arctic oceans from King Island, a square mile of rock ninety miles west of Nome.

Finds Raw Whale Good.

During the next year Father Hubbard visited numerous Alaskan tribes living in the farthest reaches of the arctic. He studied their customs, folklore, and language, and ate their favorite foods—raw whale and frozen fish.

"Those foods are as wholesome and delicious as any we have concocted with more scientific methods," the priest smiled. "As a result the Eskimos are healthy and rarely have stomach ailments common to civilized peoples."

Father Hubbard, who is a professor of geology at Santa Clara university, California, will describe his recent experiences in an illustrated lecture tonight in the Loyola Community theater, 1320 Loyola avenue.

PRESS INQUIRY IN DEATH OF MAN CLAD AS WOMAN

Galesburg, Ill., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Galesburg police and Coroner George S. Bower of Knox county will continue their investigation into the death of Gale Davison tomorrow. They believe Davison committed suicide by hanging himself from a small tree. A mysterious angle in the death was Davison's attire—all women's clothing, except a topcoat and a brown wig.

Mrs. Maud Davison, his widowed mother, refused to believe her son killed himself and today asked State's Attorney E. D. Hardy to have the contents of her son's stomach analyzed for possible poison. Mrs. Davison did not believe it unusual for her son to be wearing women's clothing and makeup. She said he frequently dressed that way for masquerade parties, although there was none Friday night so far as could be learned.

Keys found in Davison's coat pocket opened his car parked on a downtown street. Police found women's shoes, dresses, a much used makeup kit, Davison's shoes and trousers in the car. Investigation thus far has revealed Davison was a man of good habits, popular with a wide circle of friends and without worries.

S. E. ERICKSON, 78, FORMER COURT CLERK, IS DEAD

Samuel E. Erickson, 78 years old, former clerk of the Superior court and for many years active in Cook county Republican affairs, died yesterday in the Illinois Masonic hospital. He was taken there after he suffered a stroke at his home, 532 Aldine avenue.

Mr. Erickson was brought to Chicago from Sweden as an infant. He was a telegraph messenger boy and worked in shops and factories before entering politics. In 1890, at the suggestion of Joseph Medill, he ran for the state legislature and served six terms. Later he engaged in the real estate business and at one time was president of the Chicago and Cook county real estate board. He was Superior court clerk from 1920 to 1928. In recent years he had traveled extensively.

A son, County Commissioner William N. Erickson, and three daughters, Mrs. Gustav Andreen, Mrs. Kenneth Olson, and Mrs. Clifford K. Ostrom, survive. Funeral services will be held in the Immanuel Lutheran church, Greenview and Elmdale avenues, at 2 p. m. Wednesday.

700 to Attend Chicago Railway Police Banquet

More than 700 legislators, national, state, and city law enforcement officers, and railroad officials are expected to attend the dinner of the Chicago Railway Special Agents and Police association at 6 p. m. tomorrow evening at the Hotel Sherman. The association's membership is made up of the police organizations of the railroads serving the Chicago areas. W. I. Spitler, chief special agent of the Monon railway, is its president.

WORLD GROWING WARMER, SOVIET SCIENTISTS SAY

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Dec. 11.—The findings of soviet explorers aboard the icebreaker Syedoff, now drifting within 300 miles of the north pole, together with observations by other investigators, have caused soviet scientists to conclude that the world is growing warmer. This conclusion was voiced today in reports published separately by Prof. N. N. Zupoff of the meteorological institute of the northern sea route administration, and Prof. L. Berg, corresponding member of the soviet academy of sciences.

Both scientists mention the gulf stream as a possible cause of the rising temperatures, but agree that other factors are causing the temperature of the stream to rise. They give considerable credence to the theory that climatic change may be due to increased heat from the sun, either because solar radiation has been intensified or because resistance of the earth's atmosphere to the sun rays has been reduced.

BODIES OF TWO, MISSING 3 WEEKS, SOUGHT IN LAKE

An extensive search was made yesterday of Lake Como for the bodies of Frederick Hirschmann and his wife, Theresa, who are believed to have drowned Nov. 19. The lake is near Lake Geneva, Wis. The couple lived at 2930 Eastwood avenue.

They were last seen fishing on the lake toward dusk on that day. The rowboat in which they had started out was found overturned several days later. Their pet dog, with them at the time, was found dead in shallow water a week ago. Authorities do not believe the dog drowned and an examination of his vital organs is being made.

Sheriff Joseph Dorr of Walworth county and his aids searched every cottage along the shores of the lake during the day. Win and George Hirschmann, sons of the missing couple, have offered a reward of $150 for the recovery of the bodies.

MANILA, Dec. 12 [Monday.]—(AP)—Relief workers reported today the whole town of Camalig had been buried in volcanic debris washed from the slopes of the famous Mayon volcano by flood waters in last week's typhoon.

An overnight report of three more fatalities brought the typhoon death toll to 148. Many persons still were missing. The typhoon was the worst in several years.

Snow Chasers Start Season; Long for Snow

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALL that is needed to make today a perfect one for ski enthusiasts is a heavy snowfall. The morning's mail will bring invitations to members of the Snow Chase club to continue their subscriptions, and to take part in the first of the winter's activities, a luncheon on Friday at the Palmer house. Ski movies in color will be shown after luncheon, to refresh the audience's memory of christianias, stemming, running, slalom, etc.

About the only skiing the Snow Chasers witnessed in these parts last winter was in other movies shown at a luncheon in January, for there never was enough snow to cover well the trails on the club's thousand acre tract of land near La Crosse, Wis. "Great expectations from little snowflakes grow," reads the opening line of the invitations. Last season there were only the "great expectations," but this year the weather man has promised the little snowflakes, so the invitations say.

In addition to the club's acreage, La Crosse public Snow Bowl, established with the active help of the Snow Chasers, is improved and available. Those who can fall with dignity may join the throngs in this snug little valley, while those who prefer to fall with privacy may adjourn to the club's private slopes.

Cost of a Week-end of Skiing Kept Low.

Since many of the Snow Chasers are young married couples, the cost of a skiing week-end has been kept low. It includes train fares, rooms, and three meals at the hotel, transportation to the fields, and sleigh rides on Saturday nights. The Linker hotel, the club's headquarters in La Crosse, provides a waxing room and a clubroom for the use of Snow Chasers.

So its members will know what became of the dues collected last year an operating statement signed by Stewart Boal, president; Miss Frances Jeffery, secretary, and Henry Meers, treasurer, is included with the invitations. After disbursements for incorporating and legal fees, cutting trails and use of land, direction signs, insignia distributed to members, and printing and mailing expenses, there is a deficit of $1.85.

A new name has been added to list of directors of the club, that of Miss Peggy Hixon, whose aunt by marriage, Mrs. Frank Hixon, is a native of the Wisconsin town. The other directors are Everett L. Millard Jr., Edgerton Throckmorton, Ralph F. Chatillon, and Arthur Holbrook of Milwaukee.

Whether the club has a New Year's party at La Crosse will depend on weather conditions.

Benjamin Fairbank Weds Virginia Hobart Today.

There is nothing Blue Mondayish about today as far as the Hobart and Fairbank families are concerned, for they are to be united this afternoon through the marriage of Miss Virginia Hobart and Benjamin Ayer Fairbank. The wedding will be a small one, for only the families, at 4:30 p. m. in Christ church chapel, Winnetka. A larger reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hastings Hobart, also in Winnetka.

Miss Hobart will have her younger sister, Miss Barbara Hobart, for her maid of honor, and their only brother, John Hastings Hobart, who is at home from the Hill school, will be an usher. The bridesmaids are Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank Jr., whose husband is to be his brother's best man; Miss Frances Bell, a cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Chouteau Dyer of St. Louis and New York.

The other ushers are another cousin of the bridegroom, Cecil Barnes Jr., Frederick E. Bissell of Dubuque, Ia., and Thomas Stirling of Holyoke, Mass., and Wilmington, Del.

The bridegroom's only sister, Miss Janet Fairbank, will cable her congratulations from Germany, where she is studying singing. Another cable will come from Mr. Fairbank's cousin, Mrs. Geoffrey de Freitas [Helen Bell], who is living in London, and through whom Miss Hobart and Mr. Fairbank met. Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell, who have just returned from a visit with their daughter and Mr. de Freitas, are entertaining at a luncheon today for their nephew and his fiancée.

Mr. Fairbank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank of North State parkway, and his bride will be at

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

State's Attorney Courtney's Viewpoint.

Excerpt from New York Letter.

"Now and then we do go to town between snowfalls. We went last week to a party for Gifford Strachey to see how he gets around not being allowed to lecture, which he does by answering questions. It was chi chi communist stuff in a room with gray plaster of Paris curtains and gleaming south sea shell tables. The audience was semi-precious. . . . Muriel Draper in emerald green, with purple bits like eye shadow, gloves, etc. Glenway Westcott, Ruth Ford, Julian Levy, the Amsters, and lots of tired women—expensively tired as if their names should be Oelrichs. . . . A little colored man in a cutaway, bow tie, and tucked up cuffs kept begging for inside tidbits about the Cliveden set. I wish Evelyn Waugh had been there. . . ."

Understatement.

A man recently returned from restored Williamsburg was asked by Mrs. Robert Lynn Fontaine [yes, that's her name] what he thought of it. He pondered for a moment. "Why, it's quite colonial," he answered.

It was the same Mrs. Fontaine who was asked by her husband, when she commented that she certainly did want to see Amphitryon 38:

"Aren't the '39 models out yet?"

Oddments (or Why Not Oddenda?)

The girl on the Devon avenue street car reading a tiny Bible, smoking a cigaret as she read. . . . There's a $50 an ounce perfume on sale in Chicago, Tresur de la Mer. (It's not our bad French—that's what it's called.) The perfume is in a pearl in a simulated crystal shell. . . . Movie Star Louise Campbell, home to visit her parents, walking her Dobermann and Irish setter in the North avenue-Lincoln park vicinity. Miss Campbell had just finished bathing Mickey, the setter, in the garage and was still wearing overalls and rubber boots when a telegraph boy arrived with a telegram for her. "Well, you certainly don't look like a movie star to me," he blurted out when she said she was Miss Louise Campbell, recipient of the message. . . . Probably the success of The Mikado with a Negro cast as produced at the Great Northern theater is responsible for the fact that Alfred de Liagre is considering producing the Gilbert and Sullivan favorite in New York to swing music with a colored cast.

Opera Addicts Hear Stars at Benefit Show

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Opera addicts gaped delightedly last night as their favorite singers passed one by one across the stage of the Civic Opera house. The evening was a benefit concert for the Chicago City Opera company, and everybody had a chance to see how the various artists looked in ordinary 1938 dress clothes instead of the exotic costumes in which they are usually encased.

Also participating were the opera orchestra and chorus and the Catherine Littlefield ballet. Dino Bigalli, Angelo Canarutto, and Leo Kopp divided the conducting duties among them.

Annunciata Garrotto, George Czaplicki, Margefy Mayer, Eva Turner, Armand Tokatyan, Helen Jepson, Constance Merrell, Jean Fardulli, James Melton, Hilde Reggiani, Carlo Morelli —so runs the catalog of the men and women who sang each a song or two and vanished into the wings. All of the offerings were solos except for the fourth act quartet from "La Boheme" and the "Inneggiamo il Signore" from "Cavalleria Rusticana." Virtually all of the music was operatic.

Random notes on a crowded evening:

The tremendous nobility of Mme. Turner's singing of Isolde's Love Death. The confidence with which her voice rode above the chorus in the "Cavalleria" excerpt. The sureness with which Helen Jepson negotiates the dizziest turns of the "Sempre Libera." The richness of the Morelli baritone in the best passages of Rigoletto's "Pari Siamo." The sensuous splendor of Margery Mayer's contralto and the warm way in which she can personalize a phrase.

RACHMANINOFF RECITAL

Sergei Rachmaninoff, Russian pianist who was characterized by a writer in this paper yesterday as a man who believes that heaven is a place where his C-sharp minor Prelude is never heard, got around to this hardy little piece toward 5:30 yesterday afternoon. His performance of it marked the end of the encore group which the enthusiasm of an Orchestra hall audience had compelled him to add to his printed program.

A little earlier Mr. Rachmaninoff had played a Liszt Sonnetto del Petrarca with superb eloquence of phrasing and sonority of tone, and had tossed off the atrociously hard "Venezia e Napoli" of the same composer in a manner so finished that the performance denied the existence of any difficulties.

Still earlier there was a group of twelve Chopin Preludes, of which some [E-minor and B-minor, for instance] were examples of pianism of the most delicate sort and others [E-flat major, B-flat minor] fell considerably this side of a full realization of what we are justified in believing the composer's intention to have been. The lusty performance of the E-flat and the imperfectly articulated delivery of the B-flat minor were worlds away from what we like to believe is the utter featheriness of the first and the granite precision of the second.

Good Morning!

You know that one about "casting your bread upon the waters"? And about the faith that can move mountains? . . . Bear same in mind as you contemplate the case of gentle Miss Ellen Fortune who takes into her bosom a brood of vipers [do vipers come in broods?] and experiences the miracle of seeing them turn into a covey of ministering doves.

"The Young in Heart" is choice and delicate comedy that plays on your heartstrings the while you smile.

Misgivings over the fate of Miss Fortune are yours for a while, but if you're a character reader, it's not long before you realize that your worries are groundless.

Miss Fortune is a lonely old lady, rich because of a fortune left her in her old age by a one time sweetheart whom she had distrusted and sent awa'. . . . This lack of faith she has always repented, and when she meets the Carletons, an engaging family who don't like working for a living, and has her life saved—or so she believes—in a train wreck by them, she is all set to believe in them to the limit. . . . She urges them to come and live with her in the grand abode where she's been rattling round alone.

With an eye to the future, and a possible will in which they shall be named as beneficiaries, the Carletons move in on Miss Fortune and are perfectly charming to her, the while her lawyer glowers in the background and finally tries to take action. . . .

But cold blooded plans dissolve under the sunshine of the old lady's trust and loving dependence on her guests. . . . The day the Carletons think she is to die—well—please see the picture for a surprise finale.

Minnie Dupree, beloved stage veteran, gives a deeply moving performance as Miss Fortune. Billie Burke, Roland Young, Janet Gaynor, and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. are clever as the Carletons.

Paulette Goddard, in a minor rôle, proves that she would be no slouch as Scarlett. And if you don't write in asking questions about Richard Carlson as the Scotch lover of George-Ann Carleton, I miss a flock of guesses. Like Miss Dupree he hails from the "legitimate." Swell looker. Fine actor.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 12.—Reason that Howard Hughes is ducking the Hollywood night life is because he is in line for a tremendously important aeronautic post! . . . Plenty of show business drama in the announcement that Joan Blondell and Dick Powell have ripped up their Warner contracts. . . . The Anatole Litvaks [Miriam Hopkins] are worrying their friends—but plenty. . . . Mary Carlisle and Junior Laemmle jitterbugging. . . . Renee De Marco prefers George Stone. . . . 20th Century-Fox will sign Loretta Young and Annabella to new contracts. . . . Don't hand out any academy awards until you see Bette Davis in "Dark Victory"; it's her grandest performance. . . . George White in town scouting for performers and songwriters to do a "Scandals" [on Broadway, not the world fair]. . . . All companies playing the chill to Marlene Dietrich's salary quotations to force down the asking price. . . . Now it's Anita Louise and Richard [Dimples] Greene.

Biggest box office draws of 1938, as predicted in this space a week ago, were five M.-G.-M. players and five 20th Century performers . . . Shirley Temple, Clark Gable, Mickey Rooney, Alice Faye, Tyrone Power, Sonja Henie, Spencer Tracy, Robert Taylor, Myrna Loy, and Jane Withers. . . . Gary Cooper, William Powell, and Bing Crosby dropped from the first ten. . . . Jolson will sing "April Showers" and all of his Winter Garden favorites in his pictures with Alice Faye and Tyrone Power, all songs having been cleared. . . . Has it ever struck you that Jolson grossed more in two pictures than any other performer? Well, you can win bets on it. . . . "The Singing Fool" hit $5,000,000, and "The Jazz Singer" hit $3,500,000. . . . Add curios: Henry Armetta, in restaurants, taking a tin of cheese out of his pocket and serving himself.

What would happen if Clark Gable asked for a $150,000 bonus to play the part of Rhett Butler? . . . If Gable were free of his M.-G.-M. contract, he could make as much per picture as he now makes per year, so it seems to me to be in the cards that he'll get a bonus for this assignment. . . . Gene Markey and Jane Wyman a twosome. . . . The Basil Rathbones will adopt a baby. . . . The Bubbles Schinasi-Wayne Morris wedding rumors in this space will be confirmed. . . . Adrian and Janet Gaynor will do it any minute. . . . Texas Democrats will run Elliott Roosevelt for governor, and the nomination is equivalent to election. . . . Insiders say that it was his dinner to Lindbergh, at which Lindy received the German medal, that caused the recall of Ambassador Wilson. . . . Mary Brian and Anthony Averill either are serious or better actors than they are on the screen. . . . The Jackie Coogan case will be settled out of court.

A. C. Blumenthal and Peggy Fears are in Chicago for a reconciliation gabfest. . . . Albert Lasker will be the unofficial czar of the industry when he arrives. . . . He won't get a dime for his services, refusing all compensation. . . . Keep your eye on what happens! . . . Personal Recommendations: Gunga Din, Dawn Patrol. . . . I think you'll like them. . . . Burgess Meredith prefers Jane Larkin. . . . Rudy Vallee would like to do a picture with Wendy Barrie. . . . The Alan Curtises [Priscilla Lawson] expect Sir Stork. . . . Rouben Mamoulian will make another trip east to find his "golden boy" [they want a kid about 145 pounds]. . . . Benny Rubin's romance with that actress is cold. . . . She insisted on taking along her pet raccoon on dates. . . . "Choose between the raccoon and me," ultimatumed Benny. . . . She chose the raccoon.

Carole Lombard still has the inside track on Scarlett O'Hara. . . . Gloria Blondell and Cubby Broccoli a twosome. . . . Maxine Strotz, wealthy Chicago widow, and Jay Clement of the horse operas, a twosome. . . . Despite the separation of the Edmund Lowes, he won't take out another girl. . . . He always goes out with a married couple. . . . If you like horror flickers, wait until you get a loan of "Son of Frankenstein." . . . Woo-woo!. . . . Reason advanced by theater managers for the tremendous success of the reissue of "Dracula" and "Frankenstein" is that a new generation of youngsters have come of theater age since they were released in 1931, and the kids wanted to see them. . . . I'd like to be in New York when the Friars honor Milton Berle on the 17th to hear what they call him and he calls them. . . . First Christmas card of the season, from Mrs. Sime Silverman. . . . Humphrey Bogart squawking because his birth day is Dec. 25.

Don Ameche and the Ritz Brothers will be billed in equal size type in "Three Musketeers." . . . Joan Woodbury becomes Mrs. Henry Wilcoxon on the 17th, at the Pueblo Oratorio. . . . Billy Wilkerson will take back the Trocadero. . . . Zanuck is spending about $15,000 to ballyhoo "Kentucky" at its local premiere. . . . Brothers Wesley Ruggles and Charlie will work together for the first time when Wes directs Charlie in the Irene Dunne-Fred MacMurray fight yarn. . . . Irving Berlin in town, looking sad because he hasn't had a hit song in the last forty-eight hours. . . . Busby Berkeley with Claire James. . . . Ann Sheridan and Don Barry a combination [she's got the next big Warner build-up].

The Paramount ousters haven't even started yet!! . . . Christmas Note: There are sixteen Santa Clauses on Hollywood boulevard. . . . They're all tired out from signing autographs. . . . Screen Writers' Guild in its announcement of an "Autumn Soiree and Musicale" announces as top attraction Ben Hecht's Sinfonietta.

Her Second Choice

SYNOPSIS.

Nora Stacy receives a letter from Calcutta from her fiancé, irresponsible Jim Murdock, breaking their engagement. Heartbroken, Nora writes Jim she'll marry the next man who asks her. Jim's family live next door to the modest English cottage where Nora lives with her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Callender. When Bob Matherson of Fairways, rich young bachelor and recent neighbor, proposes to Nora she accepts. Three days before the wedding Jim returns and demands that Nora run away with him. Nora feels morally pledged to Bob, who has settled an income on her aunt. For a wedding present Jim gives Nora her love letters to him—except the one in which she vowed to marry the next man who asked her. Mrs. Pearl Almy, a former attachment of Bob's, who rents a cottage on his estate, gets the letter and sends it to Bob, hoping he'll call off the wedding. But Bob decides to go through with it. To prevent Jim making a scene Bob invites him to be an usher, then leaves him alone in the tower room with a bottle of doctored whisky. Jim revives enough to make a scene at the reception. Bob and Nora motor to London. Alone in their hotel suite Bob has a showdown with Nora. He tells her he married her for convenience, too.

INSTALMENT XIII.

A TRUCE CALLED.

Bob kept his eyes on Nora's face, not one flicker of its expression missed him.

"How does it come if Murdock jilted you that he's turned up again, behaving like a lunatic?"

"O, you don't understand Jim. Nobody does, but me. Aunt Dorothy's picked on him as far back as I can remember. For one thing, Jim is always getting himself into scrapes."

"I can believe that all right."

"It's easy enough for you to sneer."

"I'm not sneering, exactly. I suppose he got into a scrape with a woman."

Nora nodded. "I thought he was married to her," she said, in a choking whisper.

Bob rang for the waiter to take away the tea table, and then he went to one of the windows, drew aside the heavy damask curtains, and raised the sash. Over the roofs and chimney pots hung the dull orange glow of London, and the air smelt of fog and snow.

When they were alone again, he turned to her with an air of friendliness.

"Look here, Nora, we're in this together. For heaven's sake let's put a decent front on it. I need you—I need a woman to preside over my house, to look beautiful, and be as attractive as the very devil. You'll more than earn your keep if you'll do that for me, and I won't bother you. I won't let you down, either, so long as you play fair with me. Are we going to let the whole world laugh at us?"

He went close to her and put his finger under her chin, tilting her face so that she had to look into his eyes.

"I will do whatever you want me to do," Nora said.

"It's a bargain, then."

"I understand . . . you don't want me for—for your wife?"

"I shall feel like a kept woman."

He threw back his head and roared with unseemly mirth.

"That's about the last thing you'll be. Just ask my old housekeeper if she feels like a kept woman, and hear what she would have to say."

"But—do you want me for your housekeeper?"

"Something like it. . . . Now what shall we do this evening? Would you like to go to a show?"

"I think I would like to go to bed," said Nora.

That seemed to amuse him, too.

Nora's pride had received a bigger blow than she realized at first, but Bob's confession that he had not married her for love explained a lot. It explained why he had accepted her own lukewarm attitude without question and demanded hardly anything at all.

Now he was laughing at her because she said what she wanted most was to go to bed. Gradually it penetrated her consciousness as to why he found it funny. Let him enjoy his coarse joke. Her eyebrows went up and she regarded him with a lofty expression.

But it didn't seem to dash him. He seized both her hands and kissed first one and then the other, before she could pull them away.

"Nora, you are enchanting!" he exclaimed. "But I am not going to let you sulk with me. You've got to be good tempered or I'll divorce you."

"I wish you would," she said, glowering at him.

"Yes, I expect so. All in good time, though. Are you really going to leave me all alone the very first night of our honeymoon?"

"I wish I never had to see you again," she said. "After . . . all this . . . I can't bear it."

Silently Bob opened the door that led to Nora's bedroom and made a gesture intimating that she was free to retire if, indeed, that was her desire, and it appeared to be.

"Perhaps you think I am behaving stupidly," she said. "But it isn't enough for you to say you married me to suit your own convenience. I've a right to know more about it than that. . . . Well, aren't you going to say something?"

"I'd rather listen to you—but don't let me detain you, please."

He was still holding the door for her.

"Was it anything to do with Mrs. Almy?" Nora persisted.

"If you live long enough and have sufficient intelligence you may find out," he replied. "Are you going, or staying?"

"I'm going. Good night."

O, but she was sick with herself, absolutely fed up. Poor Aunt Dorothy—how upset she would be if she knew what was happening.

Aunt Dorothy had chosen what she was to wear tonight, beginning with the rust colored rest gown with its long fur-bordered sleeves and the chou of Mechlin that had come from the old Chinese lacquer box where she kept her treasures. And there was the gold brocade for dinner to be followed by the peach-colored negligee and crêpe de chine nightwear.

The hotel maid had spread them all out and arranged the contents of the new dressing case on the dressing table.

She was tired to the bone, yes—but not sleepy. This was a silly hour to go to bed, however tired she was. Barely 8 o'clock.

Dark thoughts leapt at her throat. If only she could get Jim Murdock out of her mind. That was her trouble.

O dear God, take away this curse of love and give me something real to live for!

In the next room the telephone tinkled and in the act of kicking off her slippers Nora stiffened to attention.

Who could that be—who knew where they were?

The murmur of Bob's voice sounded cheerful. Then, as he raised it, she heard him say—"She's dressing for dinner. I'll call her."

She put on the negligee and scrambled into her slippers again.

Bob knocked, then opened the door a crack.

"It's Cissy," he said. "She wants to speak to you. I told her you were dressing for dinner."

Mrs. Longton and her husband were staying at Fairways over the weekend.

Nora went to the telephone, clutching her negligee fiercely.

"Hello, Nora. I only rang up to give you our love. Did you have a comfortable journey to town?

"O, yes, thank you."

"What are you doing this evening?"

"I don't quite know"

"Bob said you were dressing, so I won't keep you, but I thought you might like to know that your auntie's here. She's staying with us for dinner. She wants to speak to you."

A nervous quaver reached her. "That you, Nora? How are you?"

"I'm splendid, darling."

"All dressed for dinner?"

"Er—practically."

"I'm sure you look nice. Wish I could see you. . . . Well, good night. God bless you, my darling little girl."

There was a break in the voice at the other end, and when Nora put the instrument back on its pedestal her eyes were wet. She dashed her hand across them.

"I've tried to be a pig, Bob—but I guess I can't manage it. I'd love to go out somewhere with you, if you want me to."

Jackets Make a Foolproof Gift for Lady

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Jacket supplies are unlimited. They're foolproof gifts for any one from the demanding young set to the difficult lady with everything. For winter sports addicts, the padded, rib-hugging finds are perfect. Red, bright blue, yellow, and green are the colors of the newest arrivals in these gay protectors against all sorts of weather. Velveteen, wool, windproof trick cotton twill, and the knitted and suede lethers all come padded and sometimes interlined to give you tops in comfort.

Jackets for an office wardrobe are grand buys for any career girl. You'll find them in wool checks and stripes; in bright and dark colors. All are well tailored, fitted, and of sturdy, long wearing fabrics.

Daytime dresses of simple streamline are ideal contrasts for clever taffeta short sleeved jackets, or for the lastex velvets or the dress parade velveteens and brocades. Most of these are demure, fitted little affairs, simple but dress-up in cut. A lot of them can be used for a blouse top with a separate velvet or fine wool skirt, and all of them will do wonders rejuvenating an otherwise old or dated dress.

Moiré and striped taffetas in vivid shades of cerise, chartreuse, and canary yellow are new. None of them are luxury items but have plenty of "yumpf."

Boleros in pastel flat sequins make the eye catching evening and dinner dress tops. So do the glittering metallics, and some new models in gold kidskin are quite the most resplendent things in town. These toppers are slick ideas to complete a costume with the under foundation of either a short or long velvet or crêpe sheath slip.

Braided boleros, shirred velvet, metallic, and striped taffeta, bengaline and chiffon velvets all made with the snap of a blouse in short or long sleeves. These solve the problem of unusual gifts.

Bed jackets, the last word in luxury as far as looks are concerned, but indispensable items for every one, come in sleek shining quilted satin. They are smoothly tailored, have long or short sleeves, and a high snug collarline. Inexpensive in price, they are star attractions for any one's list.

Stepmother Treats Child Like a Doll

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

She looked for all the world like the dolls my mother used to dress for me, often sewing until late on Christmas Eve to make them beautiful, with tiny muffs and little fur-banded coats and caps.

This real-live-walking-and-talking doll, all curls and velvet-clad, was a picture; and her mother beamed (but tried not to) with pride as passers-by turned to look and smile admiringly. "You could," I thought to myself, "easily be the young stepmother whose letter I found in my mail." It read like this:

"My new little daughter is so difficult for me to handle. She won't let me do things for her. I want to dress her and give her her bath and keep her lovely hair washed, brushed and curled over my finger. But she pulls away. She is most independent and wants to do things herself. She always did with her grandma and she wants to keep on. What shall I do?"

Let her, of course. She doesn't want to be your little doll. And while I understand your yearning to do things for her, to lavish your time and attention on her, she can't understand it and doesn't want it. It is better for her to be self-reliant and it is something you will be glad of later on when you want her to stand on her own feet.

What, then, shall she do? She must express her desire to "do" for her little stepdaughter in another way. She must study her with as much care as she studies the personality and interests of her husband. For she has not had the opportunity to gain her knowledge of the child day by day for years, as a mother has who has borne her child. She must listen with real interest to her conversation, and share her successes in play, and let her help about the house.

I must add that it is not only stepmothers who make the mistake of the writer of this letter. Some "born" mothers treat their babies and little children more as dolls than as human beings, with the result that when they get old enough to resist this, the parents are puzzled or even resentful of the evidences of will and personality.

The Housewife

One of the most practical household devices we've ever come across is a window ventilator that prevents drafts, keeps out rain, snow, sleet, and dirt, yet allows fresh air to enter the room. It is an all-metal shell, perforated on both sides, but because these holes are not opposite each other the air current is broken and the result is fresh air, evenly circulated. That's something in this windy city!

Another excellent feature of this ventilator is that you can close the window completely without removing it. In ivory or aluminum finish, it is available in four sizes for windows measuring 17 to 30 inches, 30 to 40 inches, 40 to 50 inches, and 50 to 60 inches. Prices have recently been reduced, making this no-draft ventilator as inexpensive as it is efficient.

Gifts of Cosmetics Put a Light in the Feminine Eye

For Aunty Lou—a box of hankies.

Is that the way your list runs? Well, Mom may need the warm gloves; Sis, her silk stockings, and Aunty Lou can add the hankies to her other anniversary collection of hankies. But if you want to show them a real time try to slip in with the practical gift something in the way of a cosmetic gift, mad as it may seem at the moment. Budgets may be dictating terms this year as never before. Realities have to be faced by most of us. But, gosh, Christmas comes but once a year, and there isn't a woman born whose face doesn't beam at the sight of a delicious, delightful, even if extravagant, beauty product. And no face and spirit responds so joyously to said type of gift as those of the woman always considered with the practical eye, such as Mom, Sis, and Aunty.

Shop around a bit and just see what perfectly charming things you can get for a dollar and up. A manicure set—a neatly packaged one with everything together—may be just what the giftee's been craving for years. A nest of sachets is something to light the eye of any daughter of Eve, as aren't we all, no matter what age, what type, what profession.

Perfume? Now you are talking. There are simply scads of women who'd never have a perfume bottle in their possession but for the grace of Santa Claus. And how we women love it. Eau de colognes, some of them almost perfumes, and the charming bottles in which they come, are a lift for a Christmas morn and many other mornings. Powder? It is always needed.

A box of toilet preparations. Never have we seen such a collection of beauty kits, traveling cases, and some of these within budget prices. A compact you love to show? There are stunners for reasonable sums, indeed.

Lip sticks? You can always use another. And boxes of elegant soap. What woman wouldn't just once like to bathe her face in a divinely scented soap?

The weeks before Christmas are lots of fun in our office. We get more mail than we do at any other time of the year, and who doesn't like to get a lot of mail?

We try to let reader requests govern, for the most part, the material which goes into this column around Christmas time. I believe that there have been more requests for the various stuffing recipes lately than for any other one item. So I'm presenting today a group of the best stuffing recipes in our files.

Browned Bread Stuffing

[For 14 pound turkey]

2 1-pound loaves bread, trimmed and diced
1½ cups chopped onion
1 cup butter or butter and bacon drippings
2 cups chopped celery
3 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1¼ teaspoons poultry seasoning
2 cups raisins
Turkey liver, simmered and chopped

Brown bread cubes, onion, and celery in butter or butter and bacon drippings. Add other ingredients and moisten dressing slightly with water. Pack lightly into turkey.

Brown Rice Stuffing

[Ten pound fowl]

2 cups brown rice
¼ cup onion, chopped
1 cup finely chopped celery
¼ cup butter
Ground cooked giblets
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
½ teaspoon thyme
Salt, pepper

Cook rice for an hour in boiling, salted water. Drain and rinse with cold water. Sauté onion and celery in butter. Add rice and other ingredients. Mix well. Stuff bird.

Sweet Orange Stuffing for Duck

3 cups dry bread crums
1 cup finely diced apples
½ cup seedless raisins
4 tablespoons sugar
⅔ cup orange juice
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
¼ cup melted butter
Salt, pepper

Mix ingredients, adding salt and pepper to taste. If the crums used are very dry a little more orange juice may be required. Orange juice may be added to the gravy served with the duck.

Chestnut and Sausage Stuffing

[Turkey or goose]

½ pound pork sausage or diced sausage links
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 cup chopped mushrooms
2 pounds chestnuts, cooked and mashed
1 cup dry bread or cracker crums
Salt, pepper
¼ cup butter, melted

Walgreen Community Fund Subscriptions Are $15,000

Ralph A. Bard, chairman of the $3,550,000 Community Fund campaign, reported yesterday that subscriptions totaling $15,000 have been received from Charles R. Walgreen, the Walgreen company and employés. James S. Kemper & Co. and employés gave $10,000, and the law firm of Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann, Levinson and Morse gave $4,000. Gifts of $1,200 were received from James B. Clow & Sons, Washburn Grosby company and the Drovers' National bank and Drovers Trust and Savings bank and employés.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The kit question is a complicated one. Some like them large, some like them small. Some women when they travel want to take a great many beauty guardians along. Others insist on the minimum of cleansing cream and makeup. What the Christmas shopper chooses will depend entirely on the little woman's tastes.

One bag that is really different is primarily a good looking piece of luggage in alligator grain—in black, brown, or red. It's a traveling bag, with zipper closing across the top, modeled after those perfectly swell men's bags that are so capacious.

There are no cosmetics at all in the inside of this bag. You can toss plenty of your wardrobe into that area. But there is a section for your beauty aids set in one side of the bag that can be zipped open. It makes your preparations wonderfully easy to get at. In this more or less secret compartment there is cleansing cream, a lubricating cream, eye bath [and that's one thing every traveler should take and usually doesn't], skin freshener, and a mirror and comb. Then there are pockets for other things you might want to tuck in.

The bag sounds tricky. And it is, but it isn't tricky or gadgety looking. It's a stunning piece of luggage and a practical one. Well made, well designed, and beautifully lined, it can take a proud place in the luggage parade. The preparations it contains are extremely nice ones.

Popular Wrap-Around Apron

WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRON.

There is hardly any apron that can equal the wrap-around model for perfect fit and ease of wearing. It may be slipped on over your party frocks to protect them when you're preparing refreshments for your guests. During the day, when your domestic domain is completely your own, it will stay comfortably on the figure and not remind you of its presence by constantly falling off the shoulders and having to be put back in place while you're in the midst of an important task.

Unlike most wrap-around aprons, the model we're offering today has only straps at the shoulders. Its bustline is V and surplice, and a belt slipped through notches fits the garment to the waistline. On the skirt are two pockets.

Both plain and printed fabrics make up well, and the trimming may be either rickrack braid or bias binding. If you use a plain color, you might like the idea of embroidery as a neat finish on bodice and pockets. We suggest pattern No. E-11119, available for ten cents extra, as being especially simple and attractive.

Style No. 2144 is designed for sizes small, medium and large. The medium size requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material with 4 yards of binding or braid.

Christmas Party.

The Alliance of Business and Professional Women of Chicago will combine its annual Christmas party with a members' hobby show this evening in the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. Members will bring gifts for boys and girls at the Illinois Protestant Children's home. Miss Fay I. Gliatto is in charge.

Business Men Give Concert, Do a Neat Job

BY CECIL SMITH.

After the Chicago Business Men's orchestra had played the scherzo from Mendelssohn's music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in the Goodman theater yesterday afternoon George Dasch, the conductor, turned to the audience and said, "If you ever conduct a nonprofessional orchestra I would advise you to make them play the Mendelssohn scherzo once every day."

Evidently he had been acting upon his own advice, for in this piece his eager, hard working players tossed off the neatest job I have ever heard from them. With Norman Maclean playing the first flute part, the chattering, elfin delicacy of the music was projected with neat rhythm and grateful instrumental balance.

Other items on the program gave special opportunities to several of Mr. Dasch's talented players. Clyde Miller played the horn solo in the Nocturne from this same "Midsummer Night's Dream" music; Anthony Westrate, cellist, and Samuel Fain, clarinetist, gave gracious contours to the duo in Massenet's "Under the Linden," and Sydney V. James played the violin obbligato in Svendsen's "Zorahayda."

The single large work of the day, Beethoven's Fifth symphony, was dedicated to the orchestra's public spirited founder, the late George Lytton. Mendelssohn's overture to "Ruy Blas" and Glazounoff's "Valse de Concert" in F major rounded out the program.

Catherine Littlefield's choreography for Ravel's "Bolero," with solo parts danced by Dorothie Littlefield and Thomas Cannon, served as the sole novelty on yesterday's Littlefield ballet bill at the Civic Opera house. Three works vouchsafed earlier this fall were repeated, "Fairy Doll," "Terminal," and "Fantasia."

Nearly everything goes wrong in Miss Littlefield's "Bolero." The costumes are mostly Spanish, and the dancing is mostly not Spanish. The rhythms of the dancers attempt curious counterpoints with the Ravel score, a piece so rigorously simple and repetitious that there is no choice other than to accept completely the rhythmic patterns Ravel establishes.

The musical score is one single mounting crescendo of intensity; the Littlefield choreography retains a single emotional plane, never heightening the sense of excitement by intensifying dance movement, but falling back on such lame devices as introducing new groups of people, or merely speeding up the tempo of the music. Some of the costumes are just too bizarre, with long trains that get in the way of sharp rhythmic movements, or with skirtless hoops that rattle out of rhythm.

The familiar ballets were quite well danced, for the company is packed with gifted youngsters. The railroad station ballet, "Terminal," essentially a floor show, moved into respectable surroundings, was roundly applauded, especially after Catherine Littlefield's skilful miming of a Hollywood movie queen. As to "Fantasia," the reason why a young nobleman is seen dancing with a phoenix, in the company of a blackamoor, a bird of paradise, two canaries, and a black swan still remains obscure.

LAST MONDAY'S QUESTION.

Question 52: Both sides vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened his fourth best diamond, the five spot. Success or failure of the contract depended squarely on declarer's play to the first trick. As every one knows, a hold-up play often is valuable, especially at no trump, the idea being to exhaust one defender of the led suit so that he will be unable to put his partner back on lead after stoppers in other suits have been knocked out. Like every other good thing, however, the hold-up play can be overdone and, in this case, if South had held up dummy's diamond ace he certainly would have been defeated. North's queen would have won the trick and a diamond return would have cleared West's suit. Declarer could not have run nine tricks without leading a heart, and the moment he did so West would jump up and rattle off diamond tricks.

Declarer did not make the mistake of using the hold-up play. He reasoned as follows: West could not have the K Q J of diamonds because, with that combination, he would have led the king, not a low card. East, then, was marked with at least one diamond honor. If the diamond suit were split 4-3, it did not matter whether declarer played dummy's ace or ten, because the defenders could take only three diamond tricks and the heart ace. If, however, East had the aforementioned diamond honor and only one other diamond [which would place West with an original holding of five diamonds] it would be vital to play dummy's diamond ace. The heart ace then could be knocked out and declarer would not have to fear the diamond suit. If East had the heart ace, he would have only one diamond, the honor, left in his hand. If West had the heart ace, he could lead another diamond to East's honor, but he would be unable to regain the lead. If West, on winning with the ace, chose to lay down a high diamond honor, he would drop his partner's honor and establish declarer's nine spot as another stopper.

On this sound reasoning declarer went right up with dummy's ace and had no difficulty thereafter in fulfilling his contract.

ANSWER TO LAST MONDAY'S QUESTION.

Q. No. 52: You should bid two hearts. This, of course, is the strongest overcall available and is absolutely forcing to game. Your powerful hand demands this action. A take-out double would be very unwise in that your void in hearts suggests that such a double might be left in by partner. [30 points demerit for 2 spades; 20 points demerit for 3 clubs; 13 points demerit for a double; 40 points demerit for any other call.]

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of The Tribune, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Bunta to Speak.

"Christmas Seals" will be the topic of Dr. Emil Bunta of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium at a meeting of the Bohemian Woman's Civic club at 1:30 p. m. today in the Great Northern hotel. A program of Christmas songs and dances will be given. Mrs. Helene K. Matejka is president.

home in Cambridge, Mass., after Jan. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cudahy are being congratulated upon the birth of their first child, a son, last Saturday morning at Passavant hospital. Mrs. Cudahy is the former Miss Annie May Henry. The new baby is the first grandson of the Huntington B. Henrys, for their elder daughter, Mrs. Gordon Kelley, and her husband have two little daughters.

The baby is Edward I. Cudahy's second grandson, however, for his son, William B. Cudahy, and his wife, the former Honore White, have a son a little more than a year old.

The christening of Phyllis Olmsted, who will be 3 years old in March, and of her cousin, Hugh McBirney Johnston III., 10 months old, took place at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, following a family luncheon party at the home of Phyllis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conway H. Olmsted. The Rev. Herbert Prince performed the ceremony.

The children's bachelor uncle, Hulburd Johnston, stood up as godfather to both. Ralph H. Poole Jr. and Mrs. Olmsted are the other godfather and the godmother respectively of baby Hugh; Phyllis' godmothers are her father's sisters, Mrs. Spencer G. Nauman of Harrisburg, Pa., and Mrs. Arthur A. Houghton of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Bliss are Parents of a Son.

A son was born Dec. 5 at the Evanston hospital to Mr. and Mrs. George Osborn Bliss of Chicago. The baby has been named Henry Edison Bliss. His maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith Farleigh of Montclair, N. J., and his paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Edison Bliss of Highland Park.

Word has been received of the birth of a daughter recently in New York to Mr. and Mrs. Alan W. Watts [Eleanor Everett]. Mr. and Mrs. Watts and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warren Everret, formerly of Hinsdale, are living in New York.

Friends Give Parties for Julianna Holmes.

Although Miss Julianna Holmes' fiancé, Palmer Skoglund, is not arriving from Philadelphia until just a few days before their wedding on Dec. 28, there are parties galore for Miss Holmes. Today Mrs. Dwight C. Orcutt is giving a luncheon for her at the Chicago Athletic club, at which the other guests will be the officers and directors of the Musicians Club of Women, of which Miss Holmes is a board member.

Mr. Skoglund arrives on the 23d in time for a dinner Mrs. Wells Simmons is giving in Evanston. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Hadley Jr. are giving an egg-nog party the next afternoon for Miss Holmes and her fiancé. His family is giving a tea on the afternoon of the 26th at the home of his sister, Mrs. Skoglund Smith, in Evanston, and Miss Holmes' parents, the Henry B. Vanzwolls, are giving the bridal dinner on the 27th.

Mrs. Richard C. Johnston Jr. is planning a luncheon for Miss Holmes on the 20th. Mrs. Harry Stone will give the spinster dinner the following night. They and Mrs. Hadley, Mrs. Howard Hatfield of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Hugh Duncan will be bridesmaids for Miss Holmes, whose matron of honor will be her cousin, Mrs. Bruce Simpson.

The wedding is to take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the First Congregational church in Evanston, with a reception following at the Country club of Evanston.

Invitations are out for a supper dance the Chicago committee of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo is giving at the Congress Casino to meet the members of the ballet. The party will be given on Dec. 19, after the ballet's first performance in Chicago, which is to be a benefit for the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society at the Auditorium.

Among those helping to plan the party are Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mrs. Theodore Tieken, Mrs. John Carey Murphy, Mrs. Thomas S. Tyler, Mrs. Aldis J. Browne Jr., Mrs. Walter McLallen, Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Miss Adair Orr, and Walter Frazier.

Prince Obolensky of New York, and Henry Clifford, who is a director of the Pennsylvania museum in Philadelphia, are coming for the ballet opening and the supper party. The former will stay at the Drake, and Mr. Clifford probably will stay at the Auditorium.

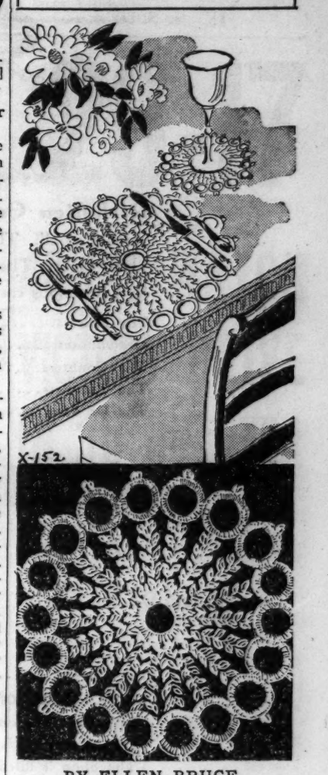
Snowflakes Are Airy Themes of Danish Crochet



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

The crocheted doilies for plates and glasses, done in the dainty "snowflake" design, are natives of Denmark, the design having come to this country over forty years ago. It is one of the easiest of the many crochet designs for the purpose. Extremely fine mercerized crochet cotton and a fine crochet hook, plus an hour's time, are all required for the small medallion.

For instructions for crocheting the snowflake medallions, No. X-152, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

What is so rare as a hocky goal on a night in December?

Nothing more than the foursome of scores the Chicago Blackhawks registered last evening in the happy course of trouncing the New York Americans, 4 to 0, before a vociferous congregation of 15,118 in the Stadium. Three of the Chicago scores came in the last period.

Two goals have been precious items in the recent career of the Blackhawks. Three goals were beginning to look like antiques. And the Hawks were on the way to consulting the Smithsonian institution for methods by which they might make four goals.

It's the Truth, Really.

But there it is—4 to 0. It's on the level, and as such will go into the official archives to the credit of a team which last season won the Stanley cup and the world's championship, but which hasn't been quite acting up to that standard of late.

For instance, last night saw the Blackhawks score twice as many goals as they had been able to pince out in their last four contests on the Madison street reservation. It was the first time since Nov. 13, when they licked Montreal, 4 to 3, that they had been able to collect more than one goal on home ice.

A Host of Heroes.

The scoring heroes of the evening were Mush March, Joffre Desilets, Earl Seibert, and Baldy Northcott. But before any mention of their fancy feats is set down, it should be pointed out that Mike Karakas, the Hawk door man, scored his first home shutout of the season in the transaction of last night's grand triumph.

Bill Thoms, a Toronto Maple Leaf until last Wednesday, when he came to the Hawks in exchange for Doc Romnes, made his debut in a very favorable manner. Bill didn't score, but he did set up the smart pass which led to the first score. He took the puck from Alex Levinsky, cajoled it about center ice until Mush March came down right wing, and then rifled it across to the little man, who promptly dashed up and fired a waist high shot past Goalie Earl Robertson of the Americans.

Desilets Sends Puck Home.

This was accomplished in the eighteenth minute of the first period. There was no further scoring on either side until the fourteenth minute of the final session. Then Desilets came up to take a pass off a combination composed of John Gottselig and Rus Blinco and send the puck home. The time was 13:38.

It appeared that the ultimate score would be 2 to 0 until the Gottselig-Blinco twosome shoved the puck along to Earl Seibert for another goal with only thirty-one seconds of play remaining. With just a second left, Seibert teamed with Earl Robinson to transfer the disc to Baldy Northcott, who scored. The Hawks' victory elevated them from a fourth place tie to third place, just a half game back of the second place New York Rangers.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Col. E. R. Bradley, who has been at his farm for two weeks, plans to spend the day quietly, with no special celebration. His sister, Mrs. Catherine Bailey of Philadelphia, will be with him.

GIANTS PURCHASE BONURA; GIVE 2 ROOKIES, $20,000

Zeke May Like Short Polo Ground Fences.

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The New Yorks Giants tonight obtained First Baseman Zeke Bonura from the Washington Senators in exchange for two rookie players and a sum in cash estimated at more than $20,000.

In a deal rumored for several days the New York National league club sent Jim Carlin, a young first baseman, who played with Richmond last year, and Tom Baker, pitcher from Jersey City, to the Senators, along with the cash.

Bonura, who is 30 years old, began his career in organized baseball with New Orleans in 1929. He played with the Pelicans in 1930, divided the next season between Indianapolis and New Orleans, and then performed with Dallas for two years before coming up to the big leagues with the Chicago White Sox in 1934. He had a four season batting average of .318 with the Sox before they traded him to Washington before the start of the 1938 season, for Joe Kuhel.

Hit Twenty-Two Home Runs.

With the Senators he batted .291 during the last campaign, hit twenty-two homers, and drove in 113 runs. He is a right-hand hitter, and Giants' officials expect his long range clouting will mean a lot in their Polo Grounds park with its short fences.

The deal is the first of several expected this week during the annual get-together of big league bosses for their yearly meetings, which start Tuesday.

The Bonura-to-New York deal was reported freely during the minor league meetings in New Orleans last week. At first a hitch developed when it was reported two American league clubs stood in the way of Washington's efforts to have him waived out of the league. This was accomplished Friday, however, making it possible for the Senators to sell him into the National league.

May Solve Old Problem.

President Horace Stoneham of the Giants and Clark Griffith of the Senators discussed the deal at several sittings during the last week. They met this afternoon at the New York Giants-Green Bay Packers professional football game and settled the details. Then Griffith phoned Manager Bucky Harris of the Senators to get his final approval.

In acquiring Bonura the Giants hope their first base problem, which has been a source of considerable worry ever since Bill Terry gave up active playing, finally has been settled. There was some talk they might get Buddy Hassett from the Brooklyn Dodgers to fill the bill, but this deal collapsed early in the negotiations.

For the last two years Terry has been trying to get along with Sam Leslie, a slow fielder, and Johnny McCarthy, an erratic hitter, at first base, but neither has proved satisfactory. Both are still on the roster.

There's Work to Be Done.

Popular attention always is directed toward the star swapping activities of the various clubs. But when the magnates actually meet Tuesday in the Waldorf-Astoria they have numerous administrative matters to consider.

The National and American leagues convene separately for two days, then join forces on Thursday at a session presided over by Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

The American league will have before it a proposal to change its ball and may adopt the one used by the National league. This has the same interior as the American, but a heavier cover and extra stitching intended to give pitchers a better grip.

The American clubs also may consider night baseball, much desired by Philadelphia and Cleveland. Both leagues are expected to discuss an increase in the player limit from twenty-three to its predepression figure of twenty-five.

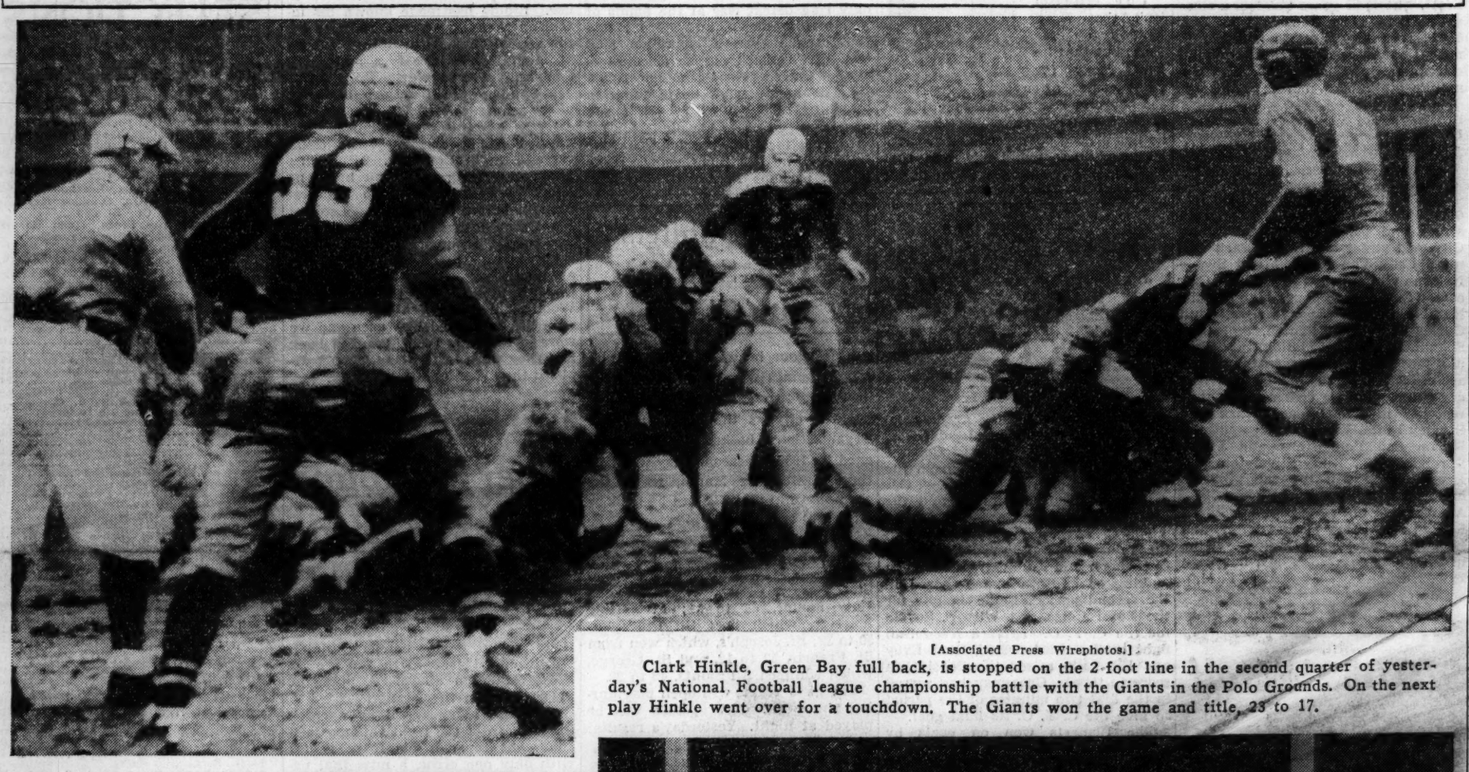
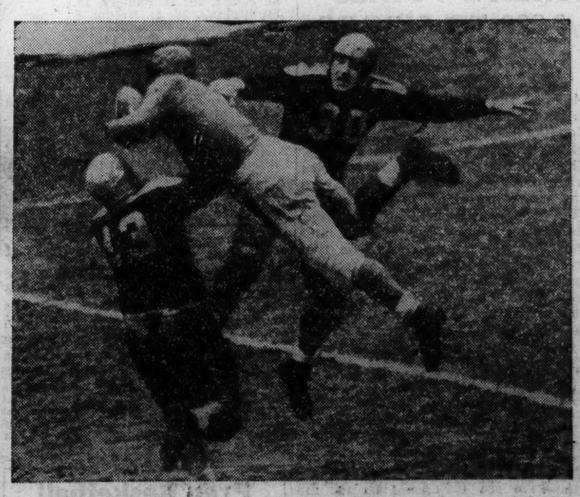
Giving 48,120 Football Fans Their Money's Worth



[Associated Press Wirephotos.]
Clark Hinkle, Green Bay full back, is stopped on the 2-foot line in the second quarter of yesterday's National Football league championship battle with the Giants in the Polo Grounds. On the next play Hinkle went over for a touchdown. The Giants won the game and title, 23 to 17.

Tuffy Leemans of the Giants, who was one of the stars of the New York offensive, is brought down in the end zone after scoring his team's first touchdown in the opening quarter.



Leemans fields a pass from Ed Danowski for a five yard gain, despite the efforts of Buckets Goldenberg (43) and Clark Hinkle (30) of the Packers to break up the play.

PRINCETON HAS $18,367 DEFICIT FOR 1937-'38 YEAR

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The Princeton University Athletic association incurred a deficit of $18,367 for the fiscal year 1937-'38, according to an official statement issued today by R. Kenneth Fairman, graduate manager of athletics. The standing deficit of the association now is $96,593.

Outstanding among expenses for the year which turned the profits of the past two years to deficits were $164,735 spent on repairs to Palmer stadium, Baker rink, University field and FitzPatrick fieldhouse, and $6,939 to partly pay for the year's work of dredging Lake Carnegie.

Meanwhile, football, the big money maker, showed little increase in gate receipts while the number of long tours and the coaching expense among various teams increased.

Total sports income for the year was $301,510, total expenditures $319,878.

New York, Dec. 11.—The professional football championship of the world remained in the eastern division of the National league today when the New York Giants ascended to supremacy by conquering the Green Bay Packers, 23 to 17, before 48,120 in the Polo Grounds.

Immediately after the game the Giants were invited by THE TRIBUNE to represent the league in the annual contest against the College All-American team in Soldiers' field next summer.

Displaying the same alertness and blocking finesse that crushed Washington, the defending champions, last week, the Giants rallied with a sixty-one yard march in the third period to win the title they last held in 1934. The deciding play was a twenty-three yard pass, Ed Danowski to Hank Soar, which the Giant back caught on the goal line just as he was hit.

Packers Lead for a While.

Green Bay, seeking its fifth championship, had gained the upper hand for the first time a few minutes earlier on Tiny Engebretsen's field goal from the 15 yard line. This kick had made the score 17 to 16, and climaxed a steady uphill fight by the husky squad from the northland, which labored under the handicap of a three weeks' layoff. At no time did the Packer attack function with the smooth coördination which characterized its triumphs over its western division rivals in the regular season.

Ward Cuff started the scoring with a fifteen yard field goal in the first period, after Jim Lee Howell, Giant right end, had blocked Clark Hinkle's punt and recovered it on the 7 yard line. Five plays later Jim Poole, the Giant left end, blocked another of Hinkle's punts and Howell recovered on the 28 yard line. It took the Giants just four plays to score, Tuffy Leemans going over on a cut back inside right tackle from the 6 yard line. John Gildea missed the extra point.

Green Bay Fights Back.

Green Bay appeared thoroughly whipped and the largest crowd ever to gather for a National league playoff sensed another rout such as that of a week ago, when the Giants qualified for today's title contest by humbling the champion Redskins, 36 to 0. But before the second period had progressed half a dozen plays the Packers leaped back into the thick of the fight with a forty yard touchdown pass, Arnie Herber to Rookie End Carl Mulleneaux, and Engebretsen's successful kick for the extra point.

The winners' share of the $68,331.80 gate and the All-Star game beckoned to the Packers, but their spurt was stopped abruptly when Herber fumbled and Mel Hein, veteran New York center, recovered on the 50 yard line. Leemans passed twenty-one yards to Feets Barnum, a reserve back, and then End Hap Barnard took a twenty yard pass from Ed Danowski for the touchdown. Cuff's extra point made it 16 to 7.

Becker Gets Loose.

For a few minutes the game again took on the appearance of a rout, but in a twinkling it reverted to a typical Packer contest. While the Giants hacked away laboriously, the Packers played for one killing thrust. It came on Cecil Isbell's buck pass over the line to End Wayland Becker. Becker went sixty-six yards to the Giants' 16 yard line before being hauled down. Six bucks produced the touchdown, with Hinkle smashing through guard behind Quarter Back Paul Miller for the final yard. Engebretsen again added the point, and the teams went to the half with New York leading, 16 to 14.

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Frank Brimsek, Boston's rookie goalie, tonight turned in his third straight shutout as the Bruins whipped the New York Rangers, 3 to 0, before a capacity crowd of 16,218 in Madison Square Garden. The victory gave the Bruins a three point lead over the second place Rangers in the National Hocky league race.

Jack Portland put the Bruins ahead early in the second period and Mel Hill and Gordon Pettinger scored the other goals in the final period.

Catch Rangers Up Ice.

Brimsek played brilliantly throughout and was afforded effective support by Eddie Shore and Portland. The Rangers played five men up the ice most of the time and the Bruins scored all three goals on breakaway rushes.

Charlie Sands was injured badly when he collided headon with Bryan Hextall early in the game. A cut on his head required two stitches and he probably will be on the sidelines for two or three games. Lineups:

CANADIEN., 4; WINGS, 2

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens defeated the Detroit Red Wings, 4 to 2, tonight and tied the losers for sixth place in the National Hocky league standing.

A crowd of 9,000 saw the Canadiens score their first goal before the game was a minute old, then draw away in the last twenty-three minutes of play to win easily after the Wings twice had tied the count. The defeat was the first for the Wings since Tiny Thompson took over the goal tending job at Detroit.

Get Goal on Thrown Stick.

One Montreal goal was awarded Paul Haynes when Doug Young of Detroit threw his stick while Haynes was heading for the goal after passing the defense.

These Are Bird Huntin' Days in Tennessee Hills

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Medon, Tenn., Dec. 11.—It's bird huntin' time down here in the Tennessee hills where the quail coveys are large and the sportsmen like their setters and pointers. Ever since the quail season opened a few weeks ago the hunters have been "carryin' " their dogs into the hills to have some fun with the tricky, plentiful Bob Whites.

This little town of Medon, located about ten miles south of Jackson, is in the heart of some excellent quail hunting, for the rolling hill country around it has lots of cover for the birds and occasional corn and sorghum cane patches in the valleys provide plenty of food for the coveys.

Using the log cabin of William C. Maguire as our base for hunting trips into the hills, we have had to drive just two or three miles over the winding, clay roads before turning out the dogs. And invariably we strike a covey within a few hundred yards of the place where the car is parked.

Although you may find five or six coveys before lunch the birds are so smart about getting into the oak woods that they do not give you more than a 5 per cent break on open shots. Most of the time it's sporty, quick, snap shooting among the trees at either towering or straightaway dodging birds.

COWBOY SCOTT MAY TAKE DAY FOR ROUGH RIDE

Davey Day, Chicago lightweight, and Cowboy Howard Scott of Washington, D. C., will meet tonight at ten rounds in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Day will seek to forge the fifteenth link in his victory chain, but if he doesn't display better form than he did against Harvey Woods Nov. 29, Scott will put a crimp in his plans for a title match with Henry Armstrong in February.

In his last appearance the durable Scott, who is 27 years old, lost a close decision to Tony Canzoneri in New York, Nov. 22. Scott is matched to meet Lou Ambers, former 135 pound champion, in Miami, Feb. 22. Tonight's preliminary bouts:

Chico Romo vs. Tito Taylor, [5], 140.
George Nyberg vs. Tommy McGee, [4], 150.
George Kontopolis vs. Eddie Morgan, [4], 142.
Ray Flyer vs. Bill Seward, [4], 135.

Wrestling shows are scheduled this evening in Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue, and White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Fritz Von Schacht and Swede Nelson will head the White City card. Supporting bouts match Babe Kasaboski with Jack Hagen, Bull Curley with Ken Fenlon, and Otto Schnabel with Phil Malloy. Pat Murphy faces Mike Markov in the Cicero arena. John Evko and Jack Zeravitch are principals in a co-feature. Other matches involve George Mack and Stanley Pinta, Victor Soldat and John Mason and Pete Holtz and Frank Sprendo. . . . Ruffy Silverstein and Bruno Black will top the program in Rainbo Fronton Wednesday. . . . A scheduled ten round fight between Pete Lello, Gary lightweight, and Billy Marquart of Winnipeg, Man., in Park Casino Wednesday, has been canceled. F. M.

Snead Earns $19,039 in Golf for New Record

Miami, Fla., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Sammy Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., pro, emerged today as golfdom's all-time money baron with $19,039 in this year's winnings tucked away.

Fred Corcoran, tournament bureau manager for the Professional Golfers association, after figuring up Snead's fairway income, pronounced him the greatest money winner in all P. G. A. history.

The end is not yet, for Snead is topheavy favorite to take the $10,000 Miami open starting Thursday, which would boost his income past the $20,000 mark.

Others high in this year's money brackets, as announced by Corcoran: Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., $7,475; Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., $6,800; Ky Laffoon, Northmoor, Ill., $6,265; Ralph Guldahl, Madison, N. J., $5,842; Jimmy Hines, Lakeville, N. Y., $5,525; Victor Ghezzi, Deal, N. Nova, Who Needs Experience, Will Get It from Farr Friday

Lou Nova.

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Both Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champions, agree that young Lou Nova is being galloped when he should be trotted toward a title bout.

Nova, a boyish ex-collegian from California, meets Tommy Farr in a fifteen round bout in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

The criticism isn't that Nova isn't ready for Farr, but that he isn't ready for what comes after Farr—Joe Louis. Tunney and Dempsey point out that if Nova beats Farr, which they say he has a good chance of doing, there is nobody left but Louis, and that Nova in his twenty-five bouts hasn't picked up enough experience to hold his own with Joe.

This leaves Nova in something of a spot. If he doesn't meet Louis and there is no other new business, about all he can do is start all over again and face the same opponents he already has met. Nova has lost only one decision in the twenty-five fights. At 23 he is only a year younger than Farr, but Tommy, starting in 1929, has engaged in seventy-four bouts.

Dempsey and Tunney call attention to the fact that all great heavyweights have fought their way up from the lower weight classes.

Nova is a serious, upstanding youngster who played a little full back for the California Aggies. His only ring defeat was at the hands of Maxie Rosenbloom, and since Maxie could make even a champion look bad, that setback can be discounted.

Ray Carlen, Nova's manager, insists he knows what he is doing in matching his man with Farr. He is noncommittal as to his plans for his protegé after the Farr bout, but he intimates he has them made. If he hasn't, perhaps Farr will help him.

Planerts Win in Hocky; So Does C. Y. O.

The C. Y. O. and Planerts scored victories yesterday in the Arena Amateur Hocky league double-header. The C. Y. O. defeated the Pepsi Colas, 5 to 3, and the Planerts won from the Hornets, 2 to 0. It was the C. Y. O.'s second consecutive triumph and the first for the Planerts.

The C. Y. O. scored three goals in the first period, Ray Thorman, Joe Luchsinger and Frank Grossman each making one. Both teams scored in the second period, Eddie Janelle for the Pepsi Colas and Wilbert Savela for the C. Y. O. After a free-for-all fight in the third period, Stan Evoy and Bill Lilly raised the Pepsi Cola score to three. Grossman had scored in the first two minutes of the period to give the C. Y. O. its final goal.

KURTSINGER ASKS ANOTHER MATCH WITH SEABISCUIT

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 11.—(AP)—Charley Kurtsinger expressed belief today that all War Admiral needs to beat Seabiscuit is the opportunity.

"I'm just hoping we get another crack at him this winter," said Kurtsinger, jocky of Samuel D. Riddle's great son of Man O' War. "It possibly will come in the Widener handicap at Hialeah. Seabiscuit is a tough horse, yes, a great horse, but I still believe we can beat him."

Seabiscuit, owned by Charles S. Howard, beat War Admiral in a special race at Pimlico early in November. Riddle has made known his intention of sending War Admiral after his second Widener handicap victory at Miami, and there is a possibility Seabiscuit will pass up a third try at the Santa Anita handicap in favor of the same race.

"War Admiral wasn't himself that day," Kurtsinger said. "The tipoff came in the first quarter. Although I had a steadying hold, you know he should have stepped it to the first turn in better than :47 2-5. Look at his Derby—other races. Too much cup racing, I guess.

"Even so, when we moved to him at the five-eighths pole I felt like we were a cinch. Then under George Woolf's hustling Seabiscuit moved with us. I cracked him once and we were in the van. Woolf cracked back and they were in the lead. Then I realized that War Admiral was off."

Carlson Wins Over Varipapa by 207 Pins

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

Adolph Carlson of the Chicago Pabst Blue Ribbons defeated Andy Varipapa of Brooklyn by 207 pins in their forty game bowling match which ended last night on the 29 West Randolph alleys. A purse of $1,000 went to the winner.

Although handicapped by a crack in the flesh of the right thumb, Carlson went through his forty games with only one error, a miss that occurred when he picked the six pin and left the ten. The grand totals for the match were: 8,525 for Carlson and 8,318 for Varipapa.

The Fans Like It.

Capacity crowds watched each of the four sessions, and hundreds were turned away because of the limited seating space. The match proved so successful that Carlson will appear in another against Nelson Burton of St. Louis in a sixty game home and home series in February.

At the end of the first ten games, Varipapa held a fifty pin lead. Carlson led by sixty-six pins at the end of the second, and increased this to 113 after thirty games. With victory in sight and urged on by his fellow members of the Pabst team, he kept adding to his margin, and by finishing with a 265 game piled up his final advantage.

Skipper Chapman's final score was forty-two points. Lockwood Pirie, with Joe Haller as crew, was second with thirty-eight points. Harry Nye, whose crew was Jack Ritchie, scored twenty-eight points for third.

Seven Frostbite dinghies of the Jackson Park Yacht club class sailed seven races in the outer Jackson Park harbor yesterday. Francis Byrne, with Ted Fanof as crew, won the meet with eighty points. The dinghy owned by Mrs. Margaret Byrne, but sailed by Douglas Palm and Morton Henry, was second with seventy points. Bert Billheimer, with Mrs. Billheimer as crew, was third with sixty points.

HEAD LINESMAN A HEADACHE TO CURLY LAMBEAU

Coach Claims Conover Beat Green Bay.

New York, Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Curly Lambeau, coach of the Green Bay Packers eleven, tonight charged that the officiating of Larry Conover, head linesman in today's thrilling encounter with the Giants, cost Green Bay the world championship.

"I don't want to say this in the form of an alibi," Lambeau said, "but in my opinion Conover definitly was wrong when in the second period he ruled Tuffy Leemans' pass to Len Barnum complete. Moving pictures of the play will prove that Barnum fumbled immediately, the ball going out of bounds, and that the receiver had not held it long enough to establish possession. Since that play led to a Giant touchdown, Conover's decision hurt us plenty.

Curley Can't Understand.

"Then late in the last quarter Arnold Herbert threw a first down pass to Milt Gantenbein, our end, and Conover called Gantenbein an ineligible receiver, although how he arrived at such a conclusion is beyond me, because Bernie Scherer, our other end, was at least a yard behind the line of scrimmage. So, instead of our being in possession of the ball in Giant territory, New York took it over in our zone. The movies will prove that I'm right about this play, too."

There will be no official protest made by Lambeau. "There is nothing that can be done about it now," he said, "but it just isn't fair for us to lose a game on account of incompetent officiating. That's my sincere opinion."

To Go Home Today.

Green Bay suffered no serious physical injuries, Curley said. He added that "the only thing hurt was our feelings." The squad plans to return to Green Bay some time tomorrow.

Conover could not be reached for his version of the two rulings, but Steve Owen, coach of the Giants, said that Lambeau's version of the ineligible pass receiver was wrong.

"Why, Gantenbein and Scherer were playing side by side on the line at the time," he said, "and it's to Conover's credit that he called the play as he saw it."

The Giants were a happy group as they forced their way through the mob on their return to the dressing room. Owen praised every man for a job well done and the hilarious players shook hands and hugged each other.

Coach Praises Everybody.

Owen stressed the great work of Hank Soar, Ed Danowski, Tuffy Leemans, Ward Cuff, Mel Hein, Ed Widseth, Jim Poole, Jim Lee Howell, Orville Tuttle, and virtually every man on the squad. "I think we proved beyond a doubt that we were not lucky when we beat the Packers the last time," he said. "Our blocking was great."

I knocked on the door of memory

And I wandered within the portals
As gay as a child again.
And the memories gathered closely
Like ghosts from the long ago;
I was filled with insatiable longing
For something I used to know.

I'd forgotten so much of beauty—
Forgotten so many tears,
But here they were all together
Like friends from across the years.
How I reveled in every moment
As I quietly lingered there
And listened to loving voices
As they echoed everywhere.

But the reminiscing was over
Much to my heart's regret,
And I closed the door of memory—
Although I shall not forget.

Giants Defeat Packers for Title, 23 to 17

seemingly had begun to find itself, its attack had regained a measure of coördination, and linemen, getting back into the feel of things after a twenty-one day rest, were operating with all the viciousness and effectiveness of the Giants' highly touted blocking battalion. When Joe Laws brought the second half kickoff back twenty-nine yards, and Bobby Monnett scampered thirty-three yards down the sidelines to the Giants' 29 yard line, a Packer victory appeared inevitable. On fourth down, with a yard to go on the 5 yard line, Engebretsen kicked his field goal, sending Green Bay into the lead for the first time.

But the same recklessness that had made their second period offensive so devastating, soon proved to be the Packers' undoing. Before they could regain the ball, they were beaten. Linemen lunged fiercely, boring deep behind the line of scrimmage and alert Giant backs merely hesitated, sidestepped their charge and cut back through gaping holes for gains that produced three consecutive first downs and thirty-five yards. This placed the ball on the 23 yard line. On second down Danowski rifled the ball down to the 5 yard line, where Poole and Soar went up with Herman Schneidman, Packer quarter back, to make the catch. Poole's leap knocked Schneidman out of the path of the ball and Soar made the catch. Hinkle hit him on the 1 yard line and he fell over the goal for the touchdown which meant the championship and qualified the Giants to represent the National league in the all-star game.

Pass Attack Fails.

Green Bay received and marched back again, but this time it was to be its last concentrated drive. It ended with Danowski intercepting Cecil Isbell's pass on the Giants' 30 yard line. From here on the breaks went against the Packers and the fire went out of their attack. Their offense for the next period and a half consisted only of attempts to click on one of those celebrated game-breaking passes which have become traditional in the league. Three times receivers, away in the clear, missed by inches on Herber's long passes.

Don Hutson came into the game three times in an attempt to bolster the offense, but the leg injury which kept him out of the last Giant game, when Green Bay lost, 15 to 3, prevented him from being of any value beyond resting Wayland Becker who, with Ends Poole and Howell of the Giants, stood out as the stars of the game. Don's last appearance was in the waning minutes, after the teams had been brought back into view by turning on the flood lights. The stage was set for a dramatic finish. On the first play he went far down the field to the left. Giant secondary defenders, ignoring him as a harmless cripple, permitted him to get clear. But Herber, backing away from Giant linemen, passed to C. Mulleneaux, who missed getting under the ball by a stride in the end zone.

Yards Are Useless.

Statistically the game was a duplicate of the Packers' last two visits to the Polo Grounds, when they outgained the Giants, but lost both times. They led in first downs, 14 to 10; gained 164 yards to 115 on the ground and 214 to 94 in the air. Their total yards gained were 378 to the Giants' 212. New York attempted fifteen passes and completed eight, while Green Bay completed only eight of nineteen attempts. Hinkle and Soar were the leading ground gainers, picking up sixty-eight yards apiece, the Green Bay full back in eighteen attempts and Soar in twenty.

ILLINOIS SKATE OFFICIALS WILL MEET TONIGHT

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

SMALL SAVERS' BILLIONS USED ON U. S. DEFICIT

Baby Bond Sales Top $2,000,000,000.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—The public has helped the government finance its deficits to the extent of $2,000,000,000 through purchases of United States Savings ["baby"] bonds since they were first issued March 1, 1935.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced today that the maturity value of bonds sold had passed the two billion dollar mark Nov. 30. He said nothing of the bonds' connection with the deficit.

He emphasized that the bonds were not "primarily" designed to meet the government's current need for funds. However, it is well known by fiscal officials that sale of these bonds has aided materially in bringing the government the funds which it has needed over and above its revenues to finance administration spending.

Illinois Leads States.

The maturity value of the bonds sold through Nov. 30 was $2,013,114,000, representing sales of 7,200,000 bonds to about 1,400,000 investors.

Illinois led the state in the amount of bonds purchased, the maturity value of the bonds sold there amounting to $217,416,300. New York state was second with $162,256,975, and Pennsylvania third with $122,397,325. Connecticut had $12,682,625 and New Jersey $46,301,625.

By cities, Chicago was in the lead with sales in terms of maturity value of the bonds aggregating $112,606,425. New York City was second at $97,257,925. Detroit, Mich., and Washington, D. C., each had sales records as of Nov. 30 of $35,032,950.

For Small Investors.

Since the bonds are designed for purchase by small investors, the treasury prohibits any one purchaser from taking more than $10,000 of bonds in any one year. More than 130,000 investors buy them monthly. While they have a fixed maturity of ten years, they may be redeemed for cash at any time after sixty days from issuance.

Showing the growth of sales, the treasury's statement said bonds with $259,000,800 maturity value were sold in the initial ten months of 1935; $473,515,000 in the calendar year 1936; $635,419,100 in the calendar year 1937, and $645,178,100 through the first eleven months of the current year.

ACCUSE PAPER DISH FIRMS OF FIXING PRICES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The federal trade commission issued an order today prohibiting seventeen manufacturers of paper, pulp, and wooden dishes from "unlawfully fixing prices."

The companies' products are used principally as food containers by grocers, delicatessen stores, and meat markets. Food Dish Associates of America, an unincorporated trade association whose activities as such ended in May, 1937, and its secretary and treasurer, Allan P. Durgin, also were respondents.

The commission said Food Dish Associates of America, formed in 1933, attempted to "stabilize and supervise production and distribution in the industry." It added that in July, 1936, the association became inactive and all members dropped out except eight. These eight reorganized it, the commission said, and continued the association until about May 1, 1937, when its activities ceased.

MYSTERY ASSETS HUNTED IN PROBE OF BIG DRUG FIRM

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—A search was on today by federal and state agencies for millions of dollars in assets of the drug firm of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., assets which the attorney general was told "may be nonexistent."

The first of the hearings being conducted by State's Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr. into the firm's affairs, indicated the possibility that $18,000,000 of assets are at the moment unlocated, instead of the $10,000,000 previously mentioned.

Pending a further inquiry into this testimony, a court order was issued which tied up the $100,000, brokerage account of Mrs. Carol E. Coster. She is the wife of F. Donald Coster, president of McKesson & Robbins.

The investigation was begun by five federal, state, and local agencies after the company filed a petition to reorganize under section 10 of the Chandler act, the new federal bankruptcy procedure, admitting the assets of the company to have been overstated by at least $10,000,000.

STEEL OUTPUT RESISTS USUAL YEAR-END DIP

Steel production last week resisted the seasonal lag of the approaching close of the year, the magazine Steel said yesterday. The nation's mills operated at an average of 61 per cent of potential output, which was unchanged from the previous week. Last year in the same week the rate was 27 per cent.

Buying of finished steel will revive during the first quarter of 1939, the trade journal predicted. Stocks of sheet and strip will be lighter than was expected and consumers will be ordering for future needs, it said.

Improvement in consumption by the automobile, railroad equipment, and building industries is in prospect for the new year, said Steel.

"Steel prices are generally steady," the journal said.

"Except in areas influenced by export business, scrap markets are easy and the scrap composite is down 9 cents to $14.66."

Put 30 Million C. & O. Bonds on the Market

A $30,000,000 issue of Chesapeake and Ohio railway refunding and improvement mortgage 3½ per cent bonds, series "F," due 1963, will be offered to the public today. Investment houses in Chicago and Cleveland are handling the offering.

Bankers said the issue is one of the largest pieces of corporate financing to be underwritten outside Wall street in many years. The issue drew attention in view of Washington efforts to encourage regional financing of industry.

The issue is being put on the market by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., Chicago, and Otis & Co., Cleveland, on behalf of a banking group. The bonds are priced at 101½ and accrued interest to yield 3.41 per cent.

Net proceeds to the company of the sale of the bonds, together with other funds, will be used to retire a like amount of the company's first consolidated mortgage 5 per cent bonds at their maturity May 1, 1939.

Expect SEC Will Modify Rules for Underwriting

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—Changes in rules under the securities act of 1933 to modify some of the requirements of underwriters of securities, are expected to be promulgated by the Securities and Exchange commission within a few days. In what manner the present requirements are to be changed, and to what extent, were matters which members of the commission declined to discuss today.

Cent. Electric & Telephone Orders Preferred Dividend

The Central Electric and Telephone company, Sioux City, Ia., yesterday announced that its board of directors had declared the regular semi-annual preferred dividend. A payment of $1.50 a share on the $50 par value preferred was ordered, payable Dec. 24 to holders of record Dec. 16.

Everyday Economics

Envelopes.

One of the numerous "unofficial" indices of business activity is the volume of envelope sales. When business is good, mail runs heavy and envelope makers share in the prosperity. When business is poor the extra envelopes bought by the bill collectors do not entirely make up for the sales lost to users of mail for advertising and general business purposes, although these conflicting factors tend to make envelope sales more stable than many other lines.

Another stabilizing factor is the volume of personal correspondence which is maintained fairly steadily in both black and red years.

The total value of all products made by the envelope industry in 1937 was $51,289,922, an increase of 17.6 per cent over the value for 1935 of $40,022,926. The 1933 value amounted to $33,895,511. [Figures from the government bureau of census.]

The industry figures include makers of envelopes of any description, including those for filing and wrapping. In 1937 the industry paid $10,502,815 to 9,511 wage earners. This compared with $9,086,718 paid to 9,038 earners in 1935.

STANDARD (IND.) SETS REFINERY SAFETY RECORD

Seventeen accident prevention awards have been made to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana by the American Petroleum institute, Edward G. Seubert, president of Standard, announced yesterday. The company established a new world safety record for refineries and was cited for an outstanding record in accident prevention for the wholesale and retail marketing department.

The world record was set when the company's Whiting, Ind., refinery completed 3,631,697 man hours, or 166 days, of operation without a disabling injury or loss of time because of accident. The refinery also set the previous world record, which was 2,773,435 hours.

The refining department won seven awards and the marketing department won nine.

Reserve Board Industry Index Tops 100 Mark

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The federal reserve board announced today that its index of industrial production had passed 100—formerly regarded as the normal level.

The figure of 100 on the board's index equals industrial activity of the 1923-'25 period. Making allowances for growth of population and industrial capacity, economists now place the "normal" figure—representing a rate of industrial activity at which unemployment would virtually disappear—at about 140.

However, the 100-plus rating of industrial output which the board reported represented a rise of about 25 points from the recession low of last May. It showed American factories had reached the level of October, 1937, which was the second month in which the recession curtailed production. The recovery peak was 118.

At 96 in October.

Exact index figures for November will not be available for two weeks, but the board said in its monthly bulletin:

"Business activity increased in November, continuing the rise which began early last summer. Industrial production, as measured by the board's seasonally adjusted index, reached a level slightly over 100 per cent of the 1923-'25 average, as compared with 96 in October and an average of 77 in the second 1938 quarter.

"The advance in November reflected chiefly a further substantial increase in steel production, and increases in output of automobiles and textiles."

$6,700,000,000 Cash Outstanding.

The bulletin also ascribed the recent increase of money in circulation to a combination of increased use of cash instead of checks, hoarding of American money by foreigners, and improved business.

American coin and currency outstanding in the hands of the public and banks now total more than $6,700,000,000, a figure exceeded only during the 1933 bank holiday, when the whole country temporarily had to go on a cash basis. During the Czecho-Slovakian crisis last September about $16,000,000 of American currency was shipped abroad to foreigners seeking an apparently safe type of paper to hoard in case war disrupted finance.

ODLUM WINNER IN U. P. L. NOTE PURCHASE FIGHT

Subsidiary Will Buy Up Debentures.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—[Special.]—A subsidiary of Utilities Power and Light corporation was authorized by the Securities and Exchange commission today to use $9,000,000 of the subsidiary's $12,000,000 cash fund for the purchase of debentures of the parent company. The purchase price per debenture was set at $70. The subsidiary is the Utilities Power and Light Corp., Ltd., of Canada.

[The 5 per cent debentures were quoted at 61 in the market Dec. 7 and the 5½s at 60. The SEC, however, said the book value was "in excess of 70."]

The decision not only goes far to aid in the affairs of the parent company, a utility holding concern now in reorganization under the bankruptcy act, but marks another victory for Floyd B. Odlum and his Atlas corporation in struggles involving Utilities Power. The issue in today's decision was a disagreement as to how the cash should be used. Odlum and Atlas, an investment company, have waged a long fight with the Associated Gas and Electric interests over this and other questions.

Follows $3,200,000 "Peace."

One phase of the struggle ended last Wednesday in an amicable settlement of claims made against the parent U. P. & L. by Odlum and Atlas. Associated Gas interests, holding an interest in Utilities Power, fought the claims, but on Wednesday agreed to a $3,200,000 settlement after hearings in Federal Judge William H. Holly's court in Chicago. The original claims were $4,200,000.

Two Pleas Before SEC.

Two applications were before the SEC, one of them backed by Odlum and the other by the Associated interests. Odlum's application was approved by the securities commission in modified form and with certain conditions. It asked authority to use the 12 million dollars of the Canadian subsidiary to purchase outstanding debentures of the parent company at a price fixed by the commission, or to permit the parent company to take 10 million dollars of the cash and distribute it to creditors.

The application backed by the Associated interests asked authority for the Canadian subsidiary to acquire to the extent of $3,000,000 securities of certain associated companies.

Decision Later on $3,000,000.

The commission in its decision today authorized the applicant Canadian subsidiary to buy $9,000,000 of the parent company's debentures at $70, but left the matter of the remaining $3,000,000 for determination at a later date.

While disposition of the $3,000,000 was left open, the commission's opinion indicated that the commission might decide to allow the money to be used for additional purchases of debentures, or to permit all or part of it to be used for the purchase of securities of subsidiaries.

However, since Associated opposed the use of the funds for purchase of the parent company's debentures, the decision was a blow to its position.

The commission pointed out that the order it issued is "merely permissive in character," since the matter concerned must finally be passed upon by the district court for the northern district of Illinois.

Phillips Petroleum.

Investors' Guide: Have the earnings of big oil companies been much affected by lower prices for crude oil this year? For example, what about the Phillips Petroleum company? Also did it have any properties in Mexico? Please send me a report on the company.—H. J.

Answer: The general cut in crude oil prices made in October fell hardest on those companies which owned substantial producing properties. It meant that they would receive less for the raw product. But before this the refineries had taken the biggest losses, because they were paying a fixed price for the raw petroleum, although the prices at which they could sell gasoline and other refined products had already declined.

Phillips Petroleum has developed one of the most nearly complete organizations in the oil industry. It is an extensive producer and refiner and has transportation and marketing facilities. This integrated setup did not, however, protect the company entirely from the effects of falling prices, because the drop went all the way from consumer to producer.

Net profit in the first nine months of this year declined to $9,471,956 or $2.13 a common share, less than half the net profit of $19,813,719 or $4.45 a share in the first nine months of 1937.

For the full year 1937, the company made net profit of $24,114,000, an all time peak. This represented an uninterrupted improvement in earnings from 1931, when a net loss of $5,576,000 was incurred.

In the last five years, about $100,000,000 has been spent for enlarging and improving plants and equipment, including $32,000,000 in 1937. Part of last year's expenditures was financed by the sale of $9,000,000 serial notes bringing the total of these notes now outstanding to $21,000,000. They are due in instalments from 1939 through 1945. Other loans of $4,600,000 are due in 1938 and 1939.

CORN DISPLACES WHEAT AS GRAIN MARKET LEADER

European Demand Causes Increase in Price.

Corn has displaced wheat as the leader in the grain markets. Prices of corn last week were at the highest level since September. They have been rising slowly for several weeks. Traders say the main cause of the price increase is an aggressive European demand. They cite as another influence the fact that the market for this grain is not dominated by the various governments, as is the case with wheat under the subsidy programs.

European buyers are said to have found it impossible to get Argentine corn in large quantities except at prices higher than those in the American market. The new Argentine crop will not be available for export until about April 30. This leaves Rumania as the only important corn producer that is in a position to compete with United States traders.

Estimate Corn Exports.

Cash handlers in this country expect corn exports between last Nov. 1 and next April 30 to reach 50,000,000 bushels.

In the 1937-'38 crop year American corn exports totaled 150,000,000 bushels, the largest since 1922-'23. The normal annual world trade in corn is 300,000,000 to 400,000,000 bushels.

Speculative trading in the world wheat market is now at a low ebb, although a total of about 50,000,000 bushels of cash wheat is estimated to have been purchased in exporting countries in the last ten days for shipment to Europe.

Raising Turkeys

December 11, 1938.

TURKEY raising has been found a profitable sideline to general grain and live stock farming in Du Page county. During the last four years more than 7,400 turkeys have been raised on Daniel F. Rice's Danada farms on Naperville road, two miles south of Wheaton.

More than 3,000 Bronze and Narragansett turkeys have been produced on the Rice farms this year. Royal A. Blazey, manager of the farms, started raising turkeys in 1935. He began by producing about 500 and has increased the size of the flock each succeeding year, raising 1,500 the second year and 2,400 last year.

More than 1,500 of the birds were raised and sold for Thanksgiving and 1,500 more are now being fattened for Christmas. The birds are dressed at the farm.

Two Flocks Each Year.

Two flocks, one early and one late, are produced each year. The early turkeys are sold at Thanksgiving time and the late ones are sold for Christmas. Their weights vary, usually ranging from 10 to 30 pounds dressed. In a few cases birds have been developed on the farm to weigh 34 pounds when six months old.

They are raised primarily for the two turkey dinner seasons. Blazey finds that the tendency to eat turkeys at other times of the year is increasing, especially in winter months. With most of the crop consumed at the two main holiday periods, Thanksgiving and Christmas, there still is a definite limit to the business of raising turkeys on a commercial scale in the middle west.

Experience at the Danada farms indicates that despite all the advancement made in recent years in the raising of turkeys on restricted range, the business is hazardous, requiring knowledge of sanitation, balanced rations, and constant attention.

Eggs from California.

Turkey eggs used by the Danada farms are produced in California and shipped by express. They are hatched in incubators at Byron, Ill. There is wide variation in the number of eggs hatched and the number of poults raised to maturity. Records on the farms show that normally about 80 per cent of the eggs hatch and approximately 80 per cent of the poults are saved.

The first batch of eggs was hatched this year during the last week in April and the second batch the first week in July. The poults are kept in a brooder house, equipped with electric hovers, and allowed to run outside on a sun porch with a wire netting floor. They are kept in the brooder house until well feathered. This usually takes from eight to ten weeks. From then on they are kept in portable pens on open range. The pens are shifted every two weeks. Each flock of about 1,500 birds was allowed to range over two acres of pasture this summer and fall. During the last month the birds are kept in smaller pens while they are being fattened for market. Trouble with diseases is avoided by keeping the poults on sun porches with wire netting floors and by frequent shifting of the older birds to clean range.

COTTON QUOTA WINS; RICE AND TOBACCO LOSE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—(AP)—The nation's cotton farmers have voted to continue federal marketing controls for 1939. In one of three referendums conducted in the south and far west yesterday, producers of the south's big cash crop returned a majority for a proposal of the agricultural department that it be given authority to regulate sales of next year's crop.

However, in two more localized elections, growers of flue cured tobacco and rice apparently rejected similar controls for their crops.

A tabulation of about 90 per cent of the expected ballots gave 940,393 votes for cotton marketing quotas and 177,855 against.

With about 90 per cent of the expected returns tabulated, the tobacco referendum gave 130,372 for quotas and 98,658 against, far short of the two-thirds margin.

Tabulations from the rice election representing about two-thirds of the anticipated vote, showed quotas trailing by a count of 3,452 to 3,812.
